Railroads Granted 12.5 Per Cent Fare Increase by State

Ten Lines in New York to Get $2,373,000 Extra in Revenue; Equal Other Areas

Albany, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—Ten railroads operating in New York had permission today to boost intrastate passenger fares by 12.5 per cent.

The increases were authorized yesterday by the Public Service Commission in a 4-1 decision. Commuter rates were not affected.

The railroads may put the new fares into effect upon three days' notice to the public.

Thei ncrease will give the railroads an additional $2,373,000 a year, the P.S.C. estimated.

The Commission turned down a request by the carriers for an increase from 12 to 20 cents in the minimum fare for short-distance riders. However, the 12.5 per cent boost will be paid by such passengers.

The coach rate will rise from 3 cents to 3.375 cents a mile and parlor and sleeping car fares will go from 4 to 4.5 cents a mile.

On Same Level

The increase, the Commissioner said, will place New York intrastate passenger fares on the same level as those charged by the railroads for interstate fares in 13 other states north of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi.

On Nov. 28, 1949, the Interstate Commerce Commission granted a 12.5 per cent increase in interstate fares to the same railways.

All the states, except New York, then allowed similar intrastate fare boosts.

In denying a petition for new fares then, the P.S.C. contended that an increase would force a decline in passenger traffic. It said increased first-class passenger fares would be on a level with those of air travel and in some cases coach fares would be almost double comparable bus rates.

Majority's Report

In approving the increase, the Commission majority said yesterday:

"Since December 1949, the entire economic aspect has changed. The outbreak of the conflict in Korea has produced a resurgence of inflation. The prices of materials vital to railroad operations have experienced sharp advances. Additional equipment required in meeting the needs of a full-scale national preparedness effort must be purchased at inflated costs. Substantial pay increases have recently been granted to non-operating employes and higher wages for operating employes are imminently contemplated.

The fare increases were approved by Chairman Benjamin J. Feinberg and Commissioners Glen R. Bedenkapp, Francis T. Mylott and Paul E. Lockwood.

Short Hauls Discouraged

Commissioner Spencer B. Eddy agreed that the carriers needed more revenue to meet increased expenses. But, he contended the increased fares would have a

Agenda Situation Is Not Clear; Still Hope for Top Parley

Paris, March 12 (AP)—The four power deputies opened their second week of meetings today, fortified by a French lunch designed to "ease the tension."

Delegates from the U. S., Russia, Britain and France — who are deadlocked in their efforts to arrange a foreign ministers' conference—went to Paris' Rose Palace directly from the lunch at which Foreign Minister Robert Schuman was host.

A French official said he hoped the lunch helped "ease the tension," but an American official said, "it was just another lunch."

The western delegates went into the meeting expecting Russia's Andrei Gromyko to turn down a compromise proposal on a Big Four agenda submitted late Saturday by France's Alexandre Parodi.

Just how far they have progressed toward setting up an agenda was still clouded in confusion.

Steps Are Taken

British delegate Ernest Davies said steps have been taken to reach an agenda by next weekend. But a spokesman for U. S. Ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup said he knew of no such steps.

The French have told reporters they hope a foreign ministers' meeting can be held even if the current talks drag on for a couple of weeks more without result. Foreign Minister Robert Schuman said yesterday the talks "should normally lead to an easing of the tension."

The Russians refuse to say anything at all on this subject or any other. Unlike the western delegations, the Soviets have not held open briefings for reporters. Newsmen must pick up accounts of Andrei Gromyko's speeches from the other delegations, or read them in agency Tass.

'No' Expected

From the few words he got on the record Saturday—despite Davies' hurry to get away for a trip to Britain—Gromyko pretty well convinced the rest of the delegates that he would keynote today's session with a resounding "Nyet"—the characteristic Russian no.

Through French delegate Alexandre Parodi, the three western powers have presented a new draft agenda. It specifies that the Big Four could talk about such matters as fear of aggression, whether treaties have been carried out, how much armed force their respective countries have and how many soldiers Germany ought to have.

Divorce Is Granted

Key West, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Mrs. Minneva Bell Ross was divorced here today, clearing the way for her marriage to Elliott Roosevelt. The decree was signed by Circuit Judge Aquilino Lopez at 10:30 a. m. Her divorce was from Dr. Rex L. Ross of Santa Monica, Calif., who in a California action last year accused her of "touring the country" with Roosevelt. Elliott must wait three days under Florida law before he can marry Mrs. Ross. It will be the fourth marriage for each.

Dennis Is Released

New York, March 12 (AP)—Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist party in the U. S., was released from prison today after serving 10 months for contempt of Congress. "Now, I'm in good fighting trim," he told reporters, explaining he had lost 50 pounds while in prison. "I will really crusade for peace."

Ferry Might Resume Soon

The office of the New York State Bridge Authority here said today that U. S. Coast Guard inspectors are expected to make their annual inspection of the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry within a few days and it may be in operation by the end of the week.

The boat was not placed in dry dock during the months it has been out of service but its motor has been completely overhauled and it has been repainted. It was indicated that if inspection is completed on time it may be in service by Saturday.

Casey Questioned About RFC Fees; To Supply Details

Former Congressman Put on Stand to Tell About $15,800 He Received

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Joseph E. Casey, former Congress member, testified today he invested $20,000 in a company which bought five surplus government tankers and later sold the stock for about $270,000.

Casey, now practicing law in Washington, was asked about the ship deal by Senators looking into alleged use of influence on government agencies. He is a former Democratic House member from Massachusetts.

The senators had developed earlier that Casey had been associated with Joseph Rosenbaum in practice before the Maritime Commission and had received $15,800 in fees from Rosenbaum.

Asked About Fees

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Senators trailing reports of influence of government agencies today questioned Joseph E. Casey, a former Congress member, about $15,800 in fees from Joseph H. Rosenbaum for maritime commission practice.

Rosenbaum, a Washington lawyer, has been a central figure in a Senate banking subcommittee's hearings on alleged influence and favoritism in lending by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The group has asserted that Rosenbaum had unusual success in getting R.F.C. loans. It attributed this in part to Rosenbaum's friendship with White House Aide Donald Dawson and E. Merle Young., Washington insurance man whose wife is a White House stenographer.

Asked About Fees

Casey, a former Democratic House member from Massachusetts, was questioned about fees for maritime commission practice as preliminary to exploration of $6,300,000 of R.F.C. loans to the Central Iron and Steel Corp., of Harrisburg, Pa.

The subcommittee told him it understood he had received a $5,800 fee from Rosenbaum on March 10, 1950, and a $10,000 one a year earlier.

Casey testified "I don't remember" the basis for the $10,000 payment but promised to supply the details later.

He said he and Rosenbaum both owned stock in a company which had bought five surplus vessels.

He identified the firm as "American Overseas Tanker."

Big Battle To Be Based On Tax Pool

Civil Defense, Loyalty Program Are Two Other Items of Week in Legislature

System Criticized

Opposition Says Plan Is Wrong, Hurts Small Employer

Albany, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—The Legislature's Democratic minority today accused the Republicans of sponsoring a $600,000,000 "kick-back" to big business from the state's unemployment insurance pool.

The Democratic charge touched off what will be the session's bitterest battle as the Legislature races toward adjournment, probably Friday.

Noisy debate lies ahead on two of Governor Dewey's major program measures—civil defense and a "loyalty" program for state and local civil service workers.

But neither will generate as much heat as the fight over the Hughes-Brees "true merit rating" bill to revise the unemployment insurance system.

Both wings of organized labor—the C.I.O. and the State Federation of Labor—have allied themselves with the Democrats in the battle.

A few Republicans also may come out against the bill.

It would reduce the unemployment insurance tax for firms with stable employment records, tighten eligibility requirements for beneficiaries, and increase the maximum weekly benefit for employes from $26 to $30.

No Endorsement Given

Governor Dewey has not endorsed the Hughes-Brees bill, although he has said firms with stable employment records should benefit from a lower jobless insurance tax rate.

One influential Republican said today the bill might have to be made a "party measure" to get it through the Legislature.

The Democratic leaders—Senator Elmer F. Quinn and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut—charged in a statement that the Hughes-Brees bill would be "a shocking blow to small business."

They said the proposal was "an equally vicious blow at the long fought for rights of working men and women, for it will make it burdensome and difficult for those out of work to receive benefits."

The Democrats criticized the entire "merit rating" system—by which employers with stable employment records receive tax abatements if the jobless insurance fund stays over a $900,000,000 minimum.

Separate Accounts

The Hughes-Brees bill would set up separate accounts for individual employers and thus virtually guarantee reduced tax rates for firms with stable employment records.

Only employers contribute to the fund.

Quinn and Steingut contended that under the merit rating plan, "millions of dollars have been taken out of the state unemployment insurance fund—a $900,000,000 reserve against depression—and returned to those employers with the largest payrolls on a year-around basis."

They added:

"Small employers, particularly those in industries where employment is of necessity on a seasonal basis, have been forced to

U.N. Tank Units Reach Point Five Miles From Hongchon, Big Staging Area

33,000 Reds Lost

Ridgway Says Six-Day Push Has Cost Foe Heavily

Tokyo, March 12 (AP)—A spectacular explosion of two colliding Russian-made jet planes stole the Korean War spotlight today as ground action slowed behind retreating Communists.

The MIGs were trying to make a tight turn while chasing an American F-80 Thunderjet. They couldn't cut it fine enough, collided and exploded.

"Best damn show I've ever been on," said Lt. Arthur Walton of Bethesda, Md., one of the pilots in a flight of four F-80s attacked by 16 speedy Red planes.

The four F-80s reported they damaged four other MIG-15s in a 10-minute dogfight. That brought the bag of damaged MIGs to seven for the biggest two days of jet fighting over Northwest Korea in this war.

61 MIGs in Actions

A total of 61 MIGs in flights of 10 to 20 each engaged U. S. F-80s and F-86s in four dogfights Sunday and today.

On the ground, Red resistance collapsed on the east central front and faded sharply before a three-pronged Allied spearhead along the west-central sector of the Allies' advancing 70-mile line.

United Nations tank columns rolled to within five miles of Hongchon on the west-central front. Hongchon is a great Communist troop staging area and once was reported to be Chinese general headquarters.

UN forces met little resistance as they probed within sight of the big Red supply center. Only the day before, Reds before Hongchon fought stiff rear-guard action, indicating they would make a last-ditch stand.

British, Canadian and Australian troops were within five miles of Hongchon on the south. They were 22 miles south of the 38th parallel.

A U. S. First Cavalary division tank force stabbed three miles forward Monday to within five miles of the Red center on the southwest.

Six Miles Away

U. S. First Division Marines, approaching Hongchon from the southeast, were reported six miles away.

North Korean resistance collapsed on the east-central front. Allied troops moved in quickly behind the fleeing Reds and seized mile-high Mount Taemi without firing a shot.

Seizure of the commanding peak straightened out the east-central front. It was dented five miles last week by a ferocious Korean Red counterattack.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U. S. Eighth Army commander, told war correspondents that U. N. "forces have let a lot of air out of the inflated balloon of the Chinese military establishments."

33,000 Reds Lost

In six days the grinding Allied offensive has killed or wounded about 33,000 Communist troops.

Ridgway said the ratio of Communist casualties to U.N. losses was "well over 60 to 1."

The commander said "it would be a tremendous victory for the United Nations" if the Korean war ended at the 38th Parallel. The parallel was the pre-war dividing line between Red North and republican South Korea.

But, Ridgway added, he knew of no plan to end the fighting there.

"If Communist China failed to drive us into the sea, that would be a defeat for her of incalculable importance," Ridgway said.

". . . The degree to which we deflate her military reputation," he continued, influences the thinking of millions and millions of people in Asia.

Ridgway said also that new American troops are appearing in Korea as replacements for combat veterans. He called it the beginning of a "greatly increased flow of replacements."

The Chinese Nationalist Defense Ministry reported from Taipei that heavy losses have forced the Chinese Communists to order more than 200,000 more troops to Korea, including a whole new army.

Approval Is Given

Oslo, Norway, March 12 (AP)—Norway's Parliament (Storting) today approved this country's joining the North Atlantic Pact army commanded by General Dwight D. Eisenhower. There were only four votes against the government proposal.

Track Counsel Paid $60,000 Protection Against Bookies

Two Are Killed By Gun Blasts

Murder, Suicide Verdict Given by Coroner at Highland Mills

Highland Mills, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—A man and a woman were found dead of shotgun blasts in the head in the man's room at a summer resort here yesterday.

Coroner Kenneth M. Black issued a verdict of murder and suicide. He found that John Babcock, 41, a well digger estranged from his wife, shot Mrs. Jerome Stead, 39, wife of a Monroe, N. Y. building contractor, and then shot himself.

Mrs. Snead was the mother of two teen-age girls, and Babcock was the father of a 17-year-old boy.

The bodies were found in Babcock's room on the top floor of the three-story main building of Hillside Colony, a resort in the thickly wooded and sparsely settled hills. State police declined to disclose the contents of a note they said they found in the room.

Killed By Shot

State police said Babcock apparently killed Mrs. Stead with a single shot in the head from a 12-gauge, single-barrel shotgun. Police said that he then lay on the bed and shot himself in the head. The shotgun, the muzzle just below his chin, was laying lengthwise on Babcock's body. Next to it was a 2 foot twig with forked end which police said Babcock apparently used to push the trigger. The heads of both were hardly recognizable. Relatives identified the bodies.

James M. Kelley, a summertime worker at the colony who lives there throughout the year, said he saw Babcock at 4:45 p. m.

Levy Says Sum Given to Costello as Move to Save License for Raceway

New York, March 12 (AP)—George Morton Levy, general counsel for Roosevelt Raceway, told the Senate Crime Investigation Committee today that he paid Frank Costello, gambing figure, $60,000 to rid the race track of bookmakers.

Levy said he made the move to try to save the fashionable trotting track's license after a state official warned him the track was "invested with bookies."

The attorney, appearing at the start of a climactic series of committee hearings, said he paid Costello $15,000 a year for four years ending in 1949.

Warned by Downey

He testified the late New York State Harness Racing Commissioner Benjamin Downey had warned him about the bookies, and said, "if you don't stop it, I'll take your license away."

The commissioner, Levy said, apparently knew he was seeking the services of Costello, named recently by the committee as one of the nation's crime syndicate bosses.

Socially elite crowds attend the track's nightly trotting during the summer season.

Levy contended he had known the reputed gambling czar for 20 or 25 years and considered him a friend.

'Reputation Unfair'

Asked if he considered Costello's reputation "not deserved," Levy replied that he often played golf with the gambler, and:

"I know if he got a nine on the golf course, he said he got a nine. He claimed that the reputation

Atom Spy Worker Identifies Sketch Passed to Russia

David Greenglass, Former Army Sergeant, Says Rosenberg Also Got Scientists' Names

New York, March 12 (AP)—A confessed spy who worked on the atom bomb project at Los Alamos, N. M., identified in federal court today a copy of a secret sketch he said he gave his brother-in-law in January, 1945, for use by Russia.

Former Army Sgt. David Greenglass, the witness, said the sketch showed a lens mould used in the atomic process. He said he also turned over to Julius Rosenberg, the brother-in-law, a list of scientists working on the atomic project.

Rosenberg, an electrical engineer, his wife, Ethel, who is a sister of Greenglass, and Morton Sobell, a radar expert, are charged with conspiring to commit wartime espionage—an offense that carries a possible death penalty.

On Furlough at Time

Greenglass said he was on a 22-day furlough to New York when he gave the information to Rosenberg.

"I gave him a sketch of the lens mould," he said. "I marked in A, B, C, the parts of the lens mould and defined on a separate sheet was these letters meant."

He said Rosenberg at the same time wanted "a list of people who seemed sympathetic to communism" and who might be recruited for espionage.

Greenglass said he prepared the copy of the sketch yesterday. He described it as a "true copy" of the one he said he gave Rosenberg.

Defense counsel contended the sketch was an "improper" method of corroborating testimony, but the objection was overruled.

Hiss Is Denied Review of Case

Perjury Conviction Stands as Well as 5-Year Sentence

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused to review the perjury conviction of Alger Hiss.

The refusal lets stand Hiss's conviction and five-year sentence given him in a jury's finding that he lied in denying he fed government secrets to Russia from his high state department office.

Justices Reed, Frankfurter and Clark disqualified themselves from considering Hiss's appeal.

Reed and Frankfurter testified as character witnesses for Hiss at his first trial in Federal Court in New York but not at the second trial which resulted in the conviction.

Clark was attorney general at the time the government prepared its case against Hiss.

Hiss was convicted on Jan. 21, 1950 has been free on $10,000 bail pending Supreme Court action on his appeal. His first trial ended July 8, 1949, with the jury deadlocked 8 to 4 for conviction.

Hiss now can ask the high court to reconsider its refusal to accept his appeal.

If that request is turned down—and the court's agreement to reconsider is rare—the former high level State Department official will have to go to prison and begin serving his sentence.

Youthful Soldier Dies of His Injuries After Fire Bath, Clubbing by Chinese Reds

Tokyo, March 12 (AP)—An indomitable young American is dead after surviving a gasoline fire bath and clubbings by his Chinese captors to escape from "Massacre Valley" on his 12th attempt.

But he died a free man.

General MacArthur's headquarters yesterday confirmed the death of Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, of Long Beach, N. Y.

The young soldier was in a U. S. Second Division task force ambushed by the Reds Feb. 13, as it proceeded along a mountain road north of Hoengsong in central Korea.

Nearly 300 of his comrades were slain. Many more still are missing and only half the force of 2,400 men survived the attack.

The gaunt-faced soldier had seemed strong enough on the day of his escape Feb. 21, for doctors to permit him to talk about his experience. Three days later, however, his ordeal of fire, beatings, near starvation proved too much to bear. He died of burns and exhaustion in the army's fourth field hospital.

Philippen, wounded, was the only man left alive in his jeep. The road was littered with ambushed vehicles and men.

In a toneless voice, he described how a Chinese Red "poured gasoline all over the jeep and set it afire, leaving me in the jeep."

"I managed to fall out of the jeep all in flames," he had related. "I looked for a spot of snow to put out the flames. I saw a little and rolled off into a ditch."

Then Philippen described his captivity—days in which "it was more misery than I could stand," of being beaten with rifles, of repeated escapes and recaptures.

Once a Red, trying to kill Philippen, fired from only three feet away—but missed.

Finally—

"Last night (Feb. 20), I got on this road that leads to Wonju. About 300 (Chinese) came past in groups of three and four. I'd get down in the ditch and make out I was dead. I kept doing that all night."

In daylight he was rescued. When he sighted the Franco-American patrol he was "so happy to see them I just cried."

Before he could be removed to Japan, the tortured body which had survived so much failed him. He died of burns and exhaustion.

Money Waits Uselessly

Long Beach, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—There's $200 waiting in a bank here for a young soldier to get back from Korea for a "big blowout" with his brothers and pals.

But if the big blowout ever takes place, it will be without the young soldier.

Several months ago Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, wrote to his brother, Johnny, 16.

He sent the $200, and told Johnny to spend it on a party with another brother and one of Bob's best pals, Charley Anderson.

But his brothers and Charley decided they didn't want to have the big party until Bob got home.

Then they learned that Bob had been caught in an ambush in Korea, nearly burned to death in his jeep after the enemy set it afire, and—after beatings and repeated fruitless attempts to escape—had reached his own lines.

Yesterday an army report came from Tokyo. The boys needn't have saved that $200 for a party with Bob.

He had died of burns and exhaustion in a Korean field hospital.

Arms Group Okays 18½ Draft Limit

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today approved lowering the draft age to 18 years and six months, and lengthening of the service term to 26 months.

Chairman Vinson (D.-Ga.) said the action was final and was taken "without objection."

The committee in closed session is considering section by section a revised version of the bill introduced by Vinson for cutting the draft age below the present 19-year limit, extending the period of service, and setting up a universal military training program for the future.

The House differs in several respects from the one which the Senate passed Friday.

Vinson has predicted speedy committee approval, with the hope of getting the bill before the House Wednesday and obtaining passage before Easter.

Chinese Reds Plan Killings Of Millions, Formosa Says

Taipei, Formosa, March 12 (AP)—The United Nations today was asked to punish Red China for "a tragedy for the whole of mankind"—reported mass slayings on the mainland.

Nationalist China's Control Yuan sent the appeal through the government's U.N. delegation. The Control Yuan is the Nationalists' regulatory and investigative body.

The Nationalist defense ministry has charged the Red regime with executing one million Chinese and marking 24,000,000 more for death in an attempt to rub out internal resistance prior to a possible World War 3.

The Control Yuan said the Chinese Reds, with Russian backing, plan extermination of 150,000,000 of China's more than 450,000,000 population.

The mass slayings are "an unprecedented disaster for the Chinese nation and a tragedy for the whole of mankind," said the Control Yuan.

The United Nations was asked to "severely condemn the Chinese Reds and to adopt effective sanctions to halt their inhuman atrocities."

The Chinese Reds have admitted that a great purge is in progress.

Agenda Situation Is Not Clear; Still Hope for Top Parley

Paris, March 12 (AP)—The four power deputies opened their second week of meetings today, fortified by a French lunch designed to "ease the tension."

Casey Questioned About RFC Fees; To Supply Details

Former Congressman Put on Stand to Tell About $15,800 He Received

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Joseph E. Casey, former Congress member, testified today he invested $20,000 in a company which bought five surplus government tankers and later sold the stock for about $270,000.

Casey, now practicing law in Washington, was asked about the ship deal by Senators looking into alleged use of influence on government agencies. He is a former Democratic House member from Massachusetts.

The senators had developed earlier that Casey had been associated with Joseph Rosenbaum in practice before the Maritime Commission and had received $15,800 in fees from Rosenbaum.

Asked About Fees

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Senators trailing reports of influence of government agencies today questioned Joseph E. Casey, a former Congress member, about $15,800 in fees from Joseph H. Rosenbaum for maritime commission practice.

Rosenbaum, a Washington lawyer, has been a central figure in a Senate banking subcommittee's hearings on alleged influence and favoritism in lending by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The group has asserted that Rosenbaum had unusual success in getting R.F.C. loans. It attributed this in part to Rosenbaum's friendship with White House Aide Donald Dawson and E. Merle Young., Washington insurance man whose wife is a White House stenographer.

Asked About Fees

Casey, a former Democratic House member from Massachusetts, was questioned about fees for maritime commission practice as preliminary to exploration of $6,300,000 of R.F.C. loans to the Central Iron and Steel Corp., of Harrisburg, Pa.

The subcommittee told him it understood he had received a $5,800 fee from Rosenbaum on March 10, 1950, and a $10,000 one a year earlier.

Casey testified "I don't remember" the basis for the $10,000 payment but promised to supply the details later.

He said he and Rosenbaum both owned stock in a company which had bought five surplus vessels.

Big Battle To Be Based On Tax Pool

Civil Defense, Loyalty Program Are Two Other Items of Week in Legislature

Opposition Says Plan Is Wrong, Hurts Small Employer

Albany, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—The Legislature's Democratic minority today accused the Republicans of sponsoring a $600,000,000 "kick-back" to big business from the state's unemployment insurance pool.

The Democratic charge touched off what will be the session's bitterest battle as the Legislature races toward adjournment, probably Friday.

Noisy debate lies ahead on two of Governor Dewey's major program measures—civil defense and a "loyalty" program for state and local civil service workers.

But neither will generate as much heat as the fight over the Hughes-Brees "true merit rating" bill to revise the unemployment insurance system.

Both wings of organized labor—the C.I.O. and the State Federation of Labor—have allied themselves with the Democrats in the battle.

A few Republicans also may come out against the bill.

It would reduce the unemployment insurance tax for firms with stable employment records, tighten eligibility requirements for beneficiaries, and increase the maximum weekly benefit for employes from $26 to $30.

No Endorsement Given

Governor Dewey has not endorsed the Hughes-Brees bill, although he has said firms with stable employment records should benefit from a lower jobless insurance tax rate.

One influential Republican said today the bill might have to be made a "party measure" to get it through the Legislature.

The Democratic leaders—Senator Elmer F. Quinn and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut—charged in a statement that the Hughes-Brees bill would be "a shocking blow to small business."

They said the proposal was "an equally vicious blow at the long fought for rights of working men and women, for it will make it burdensome and difficult for those out of work to receive benefits."

The Democrats criticized the entire "merit rating" system—by which employers with stable employment records receive tax abatements if the jobless insurance fund stays over a $900,000,000 minimum.

Separate Accounts

The Hughes-Brees bill would set up separate accounts for individual employers and thus virtually guarantee reduced tax rates for firms with stable employment records.

Only employers contribute to the fund.

Quinn and Steingut contended that under the merit rating plan, "millions of dollars have been taken out of the state unemployment insurance fund—a $900,000,000 reserve against depression—and returned to those employers with the largest payrolls on a year-around basis."

They added:

"Small employers, particularly those in industries where employment is of necessity on a seasonal basis, have been forced to

U.N. Tank Units Reach Point Five Miles From Hongchon, Big Staging Area

Ridgway Says Six-Day Push Has Cost Foe Heavily

Tokyo, March 12 (AP)—A spectacular explosion of two colliding Russian-made jet planes stole the Korean War spotlight today as ground action slowed behind retreating Communists.

The MIGs were trying to make a tight turn while chasing an American F-80 Thunderjet. They couldn't cut it fine enough, collided and exploded.

"Best damn show I've ever been on," said Lt. Arthur Walton of Bethesda, Md., one of the pilots in a flight of four F-80s attacked by 16 speedy Red planes.

The four F-80s reported they damaged four other MIG-15s in a 10-minute dogfight. That brought the bag of damaged MIGs to seven for the biggest two days of jet fighting over Northwest Korea in this war.

61 MIGs in Actions

A total of 61 MIGs in flights of 10 to 20 each engaged U. S. F-80s and F-86s in four dogfights Sunday and today.

On the ground, Red resistance collapsed on the east central front and faded sharply before a three-pronged Allied spearhead along the west-central sector of the Allies' advancing 70-mile line.

United Nations tank columns rolled to within five miles of Hongchon on the west-central front. Hongchon is a great Communist troop staging area and once was reported to be Chinese general headquarters.

UN forces met little resistance as they probed within sight of the big Red supply center. Only the day before, Reds before Hongchon fought stiff rear-guard action, indicating they would make a last-ditch stand.

British, Canadian and Australian troops were within five miles of Hongchon on the south. They were 22 miles south of the 38th parallel.

Six Miles Away

U. S. First Division Marines, approaching Hongchon from the southeast, were reported six miles away.

North Korean resistance collapsed on the east-central front. Allied troops moved in quickly behind the fleeing Reds and seized mile-high Mount Taemi without firing a shot.

Seizure of the commanding peak straightened out the east-central front. It was dented five miles last week by a ferocious Korean Red counterattack.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U. S. Eighth Army commander, told war correspondents that U. N. "forces have let a lot of air out of the inflated balloon of the Chinese military establishments."

33,000 Reds Lost

In six days the grinding Allied offensive has killed or wounded about 33,000 Communist troops.

Ridgway said the ratio of Communist casualties to U.N. losses was "well over 60 to 1."

The commander said "it would be a tremendous victory for the United Nations" if the Korean war ended at the 38th Parallel. The parallel was the pre-war dividing line between Red North and republican South Korea.

But, Ridgway added, he knew of no plan to end the fighting there.

"If Communist China failed to drive us into the sea, that would be a defeat for her of incalculable importance," Ridgway said.

". . . The degree to which we deflate her military reputation," he continued, influences the thinking of millions and millions of people in Asia.

Ridgway said also that new American troops are appearing in Korea as replacements for combat veterans. He called it the beginning of a "greatly increased flow of replacements."

The Chinese Nationalist Defense Ministry reported from Taipei that heavy losses have forced the Chinese Communists to order more than 200,000 more troops to Korea, including a whole new army.

Approval Is Given

Oslo, Norway, March 12 (AP)—Norway's Parliament (Storting) today approved this country's joining the North Atlantic Pact army commanded by General Dwight D. Eisenhower. There were only four votes against the government proposal.

Youthful Soldier Dies of His Injuries After Fire Bath, Clubbing by Chinese Reds

Tokyo, March 12 (AP)—An indomitable young American is dead after surviving a gasoline fire bath and clubbings by his Chinese captors to escape from "Massacre Valley" on his 12th attempt.

But he died a free man.

General MacArthur's headquarters yesterday confirmed the death of Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, of Long Beach, N. Y.

The young soldier was in a U. S. Second Division task force ambushed by the Reds Feb. 13, as it proceeded along a mountain road north of Hoengsong in central Korea.

Nearly 300 of his comrades were slain. Many more still are missing and only half the force of 2,400 men survived the attack.

The gaunt-faced soldier had seemed strong enough on the day of his escape Feb. 21, for doctors to permit him to talk about his experience. Three days later, however, his ordeal of fire, beatings, near starvation proved too much to bear. He died of burns and exhaustion in the army's fourth field hospital.

Philippen, wounded, was the only man left alive in his jeep. The road was littered with ambushed vehicles and men.

In a toneless voice, he described how a Chinese Red "poured gasoline all over the jeep and set it afire, leaving me in the jeep."

"I managed to fall out of the jeep all in flames," he had related.

"I looked for a spot of snow to put out the flames. I saw a little and rolled off into a ditch."

Then Philippen described his captivity—days in which "it was more misery than I could stand," of being beaten with rifles, of repeated escapes and recaptures.

Once a Red, trying to kill Philippen, fired from only three feet away—but missed.

Finally—

"Last night (Feb. 20), I got on this road that leads to Wonju. About 300 (Chinese) came past in groups of three and four. I'd get down in the ditch and make out I was dead. I kept doing that all night."

In daylight he was rescued. When he sighted the Franco-American patrol he was "so happy to see them I just cried."

Before he could be removed to Japan, the tortured body which had survived so much failed him. He died of burns and exhaustion.

Money Waits Uselessly

Long Beach, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—There's $200 waiting in a bank here for a young soldier to get back from Korea for a "big blowout" with his brothers and pals.

But if the big blowout ever takes place, it will be without the young soldier.

Several months ago Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, wrote to his brother, Johnny, 16.

He sent the $200, and told Johnny to spend it on a party with another brother and one of Bob's best pals, Charley Anderson.

But his brothers and Charley decided they didn't want to have the big party until Bob got home.

Then they learned that Bob had been caught in an ambush in Korea, nearly burned to death in his jeep after the enemy set it afire, and—after beatings and repeated fruitless attempts to escape—had reached his own lines.

Yesterday an army report came from Tokyo. The boys needn't have saved that $200 for a party with Bob.

He had died of burns and exhaustion in a Korean field hospital.

Track Counsel Paid $60,000 Protection Against Bookies

Two Are Killed By Gun Blasts

Murder, Suicide Verdict Given by Coroner at Highland Mills

Highland Mills, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—A man and a woman were found dead of shotgun blasts in the head in the man's room at a summer resort here yesterday.

Coroner Kenneth M. Black issued a verdict of murder and suicide. He found that John Babcock, 41, a well digger estranged from his wife, shot Mrs. Jerome Stead, 39, wife of a Monroe, N. Y. building contractor, and then shot himself.

Mrs. Snead was the mother of two teen-age girls, and Babcock was the father of a 17-year-old boy.

The bodies were found in Babcock's room on the top floor of the three-story main building of Hillside Colony, a resort in the thickly wooded and sparsely settled hills. State police declined to disclose the contents of a note they said they found in the room.

Killed By Shot

State police said Babcock apparently killed Mrs. Stead with a single shot in the head from a 12-gauge, single-barrel shotgun. Police said that he then lay on the bed and shot himself in the head. The shotgun, the muzzle just below his chin, was laying lengthwise on Babcock's body. Next to it was a 2 foot twig with forked end which police said Babcock apparently used to push the trigger. The heads of both were hardly recognizable. Relatives identified the bodies.

James M. Kelley, a summertime worker at the colony who lives there throughout the year, said he saw Babcock at 4:45 p. m.

Levy Says Sum Given to Costello as Move to Save License for Raceway

New York, March 12 (AP)—George Morton Levy, general counsel for Roosevelt Raceway, told the Senate Crime Investigation Committee today that he paid Frank Costello, gambing figure, $60,000 to rid the race track of bookmakers.

Levy said he made the move to try to save the fashionable trotting track's license after a state official warned him the track was "invested with bookies."

The attorney, appearing at the start of a climactic series of committee hearings, said he paid Costello $15,000 a year for four years ending in 1949.

Warned by Downey

He testified the late New York State Harness Racing Commissioner Benjamin Downey had warned him about the bookies, and said, "if you don't stop it, I'll take your license away."

The commissioner, Levy said, apparently knew he was seeking the services of Costello, named recently by the committee as one of the nation's crime syndicate bosses.

Socially elite crowds attend the track's nightly trotting during the summer season.

Levy contended he had known the reputed gambling czar for 20 or 25 years and considered him a friend.

'Reputation Unfair'

Asked if he considered Costello's reputation "not deserved," Levy replied that he often played golf with the gambler, and:

"I know if he got a nine on the golf course, he said he got a nine. He claimed that the reputation

Atom Spy Worker Identifies Sketch Passed to Russia

David Greenglass, Former Army Sergeant, Says Rosenberg Also Got Scientists' Names

New York, March 12 (AP)—A confessed spy who worked on the atom bomb project at Los Alamos, N. M., identified in federal court today a copy of a secret sketch he said he gave his brother-in-law in January, 1945, for use by Russia.

Former Army Sgt. David Greenglass, the witness, said the sketch showed a lens mould used in the atomic process. He said he also turned over to Julius Rosenberg, the brother-in-law, a list of scientists working on the atomic project.

Rosenberg, an electrical engineer, his wife, Ethel, who is a sister of Greenglass, and Morton Sobell, a radar expert, are charged with conspiring to commit wartime espionage—an offense that carries a possible death penalty.

On Furlough at Time

Greenglass said he was on a 22-day furlough to New York when he gave the information to Rosenberg.

"I gave him a sketch of the lens mould," he said. "I marked in A, B, C, the parts of the lens mould and defined on a separate sheet was these letters meant."

He said Rosenberg at the same time wanted "a list of people who seemed sympathetic to communism" and who might be recruited for espicnage.

Greenglass said he prepared the copy of the sketch yesterday. He described it as a "true copy" of the one he said he gave Rosenberg.

Arms Group Okays 18½ Draft Limit

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today approved lowering the draft age to 18 years and six months, and lengthening of the service term to 26 months.

Chairman Vinson (D.-Ga.) said the action was final and was taken "without objection."

The committee in closed session is considering section by section a revised version of the bill introduced by Vinson for cutting the draft age below the present 19-year limit, extending the period of service, and setting up a universal military training program for the future.

The House differs in several respects from the one which the Senate passed Friday.

Vinson has predicted speedy committee approval, with the hope of getting the bill before the House Wednesday and obtaining passage before Easter.

Chinese Reds Plan Killings Of Millions, Formosa Says

Taipei, Formosa, March 12 (AP)—The United Nations today was asked to punish Red China for "a tragedy for the whole of mankind"—reported mass slayings on the mainland.

Nationalist China's Control Yuan sent the appeal through the government's U.N. delegation. The Control Yuan is the Nationalists' regulatory and investigative body.

The Nationalist defense ministry has charged the Red regime with executing one million Chinese and marking 24,000,000 more for death in an attempt to rub out internal resistance prior to a possible World War 3.

The Control Yuan said the Chinese Reds, with Russian backing, plan extermination of 150,000,000 of China's more than 450,000,000 population.

The mass slayings are "an unprecedented disaster for the Chinese nation and a tragedy for the whole of mankind," said the Control Yuan.

The United Nations was asked to "severely condemn the Chinese Reds and to adopt effective sanctions to halt their inhuman atrocities."

The Chinese Reds have admitted that a great purge is in progress.

Railroads Granted 12.5 Per Cent Fare Increase by State

Ten Lines in New York to Get $2,373,000 Extra in Revenue; Equal Other Areas

Albany, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—Ten railroads operating in New York had permission today to boost intrastate passenger fares by 12.5 per cent.

The increases were authorized yesterday by the Public Service Commission in a 4-1 decision. Commuter rates were not affected.

The railroads may put the new fares into effect upon three days' notice to the public.

Thei ncrease will give the railroads an additional $2,373,000 a year, the P.S.C. estimated.

The Commission turned down a request by the carriers for an increase from 12 to 20 cents in the minimum fare for short-distance riders. However, the 12.5 per cent boost will be paid by such passengers.

The coach rate will rise from 3 cents to 3.375 cents a mile and parlor and sleeping car fares will go from 4 to 4.5 cents a mile.

On Same Level

The increase, the Commissioner said, will place New York intrastate passenger fares on the same level as those charged by the railroads for interstate fares in 13 other states north of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi.

On Nov. 28, 1949, the Interstate Commerce Commission granted a 12.5 per cent increase in interstate fares to the same railways.

All the states, except New York, then allowed similar intrastate fare boosts.

In denying a petition for new fares then, the P.S.C. contended that an increase would force a decline in passenger traffic. It said increased first-class passenger fares would be on a level with those of air travel and in some cases coach fares would be almost double comparable bus rates.

Majority's Report

In approving the increase, the Commission majority said yesterday:

"Since December 1949, the entire economic aspect has changed. The outbreak of the conflict in Korea has produced a resurgence of inflation. The prices of materials vital to railroad operations have experienced sharp advances. Additional equipment required in meeting the needs of a full-scale national preparedness effort must be purchased at inflated costs. Substantial pay increases have recently been granted to non-operating employes and higher wages for operating employes are imminently contemplated.

The fare increases were approved by Chairman Benjamin J. Feinberg and Commissioners Glen R. Bedenkapp, Francis T. Mylott and Paul E. Lockwood.

Short Hauls Discouraged

Commissioner Spencer B. Eddy agreed that the carriers needed more revenue to meet increased expenses. But, he contended the increased fares would have a

Hiss Is Denied Review of Case

Perjury Conviction Stands as Well as 5-Year Sentence

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused to review the perjury conviction of Alger Hiss.

The refusal lets stand Hiss's conviction and five-year sentence given him in a jury's finding that he lied in denying he fed government secrets to Russia from his high state department office.

Justices Reed, Frankfurter and Clark disqualified themselves from considering Hiss's appeal.

Reed and Frankfurter testified as character witnesses for Hiss at his first trial in Federal Court in New York but not at the second trial which resulted in the conviction.

Clark was attorney general at the time the government prepared its case against Hiss.

Hiss was convicted on Jan. 21, 1950 has been free on $10,000 bail pending Supreme Court action on his appeal. His first trial ended July 8, 1949, with the jury deadlocked 8 to 4 for conviction.

Hiss now can ask the high court to reconsider its refusal to accept his appeal.

If that request is turned down—and the court's agreement to reconsider is rare—the former high level State Department official will have to go to prison and begin serving his sentence.

Agenda Situation Is Not Clear; Still Hope for Top Parley

Paris, March 12 (AP)—The four power deputies opened their second week of meetings today, fortified by a French lunch designed to "ease the tension."

Delegates from the U. S., Russia, Britain and France — who are deadlocked in their efforts to arrange a foreign ministers' conference—went to Paris' Rose Palace directly from the lunch at which Foreign Minister Robert Schuman was host.

A French official said he hoped the lunch helped "ease the tension," but an American official said, "it was just another lunch."

The western delegates went into the meeting expecting Russia's Andrei Gromyko to turn down a compromise proposal on a Big Four agenda submitted late Saturday by France's Alexandre Parodi.

Just how far they have progressed toward setting up an agenda was still clouded in confusion.

Steps Are Taken

British delegate Ernest Davies said steps have been taken to reach an agenda by next weekend. But a spokesman for U. S. Ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup said he knew of no such steps.

The French have told reporters they hope a foreign ministers' meeting can be held even if the current talks drag on for a couple of weeks more without result. Foreign Minister Robert Schuman said yesterday the talks "should normally lead to an easing of the tension."

The Russians refuse to say anything at all on this subject or any other. Unlike the western delegations, the Soviets have not held open briefings for reporters. Newsmen must pick up accounts of Andrei Gromyko's speeches from the other delegations, or read them in agency Tass.

'No' Expected

From the few words he got on the record Saturday—despite Davies' hurry to get away for a trip to Britain—Gromyko pretty well convinced the rest of the delegates that he would keynote today's session with a resounding "Nyet"—the characteristic Russian no.

Through French delegate Alexandre Parodi, the three western powers have presented a new draft agenda. It specifies that the Big Four could talk about such matters as fear of aggression, whether treaties have been carried out, how much armed force their respective countries have and how many soldiers Germany ought to have.

Divorce Is Granted

Key West, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Mrs. Minneva Bell Ross was divorced here today, clearing the way for her marriage to Elliott Roosevelt. The decree was signed by Circuit Judge Aquilino Lopez at 10:30 a. m. Her divorce was from Dr. Rex. L. Ross of Santa Monica, Calif., who in a California action last year accused her of "touring the country" with Roosevelt. Elliott must wait three days under Florida law before he can marry Mrs. Ross. It will be the fourth marriage for each.

Dennis Is Released

New York, March 12 (AP)—Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist party in the U. S., was released from prison today after serving 10 months for contempt of Congress. "Now, I'm in good fighting trim," he told reporters, explaining he had lost 50 pounds while in prison. "I will really crusade for peace."

Ferry Might Resume Soon

The office of the New York State Bridge Authority here said today that U. S. Coast Guard inspectors are expected to make their annual inspection of the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry within a few days and it may be in operation by the end of the week.

The boat was not placed in dry dock during the months it has been out of service but its motor has been completely overhauled and it has been repainted. It was indicated that if inspection is completed on time it may be in service by Saturday.

UN forces met little resistance as they probed within sight of the big Red supply center. Only the day before, Reds before Hongchon fought stiff rear-guard action, indicating they would make a last-ditch stand.

British, Canadian and Australian troops were within five miles of Hongchon on the south. They were 22 miles south of the 38th parallel.

A U. S. First Cavalary division tank force stabbed three miles forward Monday to within five miles of the Red center on the southwest.

Six Miles Away

U. S. First Division Marines, approaching Hongchon from the southeast, were reported six miles away.

North Korean resistance collapsed on the east-central front. Allied troops moved in quickly behind the fleeing Reds and seized mile-high Mount Taemi without firing a shot.

Seizure of the commanding peak straightened out the east-central front. It was dented five miles last week by a ferocious Korean Red counterattack.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U. S. Eighth Army commander, told war correspondents that U. N. "forces have let a lot of air out of the inflated balloon of the Chinese military establishments."

33,000 Reds Lost

In six days the grinding Allied offensive has killed or wounded about 33,000 Communist troops.

Ridgway said the ratio of Communist casualties to U.N. losses was "well over 60 to 1."

The commander said "it would be a tremendous victory for the United Nations" if the Korean war ended at the 38th Parallel. The parallel was the pre-war dividing line between Red North and republican South Korea.

But, Ridgway added, he knew of no plan to end the fighting there.

"If Communist China failed to drive us into the sea, that would be a defeat for her of incalculable importance," Ridgway said.

". . . The degree to which we deflate her military reputation," he continued, influences the thinking of millions and millions of people in Asia.

Ridgway said also that new American troops are appearing in Korea as replacements for combat veterans. He called it the beginning of a "greatly increased flow of replacements."

The Chinese Nationalist Defense Ministry reported from Taipei that heavy losses have forced the Chinese Communists to order more than 200,000 more troops to Korea, including a whole new army.

Approval Is Given

Oslo, Norway, March 12 (AP)—Norway's Parliament (Storting) today approved this country's joining the North Atlantic Pact army commanded by General Dwight D. Eisenhower. There were only four votes against the government proposal.

Two Are Killed By Gun Blasts

Murder, Suicide Verdict Given by Coroner at Highland Mills

Highland Mills, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—A man and a woman were found dead of shotgun blasts in the head in the man's room at a summer resort here yesterday.

Coroner Kenneth M. Black issued a verdict of murder and suicide. He found that John Babcock, 41, a well digger estranged from his wife, shot Mrs. Jerome Stead, 39, wife of a Monroe, N. Y. building contractor, and then shot himself.

Mrs. Snead was the mother of two teen-age girls, and Babcock was the father of a 17-year-old boy.

The bodies were found in Babcock's room on the top floor of the three-story main building of Hillside Colony, a resort in the thickly wooded and sparsely settled hills. State police declined to disclose the contents of a note they said they found in the room.

Killed By Shot

State police said Babcock apparently killed Mrs. Stead with a single shot in the head from a 12-gauge, single-barrel shotgun. Police said that he then lay on the bed and shot himself in the head. The shotgun, the muzzle just below his chin, was laying lengthwise on Babcock's body. Next to it was a 2 foot twig with forked end which police said Babcock apparently used to push the trigger. The heads of both were hardly recognizable. Relatives identified the bodies.

James M. Kelley, a summertime worker at the colony who lives there throughout the year, said he saw Babcock at 4:45 p. m.

Arms Group Okays 18½ Draft Limit

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today approved lowering the draft age to 18 years and six months, and lengthening of the service term to 26 months.

Chairman Vinson (D.-Ga.) said the action was final and was taken "without objection."

The committee in closed session is considering section by section a revised version of the bill introduced by Vinson for cutting the draft age below the present 19-year limit, extending the period of service, and setting up a universal military training program for the future.

The House differs in several respects from the one which the Senate passed Friday.

Vinson has predicted speedy committee approval, with the hope of getting the bill before the House Wednesday and obtaining passage before Easter.

Levy Says Sum Given to Costello as Move to Save License for Raceway

New York, March 12 (AP)—George Morton Levy, general counsel for Roosevelt Raceway, told the Senate Crime Investigation Committee today that he paid Frank Costello, gambling figure, $60,000 to rid the race track of bookmakers.

Levy said he made the move to try to save the fashionable trotting track's license after a state official warned him the track was "invested with bookies."

The attorney, appearing at the start of a climactic series of committee hearings, said he paid Costello $15,000 a year for four years ending in 1949.

Warned by Downey

He testified the late New York State Harness Racing Commissioner Benjamin Downey had warned him about the bookies, and said, "if you don't stop it, I'll take your license away."

The commissioner, Levy said, apparently knew he was seeking the services of Costello, named recently by the committee as one of the nation's crime syndicate bosses.

Socially elite crowds attend the track's nightly trotting during the summer season.

Levy contended he had known the reputed gambling czar for 20 or 25 years and considered him a friend.

'Reputation Unfair'

Asked if he considered Costello's reputation "not deserved," Levy replied that he often played golf with the gambler, and:

"I know if he got a nine on the golf course, he said he got a nine. He claimed that the reputation

Atom Spy Worker Identifies Sketch Passed to Russia

David Greenglass, Former Army Sergeant, Says Rosenberg Also Got Scientists' Names

New York, March 12 (AP)—A confessed spy who worked on the atom bomb project at Los Alamos, N. M., identified in federal court today a copy of a secret sketch he said he gave his brother-in-law in January, 1945, for use by Russia.

Former Army Sgt. David Greenglass, the witness, said the sketch showed a lens mould used in the atomic process. He said he also turned over to Julius Rosenberg, the brother-in-law, a list of scientists working on the atomic project.

Rosenberg, an electrical engineer, his wife, Ethel, who is a sister of Greenglass, and Morton Sobell, a radar expert, are charged with conspiring to commit wartime espionage—an offense that carries a possible death penalty.

On Furlough at Time

Greenglass said he was on a 22-day furlough to New York when he gave the information to Rosenberg.

"I gave him a sketch of the lens mould," he said. "I marked in A, B, C, the parts of the lens mould and defined on a separate sheet was these letters meant."

He said Rosenberg at the same time wanted "a list of people who seemed sympathetic to communism" and who might be recruited for espionage.

Greenglass said he prepared the copy of the sketch yesterday. He described it as a "true copy" of the one he said he gave Rosenberg.

Defense counsel contended the sketch was an "improper" method of corroborating testimony, but the objection was overruled.

Youthful Soldier Dies of His Injuries After Fire Bath, Clubbing by Chinese Reds

Tokyo, March 12 (AP)—An indomitable young American is dead after surviving a gasoline fire bath and clubbings by his Chinese captors to escape from "Massacre Valley" on his 12th attempt.

But he died a free man.

General MacArthur's headquarters yesterday confirmed the death of Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, of Long Beach, N. Y.

The young soldier was in a U. S. Second Division task force ambushed by the Reds Feb. 13, as it proceeded along a mountain road north of Hoengsong in central Korea.

Nearly 300 of his comrades were slain. Many more still are missing and only half the force of 2,400 men survived the attack.

The gaunt-faced soldier had seemed strong enough on the day of his escape Feb. 21, for doctors to permit him to talk about his experience. Three days later, however, his ordeal of fire, beatings, near starvation proved too much to bear. He died of burns and exhaustion in the army's fourth field hospital.

Philippen, wounded, was the only man left alive in his jeep. The road was littered with ambushed vehicles and men.

In a toneless voice, he described how a Chinese Red "poured gasoline all over the jeep and set it afire, leaving me in the jeep."

"I managed to fall out of the jeep all in flames," he had related.

"I looked for a spot of snow to put out the flames. I saw a little and rolled off into a ditch."

Then Philippen described his captivity—days in which "it was more misery than I could stand," of being beaten with rifles, of repeated escapes and recaptures.

Once a Red, trying to kill Philippen, fired from only three feet away—but missed.

Finally—

"Last night (Feb. 20), I got on this road that leads to Wonju. About 300 (Chinese) came past in groups of three and four. I'd get down in the ditch and make out I was dead. I kept doing that all night."

In daylight he was rescued. When he sighted the Franco-American patrol he was "so happy to see them I just cried."

Before he could be removed to Japan, the tortured body which had survived so much failed him. He died of burns and exhaustion.

Money Waits Uselessly

Long Beach, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—There's $200 waiting in a bank here for a young soldier to get back from Korea for a "big blowout" with his brothers and pals.

But if the big blowout ever takes place, it will be without the young soldier.

Several months ago Pfc. Robert J. Philippen, 20, wrote to his brother, Johnny, 16.

He sent the $200, and told Johnny to spend it on a party with another brother and one of Bob's best pals, Charley Anderson.

But his brothers and Charley decided they didn't want to have the big party until Bob got home.

Then they learned that Bob had been caught in an ambush in Korea, nearly burned to death in his jeep after the enemy set it afire, and—after beatings and repeated fruitless attempts to escape—had reached his own lines.

Yesterday an army report came from Tokyo. The boys needn't have saved that $200 for a party with Bob.

He had died of burns and exhaustion in a Korean field hospital.

Chinese Reds Plan Killings Of Millions, Formosa Says

Taipei, Formosa, March 12 (AP)—The United Nations today was asked to punish Red China for "a tragedy for the whole of mankind"—reported mass slayings on the mainland.

Nationalist China's Control Yuan sent the appeal through the government's U.N. delegation. The Control Yuan is the Nationalists' regulatory and investigative body.

The Nationalist defense ministry has charged the Red regime with executing one million Chinese and marking 24,000,000 more for death in an attempt to rub out internal resistance prior to a possible World War 3.

The Control Yuan said the Chinese Reds, with Russian backing, plan extermination of 150,000,000 of China's more than 450,000,000 population.

The mass slayings are "an unprecedented disaster for the Chinese nation and a tragedy for the whole of mankind," said the Control Yuan.

The United Nations was asked to "severely condemn the Chinese Reds and to adopt effective sanctions to halt their inhuman atrocities."

The Chinese Reds have admitted that a great purge is in progress.

Communists Win Point

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The Communist party today won a 15-day injunction in its fight to keep from having to register with the government. The injunction was granted by a special three-judge Federal Court to allow the party to carry its case to the Supreme Court. The three-judge court previously had refused an injunction to halt registration proceedings before the Subversive Activities Control Board under the Internal Security Law of 1950.

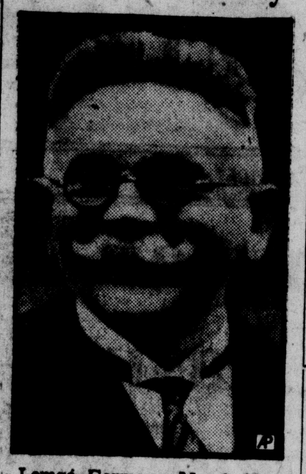
Dies in Germany



Lemgo, Germany, March 12 (AP)—Alfred Hugenberg, 85, a member of Adolf Hitler's first cabinet in 1933, died here today. Hugenberg, who was economics and agriculture minister in the early days of the Nazi regime, led his conservative German National People's Party into outright support of national socialism. He later was dropped by the Nazis as an active figure, but remained a member of the Reichstag until 1945.

$25,000 Damage Suit For Auto Injuries Started in Court

An action for $25,000 has been brought in Supreme court by James Poulakis and his wife, Mary Poulakis, of New York against Nicholas Paleologos, also of New York, and Samuel Safronoff, New York city attorney, to recover damages for injuries which Mrs. Poulakis sustained while a passenger in the car of Paleologos.

James Poulakis sues to recover for cost of medical and hospital expenses and for loss of services and his wife sues for injuries which she suffered and also for loss of wages, she having been employed in her husband's floral shop.

Mrs. Poulakis suffered severe injuries about the face which resulted in serious scars. At the time of the accident she was a passenger in the Paleologos car which it is claimed by the owners of that car, was forced off the road near Veterans, town of Saugerties, July 24, 1949, by the Safronoff car which was traveling toward Saugerties and was attempting to pass the other car going in the same direction.

Rosenblum and Lamb are attorneys of record for plaintiffs with N. LeVan Haver trial counsel. Joseph S. McCann appears for Paleologos and Cashin & Ewig appear as counsel for Samuel Safronoff who was formerly represented by Evan, Rees and Orr of New York.

Other Cases

A jury was selected at the morning session and court recessed until 2:15 this afternoon, when the case will be resumed. Jurors not on the case were excused until 10 o'clock.

Announced as settled was No. 92, Christopher Brown and another and Lewis Brown against the Board of Education of the City of Kingston, a negligence action brought to recover for injuries suffered in a fall in school. Harry Gold appeared for plaintiff and N. LeVan Haver for defendant.

Also announced as settled was a contract action brought by Michael Nardone against Frank Watson. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Gordon, Gordon & Siegel for defendant.

An action for work done and materials furnished, brought by John F. Kinsey against Irving Brown, et. al., was also settled. Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman for plaintiff and Wilzin and Halperin for defendants.

No additions were made to the day calendar. The next call of the callendar for additions to the day calendar will be Thursday at 10 o'clock.

MODENA

Modena, March 12—Those attending the regular meeting of the public health nursing committee of the Town of Plattekill Monday night at the home of Mrs. Milton Van Duser in Plattekill, were Mrs. Fred Bernard, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Simon DuBois, Mrs. Lillian Courter of Modena, and the public health nurse, Mrs. Joyce Kopf of Wallkill. During the business session it was voted to contribute $5 to the heart fund campaign. It was reported that great satisfaction was realized by the attendance of 18 children at the child health consultation and clinic held recently in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Appreciation is extended to all those whose cooperation resulted in the record attendance. A complete report of the 'visiting nurse' fund could not be compiled owing to the fact that several 'nurses' were still on rounds and had not returned to the committee. The latest report was $103 netted from the campaign. The next meeting of the committee will be held Monday evening, April 2, at the home of Mrs. Russell Minard in Clintondale. The next clinic date is Tuesday, March 27.

Mrs. Tom Duffy of Jersey City was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar West of Ardonia and a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter West.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Flincker and daughter, Nancy, were visited by relatives from Queens last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doolittle and sons of Wallkill were supper guests of William Doolittle and daughter, Mrs. Keeser, Sunday.

Chief of the Modena Fire Department Eldred A. Smith, and President Emmett Hyatt attended the banquet at the Ireland Corners Hotel Monday night.

Mrs. Tozzi and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tozzi will vacate the tenant house of Morris Cohn, south of Modena, in the near future. The house will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Freston Paltridge and daughter, Phyllis of Modena. Mr. Paltridge is employed by Morris Cohn.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Ray Riley of Poughkeepsie visited William Doolittle and daughter Wednesday night.

Mrs. Gerald DuBois, Mrs. Ralph Tice, Mrs. Ernest Rappleyea, Mrs. Gus Coleman and Mrs. Charles Wood were among those making the bus trip to New York last Tuesday.

Noah Paltridge of Newburgh, formerly of Modena, visited relatives in this locality recently.

Mrs. Stillwell Is Victim of Burns

Mrs. Sara Peters Stillwell, 48, of Woodstock and 53 West 46th street, New York, died early today at Roosevelt Hospital, of severe burns suffered when a fire swept through the five-story brick building housing her apartment early Sunday.

Another woman was fatally burned and two others were injured in the blaze which was believed to have started in a third floor apartment at about 12:30 a. m.

The body of a woman identified as Mrs. Jane Dalorry, who had been ill of pleurisy, was found on the fifth floor stairway leading to the roof.

Mrs. Stillwell, a New York report said, had suffered third degree burns, and she died at the hospital early this morning.

A teacher in a mid-town west side public school in New York for more than 20 years, she had spent many summers at Woodstock where she owns a residence.

Funeral arrangements will be announced following arrival of the body at the Victor N. Lasher Funeral Home in Woodstock.

Directors Meet Tuesday

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors will hold its March meeting at 8 p. m., Tuesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. In making this announcement today President Lawrence J. MacAvery stated that industrial procurement will be one of the chief topics on the agenda and preliminary plans for the 1951-52 budget will be discussed. The budget year of the Chamber starts May 1 when most annual memberships become payable. Recent legislative activities will also be discussed.

Names Hart Chairman

Trenton, N. J., March 12 (AP)—Republican Governor Driscoll today decided Rep. Edward J. Hart is chairman of the New Jersey Democratic state committee. The governor's decision was a blow to the supporters of former Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City. They had ousted Hart and named State Senator Edward J. O'Mara of Hudson county at a surprise meeting of the committee last month. Hague's arch foe in Jersey City politics, Mayor John V. Kenny, greeted the governor's decision with this statement: "Right has prevailed and the law has been adhered to. Another attempt by the dictator to impress his will and try to serve notice that he is the law has failed once again and true law has prevailed."

SOS Signals Heard

Wiesbaden, Germany, March 12 (AP)—Faint SOS signals heard by rescue planes today spurred the air search for a U. S. Air Force B-29 missing with its crew of 12 in the Mediterranean area since Friday. U. S. Air Force officials here said the plane, based at Lakenheath, England, was last heard from Friday afternoon while on a routine navigational flight. It reported it was off the coast of southeastern Spain. Planes of the U. S., British, French and Spanish Air Forces joined in the biggest aerial search since the war.

Bing's Wife Goes Abroad

New York, March 12 (AP)—Dixie Lee Crosby, wife of singer Bing Crosby, boarded a plane today for a three-month tour of Europe and told reporters they could make their own story on her marital status. Reporters asked her if there were any truth in recurring rumors of a rift between her and her husband. "No comment," she said. "You can make your own story." Asked if she wished to deny the reports, she said: "I do not want to make any comment."

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The position of the Treasury March 8: Net budget receipts, $210,910,-953.20; budget expenditures, $162,-280,795.24; cash balance, $4,601,-432,673.50; customs receipts for month, $16,084,112.44; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $328,-001,576,860.64; budget expenditures fiscal year, $26,979,356,-555.64; budget surplus, $1,022,-220,305.00; total debt, $255,613,-068,335.73; decrease under previous day, $92,770,594.84; gold assets, $21,950,555,954.40.

Two Teams Chosen

New York, March 12 (AP)—Villanova and Louisville today were selected to play in the eastern N.C.A.A. basketball championship tournament.

$1,000 Damage Suit

Suit for $1,000 damages has been brought in Supreme court by Mary Ann Hoffman against Ralph Hoffman, both of Kingston. The complaint alleges that the defendant struck the plaintiff on the head with a hammer on Dec. 31, 1950, causing injuries.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 12 (AP)—Stock prices slipped lower today in a quiet market.

Losses of as much as $1 a share were found in several categories, including Motors, Chemicals, Rubbers and Rails. Every section had a substantial number of fractional declines.

A flurry of selling late in the morning session built up activity for a time, but by noon the market settled back to its slow pace of last week, which was the dullest in six months.

Hanging over the market were such influences as the Thursday tax deadline, uncertainty over the Big Four conference in Paris and new government orders affecting tin importation and steel defense orders.

Goodyear Rubber dropped $2.25 at one time and declines of $1 or more were chalked by a fair number of issues, including Montgomery Ward, Allied Chemical, Dow Chemical, New York, Chicago and St. Louis, American Woolen, United Air Lines and du Pont.

There was a general easing in the curb exchange with most losses fractional. Among the losers were Aluminum Company of America, Aspinook, Eastern Gas and Fuel, Kaiser-Frazer and National Union Radio. Higher at times were Alaska Airlines, Clinchfield Coal and Electric Bond and Share.

In the bond market traders had an eye cocked to U. S. government securities, some of which dropped small fractions below par.

Hauser Denies Federal Charges

New York, March 12 (AP) — Gayelord Hauser denies government charges that he described blackstrap molasses as a "cure-all" in his book, "Look Younger, Live Longer."

The government says Hauser's book suggests, among other things, that blackstrap would add five years of life, provide B vitamins, help grow hair, and aid in relief of constipation, tiredness, heart troubles and neuritis.

Blackstrap, the government contends, will do none of these things.

Hauser replied in a statement Saturday that he had "advocated the use of such foods as brewer's yeast, powdered skim milk, blackstrap molasses and yogurt because of their concentrated nutritional value."

He said the work of "outstanding nutritionists" backed up his opinions. He added that the "government's own nutritionists" would agree with him "when this matter is clarified."

The book, Hauser said, describes "a way of life" and "in no way implies that any one food is a cure-all for all ills that man is heir to."

Complaint Filed

The government filed a complaint in federal court at Buffalo, N. Y., on Friday after the seizure in Rochester of a shipment of blackstrap molasses containing copies of Hauser's book. Labels on the molasses jars, the government said, read "recommended and endorsed by Gayelord Hauser."

Contending that the book served as a label for the molasses, the government charged that this represented misbranding.

Roger W. Straus, Jr., president of Farrar, Straus, and Young, Inc., publishers of "Look Younger, Live Longer," says seizure of the books was "unwarranted and unjustified."

He said in a statement that his company "will contest with vigor any encroachment" on "the constitutional right of freedom of the press."

Casey Questioned

he was an "injured party" whose reputation had been damaged by a report the group filed with the Senate last month.

The report, he said, led to "inferences" that he had been instrumental in getting C. Edward Rowe, an old friend, appointed to the R.F.C. board of directors in 1950, and then benefiting from fees received in practice before the R.F.C.

Casey said he had "nothing to do" with Rowe getting the job, and that because of his friendship for Rowe he ceased practicing before the agency after Rowe's appointment.

The report said Casey had received 20 per cent of the fees received by Rosenbaum's law firm in connection with R.F.C. matters.

Casey said he had received 20 per cent of the fees, but withdrew from the arrangement when Rowe took office. Only once thereafter, he said, did he represent a client before the R.F.C.—and that was to help the widow of a friend get a R.F.C. loan of about $100,000. He said he accepted no fee for this work, which he considered was "a good deed." He did not name the friend.

When is the best time to buy stock in 1951?

Recently a visitor to our office asked what we thought was the right time to buy stock this year.

We told him quickly—and positively—that any time can be the right time for some stocks.

Our office is full of facts about companies whose stocks our clients are interested in. Every day, more information becomes available in companies' reports, financial and business journals, research organizations.

Maybe the facts today point to the advisability of a purchase by you. Why don't you let us see if we have information you're interested in. No obligation on your part, of course.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

I'd like to be in Erin
Wearin' Kelly green today
And meet the folks who fashion jokes
To while the hours away.
I'd like to see the dancing
And enjoy the Irish songs
Where laughter's ring is bright as Spring
In countless happy throngs.

I'd like to visit Dublin
And a dozen ageless towns
Embracing lakes where day awakes
In flowing Emerald gowns.
A fleeting day in Ireland
Would be a joy, indeed . . .
The Shamrock Isle would lend a smile
So many millions need.

I'd like to visit Erin
And dance the hours away
When all the earth enjoys the mirth
That marks St. Patrick's day.

Communists Win Point

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The Communist party today won a 15-day injunction in its fight to keep from having to register with the government. The injunction was granted by a special three-judge Federal Court to allow the party to carry its case to the Supreme Court. The three-judge court previously had refused an injunction to halt registration proceedings before the Subversive Activities Control Board under the Internal Security Law of 1950.

Dies in Germany

Lemgo, Germany, March 12 (AP)—Alfred Hugenberg, 85, a member of Adolf Hitler's first cabinet in 1933, died here today. Hugenberg, who was economics and agriculture minister in the early days of the Nazi regime, led his conservative German National People's Party into outright support of national socialism. He later was dropped by the Nazis as an active figure, but remained a member of the Reichstag until 1945.

$25,000 Damage Suit For Auto Injuries Started in Court

An action for $25,000 has been brought in Supreme court by James Poulakis and his wife, Mary Poulakis, of New York against Nicholas Paleologos, also of New York, and Samuel Safronoff, New York city attorney, to recover damages for injuries which Mrs. Poulakis sustained while a passenger in the car of Paleologos.

James Poulakis sues to recover for cost of medical and hospital expenses and for loss of services and his wife sues for injuries which she suffered and also for loss of wages, she having been employed in her husband's floral shop.

Mrs. Poulakis suffered severe injuries about the face which resulted in serious scars. At the time of the accident she was a passenger in the Paleologos car which it is claimed by the owners of that car, was forced off the road near Veterans, town of Saugerties, July 24, 1949, by the Safronoff car which was traveling toward Saugerties and was attempting to pass the other car going in the same direction.

Rosenblum and Lamb are attorneys of record for plaintiffs with N. LeVan Haver trial counsel. Joseph S. McCann appears for Paleologos and Cashin & Ewig appear as counsel for Samuel Safronoff who was formerly represented by Evan, Rees and Orr of New York.

Other Cases

A jury was selected at the morning session and court recessed until 2:15 this afternoon, when the case will be resumed. Jurors not on the case were excused until 10 o'clock.

Announced as settled was No. 92, Christopher Brown and another and Lewis Brown against the Board of Education of the City of Kingston, a negligence action brought to recover for injuries suffered in a fall in school. Harry Gold appeared for plaintiff and N. LeVan Haver for defendant.

Also announced as settled was a contract action brought by Michael Nardone against Frank Watson. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Gordon, Gordon & Siegel for defendant.

An action for work done and materials furnished, brought by John F. Kinsey against Irving Brown, et. al., was also settled. Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman for plaintiff and Wilzin and Halperin for defendants.

No additions were made to the day calendar. The next call of the calendar for additions to the day calendar will be Thursday at 10 o'clock.

MODENA

Modena, March 12—Those attending the regular meeting of the public health nursing committee of the Town of Plattekill Monday night at the home of Mrs. Milton Van Duser in Plattekill, were Mrs. Fred Bernard, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Simon DuBois, Mrs. Lillian Courter of Modena, and the public health nurse, Mrs. Joyce Kopf of Wallkill. During the business session it was voted to contribute $5 to the heart fund campaign. It was reported that great satisfaction was realized by the attendance of 18 children at the child health consultation and clinic held recently in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Appreciation is extended to all those whose cooperation resulted in the record attendance. A complete report of the 'visiting nurse' fund could not be compiled owing to the fact that several 'nurses' were still on rounds and had not returned to the committee. The latest report was $103 netted from the campaign. The next meeting of the committee will be held Monday evening, April 2, at the home of Mrs. Russell Minard in Clintondale. The next clinic date is Tuesday, March 27.

Mrs. Tom Duffy of Jersey City was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar West of Ardonia and a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter West.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Flincker and daughter, Nancy, were visited by relatives from Queens last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doolittle and sons of Wallkill were supper guests of William Doolittle and daughter, Mrs. Keeser, Sunday.

Chief of the Modena Fire Department Eldred A. Smith, and President Emmett Hyatt attended the banquet at the Ireland Corners Hotel Monday night.

Mrs. Tozzi and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tozzi will vacate the tenant house of Morris Cohn, south of Modena, in the near future. The house will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Freston Paltridge and daughter, Phyllis of Modena. Mr. Paltridge is employed by Morris Cohn.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Ray Riley of Poughkeepsie visited William Doolittle and daughter Wednesday night.

Mrs. Gerald DuBois, Mrs. Ralph Tice, Mrs. Ernest Rappleyea, Mrs. Gus Coleman and Mrs. Charles Wood were among those making the bus trip to New York last Tuesday.

Noah Paltridge of Newburgh, formerly of Modena, visited relatives in this locality recently.

Mrs. Stillwell Is Victim of Burns

Mrs. Sara Peters Stillwell, 48, of Woodstock and 53 West 46th street, New York, died early today at Roosevelt Hospital, of severe burns suffered when a fire swept through the five-story brick building housing her apartment early Sunday.

Another woman was fatally burned and two others were injured in the blaze which was believed to have started in a third floor apartment at about 12:30 a. m.

The body of a woman identified as Mrs. Jane Dalorry, who had been ill of pleurisy, was found on the fifth floor stairway leading to the roof.

Mrs. Stillwell, a New York report said, had suffered third degree burns, and she died at the hospital early this morning.

A teacher in a mid-town west side public school in New York for more than 20 years, she had spent many summers at Woodstock where she owns a residence.

Funeral arrangements will be announced following arrival of the body at the Victor N. Lasher Funeral Home in Woodstock.

Directors Meet Tuesday

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors will hold its March meeting at 8 p. m., Tuesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. In making this announcement today President Lawrence J. MacAvery stated that industrial procurement will be one of the chief topics on the agenda and preliminary plans for the 1951-52 budget will be discussed. The budget year of the Chamber starts May 1 when most annual memberships become payable. Recent legislative activities will also be discussed.

The Joiners

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

Woman Is Injured

Ruth Green, 35, of 8 Lafayette street, Poughkeepsie, suffered shock and chest injuries when a wheel from a tractor-trailer truck came off and struck her car head-on about 1:45 p. m., Sunday, state police said. The accident occurred on Route 9W near the intersection with the East Chester street by-pass. According to the report, the wheel had bounced over another car before it struck the Green vehicle. The truck, owned by the Red Fleetway, Inc., Meservey, Ia., was operated by Joseph Slusher, 23, of the same city.

Baptist Speaker

REV. CARL STEWARD

The Rev. Carl Steward, director of evangelism for the Baptist Missionary Convention of the State of New York, began the evangelism series at the First Baptist Church Sunday.

He will preach again Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. when his topic will be "Not Far From the Kingdom" and on Palm Sunday morning, March 18, on the subject "He Is Able."

Families of the First Baptist Church will share a covered dish supper before his talk Wednesday night.

The visiting evangelism leader is conducting a program of home visitation evangelism this week. A special youth banquet for the young people of the church is planned next Saturday night.

The public is cordially invited to all preaching services at the church.

Names Hart Chairman

Trenton, N. J., March 12 (AP)—Republican Governor Driscoll today decided Rep. Edward J. Hart is chairman of the New Jersey Democratic state committee. The governor's decision was a blow to the supporters of former Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City. They had ousted Hart and named State Senator Edward J. O'Mara of Hudson county at a surprise meeting of the committee last month. Hague's arch foe in Jersey City politics, Mayor John V. Kenny, greeted the governor's decision with this statement: "Right has prevailed and the law has been adhered to. Another attempt by the dictator to impress his will and try to serve notice that he is the law has failed once again and true law has prevailed."

SOS Signals Heard

Wiesbaden, Germany, March 12 (AP)—Faint SOS signals heard by rescue planes today spurred the air search for a U. S. Air Force B-29 missing with its crew of 12 in the Mediterranean area since Friday. U. S. Air Force officials here said the plane, based at Lakenheath, England, was last heard from Friday afternoon while on a routine navigational flight. It reported it was off the coast of southeastern Spain. Planes of the U. S., British, French and Spanish Air Forces joined in the biggest aerial search since the war.

Bing's Wife Goes Abroad

New York, March 12 (AP)—Dixie Lee Crosby, wife of singer Bing Crosby, boarded a plane today for a three-month tour of Europe and told reporters they could make their own story on her marital status. Reporters asked her if there were any truth in recurring rumors of a rift between her and her husband. "No comment," she said. "You can make your own story." Asked if she wished to deny the reports, she said: "I do not want to make any comment."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The position of the Treasury March 8: Net budget receipts, $210,910,-953.20; budget expenditures, $162,-280,795.24; cash balance, $4,601,-432,673.50; customs receipts for month, $16,084,112.44; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $328,-001,576,860.64; budget expenditures fiscal year, $26,979,356,-555.64; budget surplus, $1,022,-220,305.00; total debt, $255,613,-068,335.73; decrease under previous day, $92,770,594.84; gold assets, $21,950,555,954.40.

Two Teams Chosen

New York, March 12 (AP)—Villanova and Louisville today were selected to play in the eastern N.C.A.A. basketball championship tournament.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 12 (AP)—Stock prices slipped lower today in a quiet market.

Losses of as much as $1 a share were found in several categories, including Motors, Chemicals, Rubbers and Rails. Every section had a substantial number of fractional declines.

A flurry of selling late in the morning session built up activity for a time, but by noon the market settled back to its slow pace of last week, which was the dullest in six months.

Hanging over the market were such influences as the Thursday tax deadline, uncertainty over the Big Four conference in Paris and new government orders affecting tin importation and steel defense orders.

Goodyear Rubber dropped $2.25 at one time and declines of $1 or more were chalked by a fair number of issues, including Montgomery Ward, Allied Chemical, Dow Chemical, New York, Chicago and St. Louis, American Woolen, United Air Lines and du Pont.

There was a general easing in the curb exchange with most losses fractional. Among the losers were Aluminum Company of America, Aspinook, Eastern Gas and Fuel, Kaiser-Frazer and National Union Radio. Higher at times were Alaska Airlines, Clinchfield Coal and Electric Bond and Share.

In the bond market traders had an eye cocked to U. S. government securities, some of which dropped small fractions below par.

Hauser Denies Federal Charges

New York, March 12 (AP) — Gayelord Hauser denies government charges that he described blackstrap molasses as a "cure-all" in his book, "Look Younger, Live Longer."

The government says Hauser's book suggests, among other things, that blackstrap would add five years of life, provide B vitamins, help grow hair, and aid in relief of constipation, tiredness, heart troubles and neuritis.

Blackstrap, the government contends, will do none of these things.

Hauser replied in a statement Saturday that he had "advocated the use of such foods as brewer's yeast, powdered skim milk, blackstrap molasses and yogurt because of their concentrated nutritional value."

He said the work of "outstanding nutritionists" backed up his opinions. He added that the "government's own nutritionists" would agree with him "when this matter is clarified."

The book, Hauser said, describes "a way of life" and "in no way implies that any one food is a cure-all for all ills that man is heir to."

Complaint Filed

The government filed a complaint in federal court at Buffalo, N. Y., on Friday after the seizure in Rochester of a shipment of blackstrap molasses containing copies of Hauser's book. Labels on the molasses jars, the government said, read "recommended and endorsed by Gayelord Hauser."

Contending that the book served as a label for the molasses, the government charged that this represented misbranding.

Roger W. Straus, Jr., president of Farrar, Straus, and Young, Inc., publishers of "Look Younger, Live Longer," says seizure of the books was "unwarranted and unjustified."

He said in a statement that his company "will contest with vigor any encroachment" on "the constitutional right of freedom of the press."

Casey Questioned

he was an "injured party" whose reputation had been damaged by a report the group filed with the Senate last month.

The report, he said, led to "inferences" that he had been instrumental in getting C. Edward Rowe, an old friend, appointed to the R.F.C. board of directors in 1950, and then benefiting from fees received in practice before the R.F.C.

Casey said he had "nothing to do" with Rowe getting the job, and that because of his friendship for Rowe he ceased practicing before the agency after Rowe's appointment.

The report said Casey had received 20 per cent of the fees received by Rosenbaum's law firm in connection with R.F.C. matters.

Casey said he had received 20 per cent of the fees, but withdrew from the arrangement when Rowe took office. Only once thereafter, he said, did he represent a client before the R.F.C.—and that was to help the widow of a friend get a R.F.C. loan of about $100,000. He said he accepted no fee for this work, which he considered was "a good deed." He did not name the friend.

(For Your Scrapbook)
By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

I'd like to be in Erin
Wearin' Kelly green today
And meet the folks who fashion jokes
To while the hours away.
I'd like to see the dancing
And enjoy the Irish songs
Where laughter's ring is bright as Spring
In countless happy throngs.

I'd like to visit Dublin
And a dozen ageless towns
Embracing lakes where day awakes
In flowing Emerald gowns.
A fleeting day in Ireland
Would be a joy, indeed . . .
The Shamrock Isle would lend a smile
So many millions need.

I'd like to visit Erin
And dance the hours away

Communists Win Point

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The Communist party today won a 15-day injunction in its fight to keep from having to register with the government. The injunction was granted by a special three-judge Federal Court to allow the party to carry its case to the Supreme Court. The three-judge court previously had refused an injunction to halt registration proceedings before the Subversive Activities Control Board under the Internal Security Law of 1950.

Dies in Germany

Lemgo, Germany, March 12 (AP)—Alfred Hugenberg, 85, a member of Adolf Hitler's first cabinet in 1933, died here today. Hugenberg, who was economics and agriculture minister in the early days of the Nazi regime, led his conservative German National People's Party into outright support of national socialism. He later was dropped by the Nazis as an active figure, but remained a member of the Reichstag until 1945.

Mrs. Stillwell Is Victim of Burns

Mrs. Sara Peters Stillwell, 48, of Woodstock and 53 West 46th street, New York, died early today at Roosevelt Hospital, of severe burns suffered when a fire swept through the five-story brick building housing her apartment early Sunday.

Another woman was fatally burned and two others were injured in the blaze which was believed to have started in a third floor apartment at about 12:30 a. m.

The body of a woman identified as Mrs. Jane Dalorry, who had been ill of pleurisy, was found on the fifth floor stairway leading to the roof.

Mrs. Stillwell, a New York report said, had suffered third degree burns, and she died at the hospital early this morning.

A teacher in a mid-town west side public school in New York for more than 20 years, she had spent many summers at Woodstock where she owns a residence.

Funeral arrangements will be announced following arrival of the body at the Victor N. Lasher Funeral Home in Woodstock.

$25,000 Damage Suit For Auto Injuries Started in Court

An action for $25,000 has been brought in Supreme court by James Poulakis and his wife, Mary Poulakis, of New York against Nicholas Paleologos, also of New York, and Samuel Safronoff, New York city attorney, to recover damages for injuries which Mrs. Poulakis sustained while a passenger in the car of Paleologos.

James Poulakis sues to recover for cost of medical and hospital expenses and for loss of services and his wife sues for injuries which she suffered and also for loss of wages, she having been employed in her husband's floral shop.

Mrs. Poulakis suffered severe injuries about the face which resulted in serious scars. At the time of the accident she was a passenger in the Paleologos car which it is claimed by the owners of that car, was forced off the road near Veterans, town of Saugerties, July 24, 1949, by the Safronoff car which was traveling toward Saugerties and was attempting to pass the other car going in the same direction.

Rosenblum and Lamb are attorneys of record for plaintiffs with N. LeVan Haver trial counsel. Joseph S. McCann appears for Paleologos and Cashin & Ewig appear as counsel for Samuel Safronoff who was formerly represented by Evan, Rees and Orr of New York.

Other Cases

A jury was selected at the morning session and court recessed until 2:15 this afternoon, when the case will be resumed. Jurors not on the case were excused until 10 o'clock.

Announced as settled was No. 92, Christopher Brown and another and Lewis Brown against the Board of Education of the City of Kingston, a negligence action brought to recover for injuries suffered in a fall in school. Harry Gold appeared for plaintiff and N. LeVan Haver for defendant.

Also announced as settled was a contract action brought by Michael Nardone against Frank Watson. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Gordon, Gordon & Siegel for defendant.

An action for work done and materials furnished, brought by John F. Kinsey against Irving Brown, et. al., was also settled. Napoletano, Kelly and Saccoman for plaintiff and Wilzin and Halperin for defendants.

No additions were made to the day calendar. The next call of the calendar for additions to the day calendar will be Thursday at 10 o'clock.

MODENA

Modena, March 12—Those attending the regular meeting of the public health nursing committee of the Town of Plattekill Monday night at the home of Mrs. Milton Van Duser in Plattekill, were Mrs. Fred Bernard, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Simon DuBois, Mrs. Lillian Courter of Modena, and the public health nurse, Mrs. Joyce Kopf of Wallkill. During the business session it was voted to contribute $5 to the heart fund campaign. It was reported that great satisfaction was realized by the attendance of 18 children at the child health consultation and clinic held recently in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Appreciation is extended to all those whose cooperation resulted in the record attendance. A complete report of the 'visiting nurse' fund could not be compiled owing to the fact that several 'nurses' were still on rounds and had not returned to the committee. The latest report was $103 netted from the campaign. The next meeting of the committee will be held Monday evening, April 2, at the home of Mrs. Russell Minard in Clintondale. The next clinic date is Tuesday, March 27.

Mrs. Tom Duffy of Jersey City was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar West of Ardonia and a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter West.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Flincker and daughter, Nancy, were visited by relatives from Queens last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doolittle and sons of Wallkill were supper guests of William Doolittle and daughter, Mrs. Keeser, Sunday.

Chief of the Modena Fire Department Eldred A. Smith, and President Emmett Hyatt attended the banquet at the Ireland Corners Hotel Monday night.

Mrs. Tozzi and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tozzi will vacate the tenant house of Morris Cohn, south of Modena, in the near future. The house will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Freston Paltridge and daughter, Phyllis of Modena. Mr. Paltridge is employed by Morris Cohn.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Ray Riley of Poughkeepsie visited William Doolittle and daughter Wednesday night.

Mrs. Gerald DuBois, Mrs. Ralph Tice, Mrs. Ernest Rappleyea, Mrs. Gus Coleman and Mrs. Charles Wood were among those making the bus trip to New York last Tuesday.

Woman Is Injured

Ruth Green, 35, of 8 Lafayette street, Poughkeepsie, suffered shock and chest injuries when a wheel from a tractor-trailer truck came off and struck her car head-on about 1:45 p. m., Sunday, state police said. The accident occurred on Route 9W near the intersection with the East Chester street by-pass. According to the report, the wheel had bounced over another car before it struck the Green vehicle. The truck, owned by the Red Fleetway, Inc., Meservey, Ia., was operated by Joseph Slusher, 23, of the same city.

Baptist Speaker

REV. CARL STEWARD

The Rev. Carl Steward, director of evangelism for the Baptist Missionary Convention of the State of New York, began the evangelism series at the First Baptist Church Sunday.

He will preach again Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. when his topic will be "Not Far From the Kingdom" and on Palm Sunday morning, March 18, on the subject "He Is Able."

Families of the First Baptist Church will share a covered dish supper before his talk Wednesday night.

The visiting evangelism leader is conducting a program of home visitation evangelism this week. A special youth banquet for the young people of the church is planned next Saturday night.

The public is cordially invited to all preaching services at the church.

Names Hart Chairman

Trenton, N. J., March 12 (AP)—Republican Governor Driscoll today decided Rep. Edward J. Hart is chairman of the New Jersey Democratic state committee. The governor's decision was a blow to the supporters of former Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City. They had ousted Hart and named State Senator Edward J. O'Mara of Hudson county at a surprise meeting of the committee last month. Hague's arch foe in Jersey City politics, Mayor John V. Kenny, greeted the governor's decision with this statement: "Right has prevailed and the law has been adhered to. Another attempt by the dictator to impress his will and try to serve notice that he is the law has failed once again and true law has prevailed."

SOS Signals Heard

Wiesbaden, Germany, March 12 (AP)—Faint SOS signals heard by rescue planes today spurred the air search for a U. S. Air Force B-29 missing with its crew of 12 in the Mediterranean area since Friday. U. S. Air Force officials here said the plane, based at Lakenheath, England, was last heard from Friday afternoon while on a routine navigational flight. It reported it was off the coast of southeastern Spain. Planes of the U. S., British, French and Spanish Air Forces joined in the biggest aerial search since the war.

Bing's Wife Goes Abroad

New York, March 12 (AP)—Dixie Lee Crosby, wife of singer Bing Crosby, boarded a plane today for a three-month tour of Europe and told reporters they could make their own story on her marital status. Reporters asked her if there were any truth in recurring rumors of a rift between her and her husband. "No comment," she said. "You can make your own story." Asked if she wished to deny the reports, she said: "I do not want to make any comment."

Two Teams Chosen

New York, March 12 (AP)—Villanova and Louisville today were selected to play in the eastern N.C.A.A. basketball championship tournament.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 12 (AP)—Stock prices slipped lower today in a quiet market.

Losses of as much as $1 a share were found in several categories, including Motors, Chemicals, Rubbers and Rails. Every section had a substantial number of fractional declines.

A flurry of selling late in the morning session built up activity for a time, but by noon the market settled back to its slow pace of last week, which was the dullest in six months.

Hanging over the market were such influences as the Thursday tax deadline, uncertainty over the Big Four conference in Paris and new government orders affecting tin importation and steel defense orders.

Goodyear Rubber dropped $2.25 at one time and declines of $1 or more were chalked by a fair number of issues, including Montgomery Ward, Allied Chemical, Dow Chemical, New York, Chicago and St. Louis, American Woolen, United Air Lines and du Pont.

There was a general easing in the curb exchange with most losses fractional. Among the losers were Aluminum Company of America, Aspinook, Eastern Gas and Fuel, Kaiser-Frazer and National Union Radio. Higher at times were Alaska Airlines, Clinchfield Coal and Electric Bond and Share.

In the bond market traders had an eye cocked to U. S. government securities, some of which dropped small fractions below par.

Hauser Denies Federal Charges

New York, March 12 (AP) — Gayelord Hauser denies government charges that he described blackstrap molasses as a "cure-all" in his book, "Look Younger, Live Longer."

The government says Hauser's book suggests, among other things, that blackstrap would add five years of life, provide B vitamins, help grow hair, and aid in relief of constipation, tiredness, heart troubles and neuritis.

Blackstrap, the government contends, will do none of these things.

Hauser replied in a statement Saturday that he had "advocated the use of such foods as brewer's yeast, powdered skim milk, blackstrap molasses and yogurt because of their concentrated nutritional value."

He said the work of "outstanding nutritionists" backed up his opinions. He added that the "government's own nutritionists" would agree with him "when this matter is clarified."

The book, Hauser said, describes "a way of life" and "in no way implies that any one food is a cure-all for all ills that man is heir to."

Complaint Filed

The government filed a complaint in federal court at Buffalo, N. Y., on Friday after the seizure in Rochester of a shipment of blackstrap molasses containing copies of Hauser's book. Labels on the molasses jars, the government said, read "recommended and endorsed by Gayelord Hauser."

Contending that the book served as a label for the molasses, the government charged that this represented misbranding.

Roger W. Straus, Jr., president of Farrar, Straus, and Young, Inc., publishers of "Look Younger, Live Longer," says seizure of the books was "unwarranted and unjustified."

He said in a statement that his company "will contest with vigor any encroachment" on "the constitutional right of freedom of the press."

Casey Questioned

he was an "injured party" whose reputation had been damaged by a report the group filed with the Senate last month.

The report, he said, led to "inferences" that he had been instrumental in getting C. Edward Rowe, an old friend, appointed to the R.F.C. board of directors in 1950, and then benefiting from fees received in practice before the R.F.C.

Casey said he had "nothing to do" with Rowe getting the job, and that because of his friendship for Rowe he ceased practicing before the agency after Rowe's appointment.

The report said Casey had received 20 per cent of the fees received by Rosenbaum's law firm in connection with R.F.C. matters.

Casey said he had received 20 per cent of the fees, but withdrew from the arrangement when Rowe took office. Only once thereafter, he said, did he represent a client before the R.F.C.—and that was to help the widow of a friend get a R.F.C. loan of about $100,000. He said he accepted no fee for this work, which he considered was "a good deed." He did not name the friend.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

I'd like to be in Erin
Wearin' Kelly green today
And meet the folks who fashion jokes
To while the hours away.
I'd like to see the dancing
And enjoy the Irish songs
Where laughter's ring is bright as Spring
In countless happy throngs.

I'd like to visit Dublin
And a dozen ageless towns
Embracing lakes where day awakes
In flowing Emerald gowns.
A fleeting day in Ireland
Would be a joy, indeed . . .
The Shamrock Isle would lend a smile
So many millions need.

I'd like to visit Erin
And dance the hours away
That marks St. Patrick's day.

Rat Poison Scare Hits Bronx Area

New York, March 12 (AP)—Tiny cups of a deadly rat poison, strewn by the wind over an east Bronx beach, threw a weekend scare into 300 families residing in the area.

The poison—known as Number 1080, sodium fluoro-acetate—for example, could kill a child who simply touched it and then put a finger in his mouth. The health department says there is no antidote.

Police started scouring Silver Beach for the lost cups Saturday night after the deaths of two dogs, a cat and a number of birds. Late last night they called off the hunt, saying most, if not all, of the poison had been found.

The purple, jelly-like substance was used against rats at Fort Schuyler, site of the State Maritime College. It was contained in small paper cups.

Stanley Fox, vice president of the Commonwealth Sanitation Co., said most of the containers were retrieved and burned a week ago, but the wind blew some into Long Island Sound. He said the 1080 was distributed only in the Fort's buildings by his company during the extermination drive.

The health department served Fox with a summons charging violation of a section of the sanitation code that deals with obtaining a permit and limited use of 1080 to buildings.

Wagner Faces Opposition

Head Table at Immaculate Conception Holy Name Affair

HolyNameSpeaker Bids Society Look To God for Power

The main speaker at the annual communion breakfast of Immaculate Conception Holy Name, Sunday, told the 75 members in his audience that they must depend on God for the means of fighting the evils that threaten society.

After the meal served in the parochial school hall by the ladies of the parish, the Rev. Joseph J. Comyns, pastor of Presentation Church, Port Ewen, delivered his message scoring corruption that exists from sports contests to the halls of Congress and the State Department.

Father Comyns said in part:

"Communion breakfasts reminds me of the early times when Christians assembled before the Eucharistic banquet, a mark or symbol of mutual love or friendship. They did it at a time when Christianity was very unpopular and the Roman emperors forbid public meeting of Christians.

"The communion breakfast today is held in an atmosphere of secular hospitality, at a time when corruption and immorality are found or at least suspected everywhere from basketball courts to the halls of Congress and even to the State Department.

Need Spiritual Offensive

"The spirit of hope which animated the early Christians is reflected in the meeting of Christian groups today. Just as in World War 2 from a little island of Guadalcanal, a huge offensive was launched to roll back the waves of warlike aggression, so too, from comparatively small groups of these, a spiritual offensive can be launched to stem the tide of immorality and secularism.

"In launching such an offensive you must have life, you must have supplies. The allies were successful because they kept their supply lines open from headquarters to that jumping off point, Guadalcanal. Christians keep their supply lines open to launch their spiritual offensive by receiving life and supplies from God himself in Holy Communion.

Strength in Christ

"The Japanese despite their control of many islands were left to wither on the vine because their supplies were cut. We Catholics are the branches of the vine which is Christ. Our reception of His Body and Blood in Holy Communion guarantees that we will not wither on the vine. He will have the strength to launch the spiritual offensive.

"The solution to the present immorality is not to try to fix up the super-structure of society, but rather to strengthen the foundations of society—the individual man.

"Adherence to Christian principles and full participation in the life of Christ can guarantee permanent strong foundations."

Previous to the breakfast, the Holy Name received its annual communion at the 8 a. m. Mass offered by Father Sieczek in Immaculate Conception Church.

Chairmanship Accepted

New York, March 12 (AP)—Gen. John M. Franklin, president of the United States Lines, said yesterday that he had accepted the chairmanship of the $500,000 Memorial Chapel fund campaign for the United States Merchant Marine Academy. The Academy, at Kings Point, N. Y., plans the chapel as a memorial to all American merchant seamen.

Wagner Faces Opposition

HolyNameSpeaker Bids Society Look To God for Power

The main speaker at the annual communion breakfast of Immaculate Conception Holy Name, Sunday, told the 75 members in his audience that they must depend on God for the means of fighting the evils that threaten society.

After the meal served in the parochial school hall by the ladies of the parish, the Rev. Joseph J. Comyns, pastor of Presentation Church, Port Ewen, delivered his message scoring corruption that exists from sports contests to the halls of Congress and the State Department.

Father Comyns said in part:

"Communion breakfasts reminds me of the early times when Christians assembled before the Eucharistic banquet, a mark or symbol of mutual love or friendship. They did it at a time when Christianity was very unpopular and the Roman emperors forbid public meeting of Christians.

"The communion breakfast today is held in an atmosphere of secular hospitality, at a time when corruption and immorality are found or at least suspected everywhere from basketball courts to the halls of Congress and even to the State Department.

Need Spiritual Offensive

"The spirit of hope which animated the early Christians is reflected in the meeting of Christian groups today. Just as in World War 2 from a little island of Guadalcanal, a huge offensive was launched to roll back the waves of warlike aggression, so too, from comparatively small groups of these, a spiritual offensive can be launched to stem the tide of immorality and secularism.

"In launching such an offensive you must have life, you must have supplies. The allies were successful because they kept their supply lines open from headquarters to that jumping off point, Guadalcanal. Christians keep their supply lines open to launch their spiritual offensive by receiving life and supplies from God himself in Holy Communion.

Strength in Christ

"The Japanese despite their control of many islands were left to wither on the vine because their supplies were cut. We Catholics are the branches of the vine which is Christ. Our reception of His Body and Blood in Holy Communion guarantees that we will not wither on the vine. He will have the strength to launch the spiritual offensive.

"The solution to the present immorality is not to try to fix up the super-structure of society, but rather to strengthen the foundations of society—the individual man.

"Adherence to Christian principles and full participation in the life of Christ can guarantee permanent strong foundations."

Previous to the breakfast, the Holy Name received its annual communion at the 8 a. m. Mass offered by Father Sieczek in Immaculate Conception Church.

Rat Poison Scare Hits Bronx Area

New York, March 12 (AP)—Tiny cups of a deadly rat poison, strewn by the wind over an east Bronx beach, threw a weekend scare into 300 families residing in the area.

The poison—known as Number 1080, sodium fluoro-acetate—for example, could kill a child who simply touched it and then put a finger in his mouth. The health department says there is no antidote.

ABOLISH THE R.F.C.

It seemed fair to hold off conclusive judgment about the R.F.C. until the Senate's inquiry was well advanced. That stage has now been reached. And the findings point to just one sensible course: The abolition of the R.F.C.

Herbert Hoover created the R.F.C. as a depression emergency device to help keep tottering big business going in the dark days. It was never contemplated that the agency should go permanently into the banking business in competition with our private banking system.

But that is in fact exactly what happened. More than that, the R.F.C. became a sort of last resort to which business firms appealed after all regular banks had turned a deaf ear. Many such concerns were granted loans in defiance of what private bankers considered sound lending practice.

No doubt this greater liberality often had beneficial results, but that cannot be allowed to obscure the essential that the R.F.C. was serving as a vast commercial bank. On several occasions, indeed, the R.F.C.'s well-known liberality enabled private banks to transfer to that agency outstanding loans the banks rated as poor risks.

But as it has developed in the capital, the issue goes well beyond the economic justifications for keeping or abolishing the R.F.C. Basically the problem has become a moral one.

What the investigation of Senator Fulbright's subcommittee has disclosed is a supreme example of the folly of government by crony—"cronyism," as some have styled it.

Too often President Truman has placed in key government office not the most fit men, nor even well-qualified men, but simply men he knew and liked.

It is the thoughtful testimony of several seasoned Washington observers that Mr. Truman has thereby permitted a host of federal commissions and bureaus to deteriorate dangerously. The Civil Aeronautics Board, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission, these are among them.

Worse than this, the President has maintained an almost fanatical loyalty to his cronies holding these jobs. Loyalty is a noble trait, but loyalty to incompetent men—friends or not—is misplaced. The President would do much better to be loyal to high standards of performance.

Senator Fulbright may not be without political motive, but the facts unearthed by his committee cannot be brushed off as campaign fantasies. The expensive mink coat given to a White House secretary, the free vacations for White House functionaries (and senators, too, for that matter) at the expense of a Florida hotel manager who won an R.F.C. loan, the innumerable payoffs through awards of high-salaried business jobs to former R.F.C. men, these compound into a sordid, immoral story.

The result is not only a weakening of the R.F.C. itself, but a general lowering of moral behavior in many parts of the administration, in Congress, and elsewhere.

Mr. Hoover, Jesse Jones and others have called for R.F.C.'s demise. To abolish the agency would be to set an example, to start government back up the road to sound moral performance.

DESTITUTION IN KOREA

J. Donald Kingsley, United Nations agent-general for Korean reconstruction, had to search for superlatives to try to describe the extent of devastation in Korea when he returned from his first visit. He said two-thirds of Korea is destroyed beyond anything ever before experienced in war by any country.

Whether the destruction in Korea is worse than ever happened before would be difficult to establish, but that point is not the important one. It is obvious that the land and the people have been reduced to destitution. Kingsley said he had never before seen refugees so completely destitute and pitiful.

Sooner or later we shall find a way to end the fighting. But the scars of this war will demand remembrance for a generation or two.

Three hundred thousand of the fourteen million American boys who left home in World War II never came back. From these who are voiceless come the most meaningful pleas for world peace.

Nothing is so welcome as the sun on a rainy day, unless it is a rain cloud on a hot one.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE MISSING LINK

In all the excitement about Europe, with such voluminous and expert testimony about how many divisions we must send to defend the Rhine and other touristic rivers, little or nothing is being said about Central or South America.

It would seem that this is the missing link in our policy. These two American continents are joined together in an association of mutual self-interest which makes for a natural alliance. Besides, we are, with increasing rapidity, recognizing that with the probable exception of diamonds, the American continents can provide all essential minerals and metals necessary for our production and defense. In fact, with sensible capital investments, the American continents could supply all the raw materials essential to our well-being.

Yet, so strong is the European tradition among us that we plunge into constantly more expensive adventures on the continent of Europe, while we ignore altogether the great riches on the American continents.

Governor Dewey's metallurgical knowledge failed him when he testified before Senator Connally's committee, for the governor seems to have forgotten the resources and reserves of Brazil and Chile in his excitement over how many divisions General Eisenhower requires, something about which General Eisenhower has been discreetly silent.

Herbert Hoover, who has always been a mining engineer and a metallurgist, who wrote a classical textbook on the subject and translated another from the Latin, contested Governor Dewey's worries in the following language:

"I presume Governor Dewey's statement was made in reply to one of mine, and Governor Dewey limited his statement to Continental United States. I said that it is possible, by poper economic policy, to develop all of the necessary and critical raw materials in the western hemisphere. I include the whole hemisphere, and not the United States alone. . . .

"Now, supplies of many of these critical commodities are a matter of price. For instance, if there was a sufficient price, and I do not think that it is a very much larger price, probably five cents a pound in the present buying power of money, this country could produce all of the zinc and all the lead, and the western hemisphere could produce all of the copper that it would require. As to uranium supplies they would be more costly, if we had to get them out of the western hemisphere. There is also cobalt and chromium and there are aluminum ores. They are all possible at a sufficient price. So that the argument does not run in full. It only runs to the expenditures."

So, I looked up a few facts:

Antimony ore is available in Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Honduras, the United States and Mexico.

Bauxite, from which aluminum is made, is available in British Guiana, Curacao, Jamaica, Surinam and the United States.

Chrome ore is found in the United States and Canada, the Philippines and Cuba.

Cobalt ore is found in the United States and Canada.

Copper is found in Chile, Peru and Ecuador, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Lead ore comes from the United States, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Canada, Mexico and Newfoundland.

Manganese is found in the United States and Mexico, but more in Brazil, Chile and Cuba.

Petroleum comes from the United States, Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia.

Tin ore comes to us in vast quantities from Bolivia. There is also tin ore in Brazil and Chile.

Much is said about the lack of tungsten. Argentina, Brazil, the United States, Canada, Mexico, Bolivia, and Peru supply tungsten.

Vanadium comes from Peru and the United States.

Zinc comes from the Argentine, Bolivia, Peru, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

This is neither a complete list of metals nor a complete list of what is available on the American continents. It is a sample to cut sharply into the argument that these two great continents, which for centuries have been regarded as nature's treasure house, have suddenly become old Mother Hubbard's cupboard merely to establish a political argument. Brazil alone, with adequate capital investment and engineering skill, can show the politician that it is not necessary to kill American boys to get metals.

As for uranium, there is ample on the American continent and everybody knows it, including Joe Stalin—and the geiger counters are chasing each other to find samples.

If we think of the American continents more, and devote ourselves to cultivating the good will of our Latin neighbors, we will be showing some common sense.

That Body of Yours

THREE-DAY FEVER

When an individual in warm weather is afflicted with tiredness, painful muscles, the sudden onset of a high temperature which lasts but a short time, the condition is sometimes called "summer flu." This is really a natural name for it, as it does greatly resemble the flu of cold weather.

This disease attacked a great many men, women and children during this past three summers, and in The Journal of Diseases of Children, Drs. C. H. Webb and S. G. Wolfe describe a group of symptoms which appears to represent a formerly unrecognized ailment. It is called "three-day fever."

Clinical studies of 86 children who had this acute illness point to a virus as the cause. The striking features of three-day fever were the sudden onset of high fever, severe headache and painful muscles. There was little or no rash, no disturbance of nose, throat and lungs, nor of the stomach and intestines. Investigation showed that the disease was transmitted from one person to another about four days after contact. The disease was self-limited, ran a course lasting two to four days, and, as with other self-limited diseases, was not helped or harmed by any treatment that was given.

It has not yet been determined whether or not the disease starts with insects or animals, and is transmitted to man. One investigator has shown that several new viruses of insects or animals can be the immediate or indirect cause of human infection.

Because a disease is self-limited and runs a course of days or weeks despite any form of treatment does not mean that no treatment is necessary. Any disease that tires and causes a rise in temperature with increase in pulse rate, even if self-limited, requires rest and quietness for the patient because a rise in temperature and pulse rate means that the body has a fight on its hands and needs nursing and care both during the attack and after the symptoms have disappeared.

The Big Wheel in the Nation's Capital

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

Athens—The chief subject every American is asked about, no matter what country he is traveling in is, Harry Truman's temperament. Why, you are asked, does your President write so many letters? Why does he call people so many names? Why does he make so many quick statements in press conferences?

Few people in the United States realize how widely the President's letter to Paul Hume, Washington music critic, was published—from London to the smaller cities of the Balkans. In Turkey some newspapers, having heard that the President once hurled an uncomplimentary epithet, in my direction, got mixed up and thought the Hume letter had been written to me.

Leaving personalities strictly aside, however, the net effect of the President's mercurial disposition is to give the rest of the world an impression of American unsteadiness and a feeling that we are likely to fly off halfcocked. This applies to press conferences as much as presidential letter-writing, as two cases will illustrate.

A couple of weeks ago, Mr. Truman was asked at a press conference whether the United Nations forces in Korea would cross the 38th Parallel. He replied that he was leaving this entirely up to General MacArthur. Now, it so happened that this was not true. But true or not, nothing he could have said could have injured our relations more with other U.N. nations, for several reasons.

First they feel important political decisions of this kind involving further embroglio with China and Russia are not up to the American military commander but the entire U.N. Second, both the French and the British repeatedly urged, requested and begged us not to go above the 38th Parallel prior to MacArthur's previous disastrious advance. Third, we are now demanding that Europe rearm under and American ground commander, an American naval commander and air commander. Unfortunately, Mr. Truman's hasty press-conference statement makes them think twice about who would decide political matters regarding European defense.

The other Truman press-conference boner was his famous statement that we are considering dropping the A-bomb on Korea which brought British Prime Minister Attlee hotfooting it to Washington.

Questions Sometimes Loaded

Most people don't remember that the three most recent Republican presidents refused to answer oral questions at press conferences and that it is only a man of extraordinary versatility, such as Franklin Roosevelt was, who can get away with it. Every week, as 200 newsmen face the President, they come armed with questions which either they or their editors have concocted on a score of difficult, sometimes intricate, problems. Some are friendly, some are calculated to embarrass, some merely want information. Presidents Coolidge and Hoover found it wiser to answer these only when handed in in writing in advance, and this system of written questions began through the same kind of boner as that which Mr. Truman has occasionally been guilty of.

During the Washington Arms Conference in 1921 President Harding, who then permitted oral questions, was asked whether the treaty banning fortifications applied to the Japanese mainland which, of course, incuded Japanese islands. He replied in the affirmative. Whereupon the State Department had to rewrite the entire treaty to clarify this issue. After that Harding permitted only questions in writing.

American Impact on Greece

You don't have to read the signs at the railroad stations to sense the difference between the Communist and capitalist countries when you pass a border in Europe. The minute you get into Greece from Communist Jugoslavia you can tell the difference in a dozen different ways—the availability of taxicabs, the speed of doing business, the vigor of the atmoshpere. Part of this is due to American money and American methods, which have had a terrific impact on Greece during the last three years....Greece now rates as one of the most efficient countries in Europe. Gen. Reuben Jenkins, a former Georgia National Guardsman, deserves great credit for training the Greek Army into an aggressive, compact fighting force which could throw 10 division into battle overnight with 10 more divisions available in a week.... Greek airways now cover the country. Whereas it once took days to get around Greece by boat, corner in a matter of hours. Much of this enterprise is due to American aid and encouragement. U. S. Ambassador Jack Peurifoy had a lot to do with persuading the Greek government to open its border to Jugoslavia at Salonika, thus airplanes now reach almost every permitting American food shipments to enter by the shortest route. I was on the first train from Greece into Jugoslavia carrying American food, marking a new milestone in Jugoslav-Greek friendship. Most people wouldn't realize the significance of this first pioneer train unless they remembered that, only brief months ago, Jugoslavia was still the chief source of arms for Communist guerrillas which had kept Greece in a state of bloody revolt for three years. In contrast, Jugoslav officials, with U. S. Ambassador George Allen, came from Belgrade to the Greek border to participate in a friendly ceremony with Greek officials and the U. S. consul at Salonika, Glenn Abbey the greatest contribution to people-to-people friendship in the Near East over a long period of years has been supplied by Robert College in Istanbul and the American Farm School in Salonika, under Charles House. Both have turned out thousands of youngsters who not only have improved their own country but have strengthened the friendship between the United States, Greece and Turkey. Wherever you go in the Near East, you bump into Roberts College graduates who are working for this better understanding.

Korean Situation Expected to Bring New Climax in Four or Five Weeks

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 12—Nobody seems to know what the next step is in Korea though within the next four to five weeks the situation there will bring a new climax.

With flying conditions bound to be bad as the weather takes its seasonal turn for the worse, U.N. ground forces, which have up to now been sufficiently mobile to maneuver effectively against Communist operations, will be handicapped in obtaining supplies by air.

The Communists are building their offensive strength steadily for an expected push that may exceed in intensity anything they have tried thus far. The real tussle is between two methods of supply. The U.N. forces with motor vehicles and planes to supply their needs from day to day can take care of a much larger enemy force by means of superior firepower. But the Red Chinese, reenforced now by Russian suplies and munitions, are going to find it easier to move southward because of the diminishing effectiveness of our air attack.

Well-informed officers returning from Korea say it is almost impossible from the air to detect the presence of enemy supplies because of the use of camouflage and the fact that most movements are at night. While they are pessimistic about the time it may take to defeat the enemy—some say it is a matter of years rather than months—they are equally positive that the Red Chinese cannot push us off the peninsula.

The general feeling is that a defense line will be stabilized either somewhat north of the 38th parallel or not far distant from it on the south side. The public prediction by General MacArthur recently that only a "stalemate" can be expected has more significance than was attached to it at the time it was made.

It will be noted that the supreme commander went to the Korean front and there released his prepared statement. He made it clear that unless U.N. troops are permitted to bomb Manchurian bases there was no sense in attempting any further offensive on a large scale to try to drive the enemy back to the Yalu river. He did point out, on the other hand, that the U.N. forces were exacting a terrible toll and that the enemy could not go along indefinitely with heavier and heavier losses and useless destruction of human life.

What the general undoubtedly was hinting at perhaps was the need for some further move to cause the Red Chinese and the Russians to reappraise the situation and prepare to accede to U. N. terms. These must necessarily include the liberation of all Korea and the payment of an indemnity or some other form of penalty for the aggression itself. General MacArthur himself carefully refrains from commenting on what he regards as "political" or "policy" decisions being content merely to point out that the Korean War can go on as it is without achieving any particular military objective unless on some other level the diplomats can persuade the Communists that the adventure is hopeless and might as well be ended now.

From the viewpoint of our military leaders, Korea has been valuable in teaching all branches of the armed services some much needed lessons. It has furnished combat training for many new officers and troops who did not see service in World War II. It has awakened the American people to the neglected state of their defenses. It has served notice on Russia that aggression will be resisted anywhere in the world as an obligation of the United Nations charter. It has emphasized, too, that while American resources were drained somewhat in the Far East, so also can the Communists be subject to a heavy drain in materials and supplies—something they cannot as readily afford as can the other members of the U. N.

If the coming offensive should be turned back by midsummer with heavy losses or if the enemy succeeds in pushing our forces back only a few miles and then finds itself stymied until better weather enables U. N. forces to press back the enemy, the hour of decision on a policy basis will be at hand. Again it is far more likely that the Communists will stick it out and that the Korean War will go on indefinitely. As one officer remarked the other day: "It's another Spain."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

General Eisenhower's political importance as a candidate for the presidency and as an author of our political and military policy in western Europe, calls for a sober study of his record. We know him as a "glamorous" soldier and he has been admired without the slightest attempt by the people to discriminate between his achievements and his errors. We have accepted him as a great man because he was commander of the western allies who licked the Italians and the Germans. But, notwithstanding that victory, and soon after it was achieved, our country fell into the power of Soviet Russia. Soviet Russia became the master of our fate. Russia captured the initiative and has been waging a war of nerves, recently merged into the Korean hot war, ever since Potsdam. Eisenhower was partly to blame for that tragedy in our history.

It is silly to pretend to believe that Eisenhower is not a candidate for a nomination by one of the major parties. But we don't know whether he is a Republican or a Democrat. In 1948, Jimmy Roosevelt tried to nominate him over Truman. Now Tom Dewey wants the Republicans to nominate him. But Dewey himself seems not quite sure whether he is a Republican or has turned Democrat.

In his memoirs, Eisenhower wrote that he "could never possibly agree with some of Roosevelt's political acts."

That is a teaser. What kind of political acts did he disagree with? Domestic or international?

At home, Roosevelt committed "political acts" which made a radical change in the relation of the citizen to the government. The citizen lost his supremecy and became a subject of the government which grew more and more commanding and arrogant. The citizen was forced to join unions and to submit to an official but terribly real autocracy. In plain fact, by joining a union and submitting to degradation and financial extortion, he could wrangle his way out of the draft, and thus might, in the end save his life by the sacrifice of his political rights. It was never declared that unions were to have this power over millions of our people. That power was usurped and the unions became an unofficial auxiliary of Roosevelt's ruling party. Roosevelt and the satraps of the rackets held vulgar wassail when they came to Washington.

The Taft-Hartley law slightly modified the power of unions over the people and over the nation's economy but left it fundamentally the same.

It is terrible important to know unequivocally whether Eisenhower disagreed with the whole series of "political acts" which wrought this subjugation of the people who formerly were sovereign. He should be cornered and made to say.

Taft has disagreed in this phase openly, aggressively and with some success. He has been honest. Eisenhower has been active.

It is equally important that we evaluate Eisenhower's political wisdom and his character as revealed by his conduct in the war. Only with this knowledge can we come to a firm, fair opinion of his reliability in his present military job in Europe and, perhaps, in the presidency.

In the present situation he is placed in contrast to Taft. Taft suffers by comparison in the strong propaganda which is put up in favor of Truman's military projects in Europe, of which Eisenhower is the executor. Eisenhower is both a soldier and a politician in this current role.

Taft the politician admits that he is not a soldier, but it does not follow that he is completely infantile as a strategist.

Eisenhower has tried to shirk the political responsibility for the awful mistake in military strategy which now has placed our country in the preliminary stages of another world war in which we might lose 100,000 of our sons, in Europe, alone, killed or dragged into captivity in the Soviet empire. But he was responsible.

We are drafting young men in 1951 because Eisenhower didn't fight Roosevelt and even accept dismissal from one of the greatest military assignments of all time. That mistake by Roosevelt

ABOLISH THE R.F.C.

It seemed fair to hold off conclusive judgment about the R.F.C. until the Senate's inquiry was well advanced. That stage has now been reached. And the findings point to just one sensible course: The abolition of the R.F.C.

Herbert Hoover created the R.F.C. as a depression emergency device to help keep tottering big business going in the dark days. It was never contemplated that the agency should go permanently into the banking business in competition with our private banking system.

But that is in fact exactly what happened. More than that, the R.F.C. became a sort of last resort to which business firms appealed after all regular banks had turned a deaf ear. Many such concerns were granted loans in defiance of what private bankers considered sound lending practice.

No doubt this greater liberality often had beneficial results, but that cannot be allowed to obscure the essential that the R.F.C. was serving as a vast commercial bank. On several occasions, indeed, the R.F.C.'s well-known liberality enabled private banks to transfer to that agency outstanding loans the banks rated as poor risks.

But as it has developed in the capital, the issue goes well beyond the economic justifications for keeping or abolishing the R.F.C. Basically the problem has become a moral one.

What the investigation of Senator Fulbright's subcommittee has disclosed is a supreme example of the folly of government by crony—"cronyism," as some have styled it.

Too often President Truman has placed in key government office not the most fit men, nor even well-qualified men, but simply men he knew and liked.

It is the thoughtful testimony of several seasoned Washington observers that Mr. Truman has thereby permitted a host of federal commissions and bureaus to deteriorate dangerously. The Civil Aeronautics Board, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission, these are among them.

Worse than this, the President has maintained an almost fanatical loyalty to his cronies holding these jobs. Loyalty is a noble trait, but loyalty to incompetent men—friends or not—is misplaced. The President would do much better to be loyal to high standards of performance.

Senator Fulbright may not be without political motive, but the facts unearthed by his committee cannot be brushed off as campaign fantasies. The expensive mink coat given to a White House secretary, the free vacations for White House functionaries (and senators, too, for that matter) at the expense of a Florida hotel manager who won an R.F.C. loan, the innumerable payoffs through awards of high-salaried business jobs to former R.F.C. men, these compound into a sordid, immoral story.

The result is not only a weakening of the R.F.C. itself, but a general lowering of moral behavior in many parts of the administration, in Congress, and elsewhere.

Mr. Hoover, Jesse Jones and others have called for R.F.C.'s demise. To abolish the agency would be to set an example, to start government back up the road to sound moral performance.

DESTITUTION IN KOREA

J. Donald Kingsley, United Nations agent-general for Korean reconstruction, had to search for superlatives to try to describe the extent of devastation in Korea when he returned from his first visit. He said two-thirds of Korea is destroyed beyond anything ever before experienced in war by any country.

Whether the destruction in Korea is worse than ever happened before would be difficult to establish, but that point is not the important one. It is obvious that the land and the people have been reduced to destitution. Kingsley said he had never before seen refugees so completely destitute and pitiful.

Sooner or later we shall find a way to end the fighting. But the scars of this war will demand remembrance for a generation or two.

Three hundred thousand of the fourteen million American boys who left home in World War II never came back. From these who are voiceless come the most meaningful pleas for world peace.

Nothing is so welcome as the sun on a rainy day, unless it is a rain cloud on a hot one.

'These Days'

THE MISSING LINK

In all the excitement about Europe, with such voluminous and expert testimony about how many divisions we must send to defend the Rhine and other touristic rivers, little or nothing is being said about Central or South America.

It would seem that this is the missing link in our policy. These two American continents are joined together in an association of mutual self-interest which makes for a natural alliance. Besides, we are, with increasing rapidity, recognizing that with the probable exception of diamonds, the American continents can provide all essential minerals and metals necessary for our production and defense. In fact, with sensible capital investments, the American continents could supply all the raw materials essential to our well-being.

Yet, so strong is the European tradition among us that we plunge into constantly more expensive adventures on the continent of Europe, while we ignore altogether the great riches on the American continents.

Governor Dewey's metallurgical knowledge failed him when he testified before Senator Connally's committee, for the governor seems to have forgotten the resources and reserves of Brazil and Chile in his excitement over how many divisions General Eisenhower requires, something about which General Eisenhower has been discreetly silent.

Herbert Hoover, who has always been a mining engineer and a metallurgist, who wrote a classical textbook on the subject and translated another from the Latin, contested Governor Dewey's worries in the following language:

"I presume Governor Dewey's statement was made in reply to one of mine, and Governor Dewey limited his statement to Continental United States. I said that it is possible, by poper economic policy, to develop all of the necessary and critical raw materials in the western hemisphere. I include the whole hemisphere, and not the United States alone. . . .

"Now, supplies of many of these critical commodities are a matter of price. For instance, if there was a sufficient price, and I do not think that it is a very much larger price, probably five cents a pound in the present buying power of money, this country could produce all of the zinc and all the lead, and the western hemisphere could produce all of the copper that it would require. As to uranium supplies they would be more costly, if we had to get them out of the western hemisphere. There is also cobalt and chromium and there are aluminum ores. They are all possible at a sufficient price. So that the argument does not run in full. It only runs to the expenditures."

So, I looked up a few facts:

Antimony ore is available in Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Honduras, the United States and Mexico.

Bauxite, from which aluminum is made, is available in British Guiana, Curacao, Jamaica, Surinam and the United States.

Chrome ore is found in the United States and Canada, the Philippines and Cuba.

Cobalt ore is found in the United States and Canada.

Copper is found in Chile, Peru and Ecuador, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Lead ore comes from the United States, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Canada, Mexico and Newfoundland.

Manganese is found in the United States and Mexico, but more in Brazil, Chile and Cuba.

Petroleum comes from the United States, Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia.

Tin ore comes to us in vast quantities from Bolivia. There is also tin ore in Brazil and Chile.

Much is said about the lack of tungsten. Argentina, Brazil, the United States, Canada, Mexico, Bolivia, and Peru supply tungsten.

Vanadium comes from Peru and the United States.

Zinc comes from the Argentine, Bolivia, Peru, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

This is neither a complete list of metals nor a complete list of what is available on the American continents. It is a sample to cut sharply into the argument that these two great continents, which for centuries have been regarded as nature's treasure house, have suddenly become old Mother Hubbard's cupboard merely to establish a political argument. Brazil alone, with adequate capital investment and engineering skill, can show the politician that it is not necessary to kill American boys to get metals.

As for uranium, there is ample on the American continent and everybody knows it, including Joe Stalin—and the geiger counters are chasing each other to find samples.

If we think of the American continents more, and devote ourselves to cultivating the good will of our Latin neighbors, we will be showing some common sense.

That Body of Yours

THREE-DAY FEVER

When an individual in warm weather is afflicted with tiredness, painful muscles, the sudden onset of a high temperature which lasts but a short time, the condition is sometimes called "summer flu." This is really a natural name for it, as it does greatly resemble the flu of cold weather.

This disease attacked a great many men, women and children during this past three summers, and in The Journal of Diseases of Children, Drs. C. H. Webb and S. G. Wolfe describe a group of symptoms which appears to represent a formerly unrecognized ailment. It is called "three-day fever."

Clinical studies of 86 children who had this acute illness point to a virus as the cause. The striking features of three-day fever were the sudden onset of high fever, severe headache and painful muscles. There was little or no rash, no disturbance of nose, throat and lungs, nor of the stomach and intestines. Investigation showed that the disease was transmitted from one person to another about four days after contact. The disease was self-limited, ran a course lasting two to four days, and, as with other self-limited diseases, was not helped or harmed by any treatment that was given.

It has not yet been determined whether or not the disease starts with insects or animals, and is transmitted to man. One investigator has shown that several new viruses of insects or animals can be the immediate or indirect cause of human infection.

Because a disease is self-limited and runs a course of days or weeks despite any form of treatment does not mean that no treatment is necessary. Any disease that tires and causes a rise in temperature with increase in pulse rate, even if self-limited, requires rest and quietness for the patient because a rise in temperature and pulse rate means that the body has a fight on its hands and needs nursing and care both during the attack and after the symptoms have disappeared.

The Big Wheel in the Nation's Capital

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

Athens—The chief subject every American is asked about, no matter what country he is traveling in is, Harry Truman's temperament. Why, you are asked, does your President write so many letters? Why does he call people so many names? Why does he make so many quick statements in press conferences?

Few people in the United States realize how widely the President's letter to Paul Hume, Washington music critic, was published—from London to the smaller cities of the Balkans. In Turkey some newspapers, having heard that the President once hurled an uncomplimentary epithet in my direction, got mixed up and thought the Hume letter had been written to me.

Leaving personalities strictly aside, however, the net effect of the President's mercurial disposition is to give the rest of the world an impression of American unsteadiness and a feeling that we are likely to fly off halfcocked. This applies to press conferences as much as presidential letter-writing, as two cases will illustrate.

A couple of weeks ago, Mr. Truman was asked at a press conference whether the United Nations forces in Korea would cross the 38th Parallel. He replied that he was leaving this entirely up to General MacArthur. Now, it so happened that this was not true. But true or not, nothing he could have said could have injured our relations more with other U.N. nations, for several reasons.

First they feel important political decisions of this kind involving further embroglio with China and Russia are not up to the American military commander but the entire U.N. Second, both the French and the British repeatedly urged, requested and begged us not to go above the 38th Parallel prior to MacArthur's previous disastrious advance. Third, we are now demanding that Europe rearm under and American ground commander, an American naval commander and air commander. Unfortunately, Mr. Truman's hasty press-conference statement makes them think twice about who would decide political matters regarding European defense.

The other Truman press-conference boner was his famous statement that we are considering dropping the A-bomb on Korea which brought British Prime Minister Attlee hotfooting it to Washington.

Most people don't remember that the three most recent Republican presidents refused to answer oral questions at press conferences and that it is only a man of extraordinary versatility, such as Franklin Roosevelt was, who can get away with it. During the Washington Arms Conference in 1921 President Harding, who then permitted oral questions, was asked whether the treaty banning fortifications applied to the Japanese mainland which, of course, incuded Japanese islands. He replied in the affirmative. Whereupon the State Department had to rewrite the entire treaty to clarify this issue. After that Harding permitted only questions in writing.

Korean Situation Expected to Bring New Climax in Four or Five Weeks

It will be noted that the supreme commander went to the Korean front and there released his prepared statement. He made it clear that unless U.N. troops are permitted to bomb Manchurian bases there was no sense in attempting any further offensive on a large scale to try to drive the enemy back to the Yalu river. He did point out, on the other hand, that the U.N. forces were exacting a terrible toll and that the enemy could not go along indefinitely with heavier and heavier losses and useless destruction of human life.

What the general undoubtedly was hinting at perhaps was the need for some further move to cause the Red Chinese and the Russians to reappraise the situation and prepare to accede to U. N. terms. These must necessarily include the liberation of all Korea and the payment of an indemnity or some other form of penalty for the aggression itself. General MacArthur himself carefully refrains from commenting on what he regards as "political" or "policy" decisions being content merely to point out that the Korean War can go on as it is without achieving any particular military objective unless on some other level the diplomats can persuade the Communists that the adventure is hopeless and might as well be ended now.

From the viewpoint of our military leaders, Korea has been valuable in teaching all branches of the armed services some much needed lessons. It has furnished combat training for many new officers and troops who did not see service in World War II. It has awakened the American people to the neglected state of their defenses. It has served notice on Russia that aggression will be resisted anywhere in the world as an obligation of the United Nations charter. It has emphasized, too, that while American resources were drained somewhat in the Far East, so also can the Communists be subject to a heavy drain in materials and supplies—something they cannot as readily afford as can the other members of the U. N.

If the coming offensive should be turned back by midsummer with heavy losses or if the enemy succeeds in pushing our forces back only a few miles and then finds itself stymied until better weather enables U. N. forces to press back the enemy, the hour of decision on a policy basis will be at hand. Again it is far more likely that the Communists will stick it out and that the Korean War will go on indefinitely. As one officer remarked the other day: "It's another Spain."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

General Eisenhower's political importance as a candidate for the presidency and as an author of our political and military policy in western Europe, calls for a sober study of his record. We know him as a "glamorous" soldier and he has been admired without the slightest attempt by the people to discriminate between his achievements and his errors. We have accepted him as a great man because he was commander of the western allies who licked the Italians and the Germans. But, notwithstanding that victory, and soon after it was achieved, our country fell into the power of Soviet Russia. Soviet Russia became the master of our fate. Russia captured the initiative and has been waging a war of nerves, recently merged into the Korean hot war, ever since Potsdam. Eisenhower was partly to blame for that tragedy in our history.

It is silly to pretend to believe that Eisenhower is not a candidate for a nomination by one of the major parties. But we don't know whether he is a Republican or a Democrat. In 1948, Jimmy Roosevelt tried to nominate him over Truman. Now Tom Dewey wants the Republicans to nominate him. But Dewey himself seems not quite sure whether he is a Republican or has turned Democrat.

In his memoirs, Eisenhower wrote that he "could never possibly agree with some of Roosevelt's political acts."

That is a teaser. What kind of political acts did he disagree with? Domestic or international?

At home, Roosevelt committed "political acts" which made a radical change in the relation of the citizen to the government. The citizen lost his supremecy and became a subject of the government which grew more and more commanding and arrogant. The citizen was forced to join unions and to submit to an official but terribly real autocracy. In plain fact, by joining a union and submitting to degradation and financial extortion, he could wrangle his way out of the draft, and thus might, in the end save his life by the sacrifice of his political rights. It was never declared that unions were to have this power over millions of our people. That power was usurped and the unions became an unofficial auxiliary of Roosevelt's ruling party. Roosevelt and the satraps of the rackets held vulgar wassail when they came to Washington.

The Taft-Hartley law slightly modified the power of unions over the people and over the nation's economy but left it fundamentally the same.

It is terrible important to know unequivocally whether Eisenhower disagreed with the whole series of "political acts" which wrought this subjugation of the people who formerly were sovereign. He should be cornered and made to say.

Taft has disagreed in this phase openly, aggressively and with some success. He has been honest. Eisenhower has been active.

It is equally important that we evaluate Eisenhower's political wisdom and his character as revealed by his conduct in the war. Only with this knowledge can we come to a firm, fair opinion of his reliability in his present military job in Europe and, perhaps, in the presidency.

In the present situation he is placed in contrast to Taft. Taft suffers by comparison in the strong propaganda which is put up in favor of Truman's military projects in Europe, of which Eisenhower is the executor. Eisenhower is both a soldier and a politician in this current role.

Taft the politician admits that he is not a soldier, but it does not follow that he is completely infantile as a strategist.

Eisenhower has tried to shirk the political responsibility for the awful mistake in military strategy which now has placed our country in the preliminary stages of another world war in which we might lose 100,000 of our sons, in Europe, alone, killed or dragged into captivity in the Soviet empire. But he was responsible.

We are drafting young men in 1951 because Eisenhower didn't fight Roosevelt and even accept dismissal from one of the greatest military assignments of all time. That mistake by Roosevelt

ABOLISH THE R.F.C.

It seemed fair to hold off conclusive judgment about the R.F.C. until the Senate's inquiry was well advanced. That stage has now been reached. And the findings point to just one sensible course: The abolition of the R.F.C.

Herbert Hoover created the R.F.C. as a depression emergency device to help keep tottering big business going in the dark days. It was never contemplated that the agency should go permanently into the banking business in competition with our private banking system.

But that is in fact exactly what happened. More than that, the R.F.C. became a sort of last resort to which business firms appealed after all regular banks had turned a deaf ear. Many such concerns were granted loans in defiance of what private bankers considered sound lending practice.

No doubt this greater liberality often had beneficial results, but that cannot be allowed to obscure the essential that the R.F.C. was serving as a vast commercial bank. On several occasions, indeed, the R.F.C.'s well-known liberality enabled private banks to transfer to that agency outstanding loans the banks rated as poor risks.

But as it has developed in the capital, the issue goes well beyond the economic justifications for keeping or abolishing the R.F.C. Basically the problem has become a moral one.

What the investigation of Senator Fulbright's subcommittee has disclosed is a supreme example of the folly of government by crony—"cronyism," as some have styled it.

Too often President Truman has placed in key government office not the most fit men, nor even well-qualified men, but simply men he knew and liked.

It is the thoughtful testimony of several seasoned Washington observers that Mr. Truman has thereby permitted a host of federal commissions and bureaus to deteriorate dangerously. The Civil Aeronautics Board, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission, these are among them.

Worse than this, the President has maintained an almost fanatical loyalty to his cronies holding these jobs. Loyalty is a noble trait, but loyalty to incompetent men—friends or not—is misplaced. The President would do much better to be loyal to high standards of performance.

Senator Fulbright may not be without political motive, but the facts unearthed by his committee cannot be brushed off as campaign fantasies. The expensive mink coat given to a White House secretary, the free vacations for White House functionaries (and senators, too, for that matter) at the expense of a Florida hotel manager who won an R.F.C. loan, the innumerable payoffs through awards of high-salaried business jobs to former R.F.C. men, these compound into a sordid, immoral story.

The result is not only a weakening of the R.F.C. itself, but a general lowering of moral behavior in many parts of the administration, in Congress, and elsewhere.

Mr. Hoover, Jesse Jones and others have called for R.F.C.'s demise. To abolish the agency would be to set an example, to start government back up the road to sound moral performance.

DESTITUTION IN KOREA

J. Donald Kingsley, United Nations agent-general for Korean reconstruction, had to search for superlatives to try to describe the extent of devastation in Korea when he returned from his first visit. He said two-thirds of Korea is destroyed beyond anything ever before experienced in war by any country.

Whether the destruction in Korea is worse than ever happened before would be difficult to establish, but that point is not the important one. It is obvious that the land and the people have been reduced to destitution. Kingsley said he had never before seen refugees so completely destitute and pitiful.

Sooner or later we shall find a way to end the fighting. But the scars of this war will demand remembrance for a generation or two.

Three hundred thousand of the fourteen million American boys who left home in World War II never came back. From these who are voiceless come the most meaningful pleas for world peace.

Nothing is so welcome as the sun on a rainy day, unless it is a rain cloud on a hot one.

'These Days'

THE MISSING LINK

In all the excitement about Europe, with such voluminous and expert testimony about how many divisions we must send to defend the Rhine and other touristic rivers, little or nothing is being said about Central or South America.

It would seem that this is the missing link in our policy. These two American continents are joined together in an association of mutual self-interest which makes for a natural alliance. Besides, we are, with increasing rapidity, recognizing that with the probable exception of diamonds, the American continents can provide all essential minerals and metals necessary for our production and defense. In fact, with sensible capital investments, the American continents could supply all the raw materials essential to our well-being.

Yet, so strong is the European tradition among us that we plunge into constantly more expensive adventures on the continent of Europe, while we ignore altogether the great riches on the American continents.

Governor Dewey's metallurgical knowledge failed him when he testified before Senator Connally's committee, for the governor seems to have forgotten the resources and reserves of Brazil and Chile in his excitement over how many divisions General Eisenhower requires, something about which General Eisenhower has been discreetly silent.

Herbert Hoover, who has always been a mining engineer and a metallurgist, who wrote a classical textbook on the subject and translated another from the Latin, contested Governor Dewey's worries in the following language:

"I presume Governor Dewey's statement was made in reply to one of mine, and Governor Dewey limited his statement to Continental United States. I said that it is possible, by poper economic policy, to develop all of the necessary and critical raw materials in the western hemisphere. I include the whole hemisphere, and not the United States alone. . . .

"Now, supplies of many of these critical commodities are a matter of price. For instance, if there was a sufficient price, and I do not think that it is a very much larger price, probably five cents a pound in the present buying power of money, this country could produce all of the zinc and all the lead, and the western hemisphere could produce all of the copper that it would require. As to uranium supplies they would be more costly, if we had to get them out of the western hemisphere. There is also cobalt and chromium and there are aluminum ores. They are all possible at a sufficient price. So that the argument does not run in full. It only runs to the expenditures."

So, I looked up a few facts:

Antimony ore is available in Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Honduras, the United States and Mexico.

Bauxite, from which aluminum is made, is available in British Guiana, Curacao, Jamaica, Surinam and the United States.

Chrome ore is found in the United States and Canada, the Philippines and Cuba.

Cobalt ore is found in the United States and Canada.

Copper is found in Chile, Peru and Ecuador, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Lead ore comes from the United States, Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Canada, Mexico and Newfoundland.

Manganese is found in the United States and Mexico, but more in Brazil, Chile and Cuba.

Petroleum comes from the United States, Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia.

Tin ore comes to us in vast quantities from Bolivia. There is also tin ore in Brazil and Chile.

Much is said about the lack of tungsten. Argentina, Brazil, the United States, Canada, Mexico, Bolivia, and Peru supply tungsten.

Vanadium comes from Peru and the United States.

Zinc comes from the Argentine, Bolivia, Peru, the United States, Canada and Mexico.

This is neither a complete list of metals nor a complete list of what is available on the American continents. It is a sample to cut sharply into the argument that these two great continents, which for centuries have been regarded as nature's treasure house, have suddenly become old Mother Hubbard's cupboard merely to establish a political argument. Brazil alone, with adequate capital investment and engineering skill, can show the politician that it is not necessary to kill American boys to get metals.

As for uranium, there is ample on the American continent and everybody knows it, including Joe Stalin—and the geiger counters are chasing each other to find samples.

If we think of the American continents more, and devote ourselves to cultivating the good will of our Latin neighbors, we will be showing some common sense.

That Body of Yours

THREE-DAY FEVER

When an individual in warm weather is afflicted with tiredness, painful muscles, the sudden onset of a high temperature which lasts but a short time, the condition is sometimes called "summer flu." This is really a natural name for it, as it does greatly resemble the flu of cold weather.

This disease attacked a great many men, women and children during this past three summers, and in The Journal of Diseases of Children, Drs. C. H. Webb and S. G. Wolfe describe a group of symptoms which appears to represent a formerly unrecognized ailment. It is called "three-day fever."

Clinical studies of 86 children who had this acute illness point to a virus as the cause. The striking features of three-day fever were the sudden onset of high fever, severe headache and painful muscles. There was little or no rash, no disturbance of nose, throat and lungs, nor of the stomach and intestines. Investigation showed that the disease was transmitted from one person to another about four days after contact. The disease was self-limited, ran a course lasting two to four days, and, as with other self-limited diseases, was not helped or harmed by any treatment that was given.

It has not yet been determined whether or not the disease starts with insects or animals, and is transmitted to man. One investigator has shown that several new viruses of insects or animals can be the immediate or indirect cause of human infection.

Because a disease is self-limited and runs a course of days or weeks despite any form of treatment does not mean that no treatment is necessary. Any disease that tires and causes a rise in temperature with increase in pulse rate, even if self-limited, requires rest and quietness for the patient because a rise in temperature and pulse rate means that the body has a fight on its hands and needs nursing and care both during the attack and after the symptoms have disappeared.

The Big Wheel in the Nation's Capital

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

Athens—The chief subject every American is asked about, no matter what country he is traveling in is, Harry Truman's temperament. Why, you are asked, does your President write so many letters? Why does he call people so many names? Why does he make so many quick statements in press conferences?

Few people in the United States realize how widely the President's letter to Paul Hume, Washington music critic, was published—from London to the smaller cities of the Balkans. In Turkey some newspapers, having heard that the President once hurled an uncomplimentary epithet in my direction, got mixed up and thought the Hume letter had been written to me.

Leaving personalities strictly aside, however, the net effect of the President's mercurial disposition is to give the rest of the world an impression of American unsteadiness and a feeling that we are likely to fly off halfcocked. This applies to press conferences as much as presidential letter-writing, as two cases will illustrate.

A couple of weeks ago, Mr. Truman was asked at a press conference whether the United Nations forces in Korea would cross the 38th Parallel. He replied that he was leaving this entirely up to General MacArthur. Now, it so happened that this was not true. But true or not, nothing he could have said could have injured our relations more with other U.N. nations, for several reasons.

First they feel important political decisions of this kind involving further embroglio with China and Russia are not up to the American military commander but the entire U.N. Second, both the French and the British repeatedly urged, requested and begged us not to go above the 38th Parallel prior to MacArthur's previous disastrious advance. Third, we are now demanding that Europe rearm under and American ground commander, an American naval commander and air commander. Unfortunately, Mr. Truman's hasty press-conference statement makes them think twice about who would decide political matters regarding European defense.

The other Truman press-conference boner was his famous statement that we are considering dropping the A-bomb on Korea which brought British Prime Minister Attlee hotfooting it to Washington.

Questions Sometimes Loaded

Most people don't remember that the three most recent Republican presidents refused to answer oral questions at press conferences and that it is only a man of extraordinary versatility, such as Franklin Roosevelt was, who can get away with it. Every week, as 200 newsmen face the President, they come armed with questions which either they or their editors have concocted on a score of difficult, sometimes intricate, problems. Some are friendly, some are calculated to embarrass, some merely want information. Presidents Coolidge and Hoover found it wiser to answer these only when handed in in writing in advance, and this system of written questions began through the same kind of boner as that which Mr. Truman has occasionally been guilty of.

During the Washington Arms Conference in 1921 President Harding, who then permitted oral questions, was asked whether the treaty banning fortifications applied to the Japanese mainland which, of course, incuded Japanese islands. He replied in the affirmative. Whereupon the State Department had to rewrite the entire treaty to clarify this issue. After that Harding permitted only questions in writing.

American Impact on Greece

You don't have to read the signs at the railroad stations to sense the difference between the Communist and capitalist countries when you pass a border in Europe. The minute you get into Greece from Communist Jugoslavia you can tell the difference in a dozen different ways—the availability of taxicabs, the speed of doing business, the vigor of the atmoshpere. Part of this is due to American money and American methods, which have had a terrific impact on Greece during the last three years....Greece now rates as one of the most efficient countries in Europe. Gen. Reuben Jenkins, a former Georgia National Guardsman, deserves great credit for training the Greek Army into an aggressive, compact fighting force which could throw 10 division into battle overnight with 10 more divisions available in a week.... Greek airways now cover the country. Whereas it once took days to get around Greece by boat, corner in a matter of hours. Much of this enterprise is due to American aid and encouragement. U. S. Ambassador Jack Peurifoy had a lot to do with persuading the Greek government to open its border to Jugoslavia at Salonika, thus airplanes now reach almost every permitting American food shipments to enter by the shortest route. I was on the first train from Greece into Jugoslavia carrying American food, marking a new milestone in Jugoslav-Greek friendship. Most people wouldn't realize the significance of this first pioneer train unless they remembered that, only brief months ago, Jugoslavia was still the chief source of arms for Communist guerrillas which had kept Greece in a state of bloody revolt for three years. In contrast, Jugoslav officials, with U. S. Ambassador George Allen, came from Belgrade to the Greek border to participate in a friendly ceremony with Greek officials and the U. S. consul at Salonika, Glenn Abbey the greatest contribution to people-to-people friendship in the Near East over a long period of years has been supplied by Robert College in Istanbul and the American Farm School in Salonika, under Charles House. Both have turned out thousands of youngsters who not only have improved their own country but have strengthened the friendship between the United States, Greece and Turkey. Wherever you go in the Near East, you bump into Roberts College graduates who are working for this better understanding.

Korean Situation Expected to Bring New Climax in Four or Five Weeks

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 12—Nobody seems to know what the next step is in Korea though within the next four to five weeks the situation there will bring a new climax.

With flying conditions bound to be bad as the weather takes its seasonal turn for the worse, U.N. ground forces, which have up to now been sufficiently mobile to maneuver effectively against Communist operations, will be handicapped in obtaining supplies by air.

The Communists are building their offensive strength steadily for an expected push that may exceed in intensity anything they have tried thus far. The real tussle is between two methods of supply. The U.N. forces with motor vehicles and planes to supply their needs from day to day can take care of a much larger enemy force by means of superior firepower. But the Red Chinese, reenforced now by Russian suplies and munitions, are going to find it easier to move southward because of the diminishing effectiveness of our air attack.

Well-informed officers returning from Korea say it is almost impossible from the air to detect the presence of enemy supplies because of the use of camouflage and the fact that most movements are at night. While they are pessimistic about the time it may take to defeat the enemy—some say it is a matter of years rather than months—they are equally positive that the Red Chinese cannot push us off the peninsula.

The general feeling is that a defense line will be stabilized either somewhat north of the 38th parallel or not far distant from it on the south side. The public prediction by General MacArthur recently that only a "stalemate" can be expected has more significance than was attached to it at the time it was made.

It will be noted that the supreme commander went to the Korean front and there released his prepared statement. He made it clear that unless U.N. troops are permitted to bomb Manchurian bases there was no sense in attempting any further offensive on a large scale to try to drive the enemy back to the Yalu river. He did point out, on the other hand, that the U.N. forces were exacting a terrible toll and that the enemy could not go along indefinitely with heavier and heavier losses and useless destruction of human life.

What the general undoubtedly was hinting at perhaps was the need for some further move to cause the Red Chinese and the Russians to reappraise the situation and prepare to accede to U. N. terms. These must necessarily include the liberation of all Korea and the payment of an indemnity or some other form of penalty for the aggression itself. General MacArthur himself carefully refrains from commenting on what he regards as "political" or "policy" decisions being content merely to point out that the Korean War can go on as it is without achieving any particular military objective unless on some other level the diplomats can persuade the Communists that the adventure is hopeless and might as well be ended now.

From the viewpoint of our military leaders, Korea has been valuable in teaching all branches of the armed services some much needed lessons. It has furnished combat training for many new officers and troops who did not see service in World War II. It has awakened the American people to the neglected state of their defenses. It has served notice on Russia that aggression will be resisted anywhere in the world as an obligation of the United Nations charter. It has emphasized, too, that while American resources were drained somewhat in the Far East, so also can the Communists be subject to a heavy drain in materials and supplies—something they cannot as readily afford as can the other members of the U. N.

If the coming offensive should be turned back by midsummer with heavy losses or if the enemy succeeds in pushing our forces back only a few miles and then finds itself stymied until better weather enables U. N. forces to press back the enemy, the hour of decision on a policy basis will be at hand. Again it is far more likely that the Communists will stick it out and that the Korean War will go on indefinitely. As one officer remarked the other day: "It's another Spain."

General Eisenhower's political importance as a candidate for the presidency and as an author of our political and military policy in western Europe, calls for a sober study of his record. Mothers See Film Stressing the Home

Members of the Mothers' Club of School No. 5 saw the movie "Families First" during their March 8 meeting with Mrs. Addison Scholes presiding.

At the business session preceeding the movie Mrs. Walter Fallon was appointed chairman of the nominating committee, and it was announced that mothers may visit their children's teachers afternoons from 3:30 to 3:45.

Basic emphasis of the film was the importance of home life in bringing up children. Two different homes were portrayed in illustration. The children of one family grew to be sound, mature citizens, while a child in the second family ended in prison. The film underlined the importance of security, affection, recognition, and new experiences in raising a family. Security, it pointed out, means more than merely providing necessary physical needs. It means sharing work and play, and providing entertainment for the family as a whole.

Affection, the film continued, means both love, and understanding, while recognition may be interpreted as praising their accomplishments. Meanwhile, without supervision, new experiences, may be entirely the wrong sort. Parents should be sure to set the proper example for their children.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Raymond W. Gilkey led a discussion period.

Shower Is Held For Miss Richter

Modena, March 12—A bridal shower was given for Miss Helen Richter, bride-elect of Richard Randles of Poughkeepsie, Friday night at the home of Mrs. Walter West, Ardonia. Decorations were made from pink and white paper, with pink satin bows, and the gifts were placed under a shower umbrella. Centerpiece for the table was a large shower cake, trimmed with pink icing. Mrs. Walter West acted as hostess.

The following guests attended: Mrs. Otto Richter, Miss Evelyn Richter, Mrs. Oscar West, Mrs. Karl Holmberg, and Mrs. Frank Saberese of Ardonia; Mrs. Kenneth Stabler, Miss Pat Burns, and Miss Phyllis Carle of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Max Meyer, Mrs. Harold West and Mrs. Harry Imfield of Modena.

Miss Richter will be married Saturday, March 24, in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Poughkeepsie.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

DEMONSTRATIONS IN PUBLIC

Every now and then a letter asks: "Is it good taste for a couple to 'make love' in public, especially when in a group with others? The rest of us are continually embarrassed by the behavior of one couple. Will you express an opinion?"

Even though affection is expected between engaged people, "petting" in public is in very worst taste, and as you say, embarrassing to others.

Husband Is Absent!

Dear Mrs. Post: How should we address a wedding invitation to a friend whose husband was involved in a business scandal and is serving time in the penitentiary? This is to our daughter's wedding.

Answer: If there is any possibility of the wife's being led to believe that her husband's situation is unknown, then it would be kind to address the envelope to Mr. and Mrs. But if no one could be ignorant of the fact that he is serving sentence, it might be better to send it to Mrs. alone, because less embarrassing for her to answer.

Bridal Attendants

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother feels that all, or at least a majority, of the bridal attendants should be unmarried. As it happens I'm the last of my best friends to marry. How can I help it, or possibly leave them out? Mother gives the custom of throwing the bridal bouquet as proof of her point that these attendants should be unmarried.

Answer: I'm sorry to disagree with your mother, but in my opinion you should choose your best friends regardless of whether or not they are married. Having your best friends is of much greater importance than throwing your bouquet! For that matter, you perfectly well could collect a group of unmarried girls and throw your bouquet to them

Tipping Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me how much we should tip the two waitresses who serve fifty guests. The price of meals are two-fifty apiece.

Answer: Since the work will be rather heavy, fifteen dollars divided between them would be about right.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, answers to such problems as clothes of the bridal party, including those of the flower girl and the men of the party, will be found in her leaflet, E-3. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Colonial Bazaar Is Set for Wednesday

Wiltwyck Chapter, D.A.R., will hold its seventh annual colonial bazaar Wednesday at the chapter house at the corner of Crown and Green streets.

Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm, general chairman, has announced that there will be two card parties held in conjunction with the bazaar. The first will begin at 1:30 p. m., and the second at 7:30 p. m. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Maynard Mize, chairman, at 2666.

Meanwhile, many articles will be on sale at the various bazaar booths. Mrs. G. N. Wood will be in charge of the apron booth; Mrs. Arthur C. Quimby, the miscellaneous booth; Mrs. William Hookey, the food booth, and Mrs. R. Billings, C.A.R., the candy booths.

Those not wishing to play cards will be served a "Betsey Ross tea" with Mrs. Raymond R. Gross and Mrs. Clair Sheaffer as hostesses. Dessert for the card parties will be served by Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger and Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller.

Mrs. Adam H. Porter, regent, has announced that the bazaar is open to the public and its patronage solicited.

Seymour Newman To Wed Shortly

New York, March 10 (Special)—Miss Natalie Krolick of 62 Sheriff street, New York, and Seymour Newman, formerly of Kingston and now at 380 East 8th street, New York, were issued a marriage license today at the city clerk's office here.

The couple did not set the time or place for the ceremony.

Personal Notes

John Doyle of 58 Broadway celebrated his 84th birthday last week at his home. Mr. Doyle is one of the oldest fishermen to be found in the lower portion of the city.

John W. Skerritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Skerritt, Jr., of Hurley, has been named to the dean's list at Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam.

The first telephone call between New York and Boston was made Sept. 4, 1884.

Golden Age Club Provides Elderly With New Friends and Added Interests

It's sometimes very lonely to be old. A family disintegrates with age. The children marry, and circumstances change. The circle of friends, which once seemed so wide, shrinks, and dissolves. And all too often there are few ways left to fill that very vital and human need, social intercourse.

Elderly people seldom mind their days, for they can be filled with dozens of chores. It's the empty, silent procession of evenings; the gaping, seemingly endless hours between sunset and bedtime, that are so hard to fill alone.

Realizing this situation, a little over six months ago the Y.W.C.A. Women's Club, headed by their president, Mrs. Raymond Craft, organized what is now known as the Golden Age Club. Here men and women, aged from 60 to 100, gather the second and fourth Friday of each month. Their programs vary from an evening of games, to movies and guest speakers. But it's not the program that's so important. What is important is that there is an organization which gives the community's elderly citizens the opportunity to meet each other, make new friends, and achieve new interests.

Only Opportunity

"You know," one white-haired woman who had only lived a short time in the city remarked," this is wonderful for me, because before I came to the Golden Age Club I had no opportunity to meet people."

Other members tell similar stories. One 88-year-old member, who first appeared at the club before Christmas, admitted it was the first time she had left her home in three years. Others happily explained that they have met contemporaries through the club with whom they can play cards, visit, or see a movie. Four of the members have even formed their own card club.

All Types Attend

Nearly every type of aged person in the community has found his or her way to the "Y" on nights when the Golden Age Club meets.

"They're a surprisingly democratic group," Mrs. Craft remarks. "And it's equally surprising how well they all mix."

The members are unusually faithful when it comes to attending meetings. On the Friday before Christmas, a night notorious for its excesses of sleet, ice, and snow, nearly 25 of the group's 40 members managed to reach the "Y". It was the sort of night when men and women many years younger were only too glad to stay at home.

On Their Own

Not too many months ago Golden Age members looked to the Women's Club for their programs, refreshments, and transportation. But the situation is changing rapidly to an attitude of self responsibility. Today, homemakers of other years stir up their own cakes. (home baked cakes are a universal favorite, when it comes to refreshments) and takes pride in their hostess roles.

"By next year," Mrs. Craft explains, "the Golden Age Club ought to be pretty well on its own." You know, she adds, "you have no idea how much satisfaction this venture gives me. I've always liked elderly people, and I've wanted to work out some sort of a plan for them for almost five years. It's just too bad more communities don't start similar projects."

A Ribbon for the Oldest

Government Can't Forget God, Says Knights' Speaker

Speaking at the annual communion breakfast of Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, Sunday, Stephen J. Cushing of Brooklyn, past state deputy of the order, said, "civilization without religion or morals degenerates rapidly into a civilization of the survival of the fittest, a civilization in which illegitimate desire knows no restraint, passion no curbs and selfishness no limits."

"If the godlessness and irreligion of the people continue to grow, we're finished. America is doomed. You can't take God out of government and godliness from our national life and expect our greatness to continue," he told the 300 knights assembled in their council hall at Broadway and Andrew street.

Previous to the breakafst, the men received their annual Communion in St. Peter's Church at the 8 a. m. Mass offered by Rev. Henry E. Herdegen, chaplain of Kingston Council.

Grand Knight James Geary welcomed the knights at the breakfast, and Frank A. Reis, district deputy, discussed the progress of the fraternity which now numbers more than 800,000 members. Dr. John A. Cooke, toastmaster, introduced the speakers.

The speech of Past State Deputy Cushing follows:

"We are gathered in the year of the Lord 1951, a year designated by our church as a Holy Year. With civilization at the crossroads it is our earnest hope that the prayers of the faithful throughout Christendom will bring to the world the peace and happiness which inept and vacillating statesmanship has failed to produce.

"The year 1951 ushered in a general discussion concerning the first half of the 20th century, as well as countless prophecies for the future. Now, as we look back, memory paints a vivid picture.

"Many of our contemporaries proclaim the preeminence of this era over all the past, because it has given us unparelleled progress in the fields of art, science and letters, and because it has contributed to human comfort and welfare through inventions and discoveries and by opening up vast avenues of knowledge and endeavor.

"We have automobile, airplane, telegraph, telephone, television, radio, sulfa drugs, pencillin, just to mention a few.

Education Outlaws God

"However, this first half century lacks much that makes for true greatness. Spiritual illiteracy is probably the most appalling form of human ignorance, yet we find a concerted effort to outlaw God in our educational system. This first half century has already given us two world wars, with a third in the offing, the worst depression in history, the atom bomb, the hydrogen bomb, the emergence of the socialist or welfare state, the scourge of communism, and a distorted moral sense which counsels birth prevention, condones Euthanasia, and has made a national sport of 'coveting thy neighbor's wife,' to say nothing of the queer little men and sundry spies who found haven on government payrolls. Possibly the time has come to look at the picture which memory furnishes, and once again put first things first.

'I would guess that there are some of you who well remember the pleasant, even if somewhat rugged days at the turn of the century, and if you were not around then, you have probably obtained first hand information from the old timer who is always ready to extol the good old days with a rare eloquence.

Days of Love and Faith

"Those were the days of the gas-lit, coal stove homes. The stoves didn't give too much heat and the gas never gave too much light, but in those homes there was always warmth and light, because there was love and faith and sympathetic understanding. It would appear that the young men and women who in those days accepted the sacred vocation of parenthood had a keener appreciation of the privilege which was theirs in cooperating with God in His plan of creation, and because of their fidelity and devotion, they were better able to command and receive the love, the respect and the obedience of thir children.

"In those days, the marriage vow usually meant exactly what it said, 'until death do us part.' Juvenile delinquency was not a national problem then because there was no confusing multiplicity of parents arising from marriages which terminated not at death, but in the divorce court at the first convenient opportunity. Children in those days could look to their real parents for good example and to sincere school teachers who were faithful to their trusts.

"Boys and girls in those days did not have the sickening influence of high salaried, multi-married, marijuana smoking celebrities of the entertainment world.

"Governments too, reflecting the sentiments of the people adhered to a morale code which provided a system of ethics for international relations, unlike the present time, when American idealism and forthrightness, must combat the ideological clap-trap of Godless nations whose ethics would disgrace a band of hotten-tots.

Unprecedented Changes

"The American who regrets the passing of the old days, and the student of history whose work is the study of times and events and the movements of people, stands aghast at the unprecedented changes which have taken place in just one generation. Europe, the ancient citadel of Christendom and the cradle of western civilization, has been turned into an inferno of chaos and hatred. Social disintegration threatens a return to barbarism, while an inhuman organization known as totalitarianism hovers like a savage vulture over the depressed and distraught nations of the old world, and stares menacingly across the Atlantic with covetous eyes on the greatest republic in all the tide of history, our own United States.

"The transition from those old days to the present did not occur overnight, nor in a generation. Regardless of how prosperous an era may appear to be, a civilization whose spiritual life is dying or extinct, already carries within it, the seed of its own corruption. Proverbially, the apple ruddiest to the eye is the one that bears the deadly canker at its core.

"Hence, the false philosophies which were born of the reformation, gathered momentum during the French revolution, and then smashed their way to the front after World War 1 while the western world busied itself keeping God and justice out of the peace and the statesmen of the victorious allies divided the spoils of World War 1, and sowed the seeds of the second world conflict.

"It was in this setting that smugly complacent man, in his rebellious attemp to elevate the creature to the dignity of the Creator, allowed his material and scientific achievements to go to his head, and in the process discovered that his godless science had catalogued him in the category of the ape, after having enjoyed many centuries of closeness to the angels.

Depends on Individuals

"Cardinal Newman once said that the layman was the measure of the church. A citizen then is the measure of his country and the testimony of thousands of years of history bears evidence of the fact that a nation will never be any more religious or moral than are its individual citizens. Western civilization, which was once entirely Christian, was the greatest civilization in the history of the world—until it separated itself from Christ. When it lost Christ, it lost its superiority, for a civilization without religion or morals degenerates rapidly into a civilization of the survival of the fittest, a civilization in which illegitimate desire knows no restraint, passion no curbs and selfishness no limits.

"Why then, in the year of the Lord 1951, de wo find civilization at the crossroads with our fate hanging in the balance?

"One thing we know. If the godlessness and irreligion of the people continue to grow, we're finished. America is doomed. You just can't take God out of government and godliness from our national life and expect our greatness to continue. And, mind you, when we speak in this vein we are not advocating the union of church and state; we are just not going to allow the divorce of God from our American way of life.

"Christian tradition tells us that the guilt of humanity at any one segment of the circle is to some extent the guilt of the circle itself, and with that in mind, we will have only ourselves to blame if we allow the disintegration of society to continue to the detriment of our American way of life.

Must Have Moral Code

"I sound the solemn warning that western civilization will not survive the onrush of totalitarianism unless we revitalize that civilization with true Christian meaning, with religion and with a moral code.

"To many, this task may seem hopeless if not impossible. But Christianity has met the challenge before. The church knows the meaning of crisis and sacrifice and martyrdom. She labored zealously for centuries to establish a way of life bedrocked upon the dignity of man as a person, with God-given inalienable rights which can neither be circumscribed nor abrogated by any power on earth, rights which are affirmed by our Declaration of Independence, and guaranteed to Americans by our Constitution and Bill of Rights.

"The infant church, with its limited numbers, met a greater challenge in the earliest days of Christianity. There is no problem confronting us today that the early church did not confront in worse form and conquer.

"In these days, cruel dictatorship, vice and lust seemed to be conditioning the world for another purge like the fire that descended upon the cities of the plain. But the light which appeared was Christ, and the fire, the Holy Ghost, and Rome, the worse persecutor of Christianity until modern Russia, became the center of Christianity, and history can repeat itself.

Communism Big Challenge

"Today, communism, with its hoard of coarse, crude Asiatics presents a menacing challenge to God, church and country. The trouble is that we will neither understand nor defeat communism if we regard it merely as an economic theory. It is a philosophy of life and only a stronger philosophy of life can meet it and defeat it.

"That stronger philosophy of life is Christianity. But we are not going to achieve our ends by talking Christianity. We must live Christianity. We must be Christ-like every minute of the day and every day of our lives.

"We must set the example of personal rectitude and moral integrity, remembering that it is always better to light just one small candle than to curse the darkness. We must re-establish a sense of right in those who have apparently lost their sense of wrong. We must develop and propagate the high moral virtues that constitute the natural dignity of man. We must stand firmly for the defense of human rights.

"We must defend the marriage bond. We must defend the home. We must restore the Christian family to its rightful place in the life of man. We must defend the right of the unborn child to life. We must defend the right of that child to a religious education, an education which will enable him to know to love and to serve God. We must defend the parents to give their children that religious education. We must defend the right of the worker to a living wage and the rights of the employer to just treatment on the part of labor leadership. We must defend the rights of minorities, racial groups and small nations.

"In conclusion, as we face the second half century, let us pray for the grace and strength to face the challenge which lies ahead, because it may be reserved for one of you to spend yourself, body and soul, in humble imitation of that apotheosis of charity which found its consummation on the dread hill of Calvary.

"Guard and kindle that spark of faith wherever you find it, so that it may always burns as a flaming torch to guard and guide the lives of those you love.

Calls for Catholic Action

"As Knights of Columbus, I ask you to rededicate yourself to the pledges which you took as members of the order; that you let charity be the virtue that will distinguish you as you go through life, loving Christ above all things, and loving your neighbor, your brother, for Christ's sake; that you band yourself together as a united group, in the spirit of true fraternity and dedicate yourself to a course of Catholic action to restore all things in Christ, and lastly, that you return to the simple patriotism of your forefathers, for that alone will furnish the answer to the chaos and anarchy which threatens us.

"May it please God to give us the health and the strength to do these things, to the end that our beloved America, erected upon the discovery of our noble patron Christopher Columbus, and preserved by the labor, energy and sacrifice of our forefathers, shall not perish from the earth."

A period of prayer was observed for Knights who died during the past year: Stepheh M. Connelly, Joseph M. Elgo, Francis W. Helmerle, Cornelius G. Enright, William B. Fleming, Daniel J. Kilfoyle, and Frank K. Mooney.

Mothers See Film Stressing the Home

Members of the Mothers' Club of School No. 5 saw the movie "Families First" during their March 8 meeting with Mrs. Addison Scholes presiding.

At the business session preceeding the movie Mrs. Walter Fallon was appointed chairman of the nominating committee, and it was announced that mothers may visit their children's teachers afternoons from 3:30 to 3:45.

Basic emphasis of the film was the importance of home life in bringing up children. Two different homes were portrayed in illustration. The children of one family grew to be sound, mature citizens, while a child in the second family ended in prison. The film underlined the importance of security, affection, recognition, and new experiences in raising a family. Security, it pointed out, means more than merely providing necessary physical needs. It means sharing work and play, and providing entertainment for the family as a whole.

Affection, the film continued, means both love, and understanding, while recognition may be interpreted as praising their accomplishments. Meanwhile, without supervision, new experiences, may be entirely the wrong sort. Parents should be sure to set the proper example for their children.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Raymond W. Gilkey led a discussion period.

Shower Is Held For Miss Richter

Modena, March 12—A bridal shower was given for Miss Helen Richter, bride-elect of Richard Randles of Poughkeepsie, Friday night at the home of Mrs. Walter West, Ardonia. Decorations were made from pink and white paper, with pink satin bows, and the gifts were placed under a shower umbrella. Centerpiece for the table was a large shower cake, trimmed with pink icing. Mrs. Walter West acted as hostess.

The following guests attended: Mrs. Otto Richter, Miss Evelyn Richter, Mrs. Oscar West, Mrs. Karl Holmberg, and Mrs. Frank Saberese of Ardonia; Mrs. Kenneth Stabler, Miss Pat Burns, and Miss Phyllis Carle of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Max Meyer, Mrs. Harold West and Mrs. Harry Imfield of Modena.

Miss Richter will be married Saturday, March 24, in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Poughkeepsie.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

DEMONSTRATIONS IN PUBLIC

Every now and then a letter asks: "Is it good taste for a couple to 'make love' in public, especially when in a group with others? The rest of us are continually embarrassed by the behavior of one couple. Will you express an opinion?"

Even though affection is expected between engaged people, "petting" in public is in very worst taste, and as you say, embarrassing to others.

Husband Is Absent!

Dear Mrs. Post: How should we address a wedding invitation to a friend whose husband was involved in a business scandal and is serving time in the penitentiary? This is to our daughter's wedding.

Answer: If there is any possibility of the wife's being led to believe that her husband's situation is unknown, then it would be kind to address the envelope to Mr. and Mrs. But if no one could be ignorant of the fact that he is serving sentence, it might be better to send it to Mrs. alone, because less embarrassing for her to answer.

Bridal Attendants

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother feels that all, or at least a majority, of the bridal attendants should be unmarried. As it happens I'm the last of my best friends to marry. How can I help it, or possibly leave them out? Mother gives the custom of throwing the bridal bouquet as proof of her point that these attendants should be unmarried.

Answer: I'm sorry to disagree with your mother, but in my opinion you should choose your best friends regardless of whether or not they are married. Having your best friends is of much greater importance than throwing your bouquet! For that matter, you perfectly well could collect a group of unmarried girls and throw your bouquet to them

Tipping Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me how much we should tip the two waitresses who serve fifty guests. The price of meals are two-fifty apiece.

Answer: Since the work will be rather heavy, fifteen dollars divided between them would be about right.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, answers to such problems as clothes of the bridal party, including those of the flower girl and the men of the party, will be found in her leaflet, E-3. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Colonial Bazaar Is Set for Wednesday

Wiltwyck Chapter, D.A.R., will hold its seventh annual colonial bazaar Wednesday at the chapter house at the corner of Crown and Green streets.

Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm, general chairman, has announced that there will be two card parties held in conjunction with the bazaar. The first will begin at 1:30 p. m., and the second at 7:30 p. m. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Maynard Mizel, chairman, at 2666.

Meanwhile, many articles will be on sale at the various bazaar booths. Mrs. G. N. Wood will be in charge of the apron booth; Mrs. Arthur C. Quimby, the miscellaneous booth; Mrs. William Hookey, the food booth, and Mrs. R. Billings, C.A.R., the candy booths.

Those not wishing to play cards will be served a "Betsey Ross tea" with Mrs. Raymond R. Gross and Mrs. Clair Sheaffer as hostesses. Dessert for the card parties will be served by Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger and Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller.

Mrs. Adam H. Porter, regent, has announced that the bazaar is open to the public and its patronage solicited.

Seymour Newman To Wed Shortly

New York, March 10 (Special)—Miss Natalie Krolick of 62 Sheriff street, New York, and Seymour Newman, formerly of Kingston and now at 380 East 8th street, New York, were issued a marriage license today at the city clerk's office here.

The couple did not set the time or place for the ceremony.

Personal Notes

John Doyle of 58 Broadway celebrated his 84th birthday last week at his home. Mr. Doyle is one of the oldest fishermen to be found in the lower portion of the city.

John W. Skerritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Skerritt, Jr., of Hurley, has been named to the dean's list at Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam.

The first telephone call between New York and Boston was made Sept. 4, 1884.

Golden Age Club Provides Elderly With New Friends and Added Interests

It's sometimes very lonely to be old. A family disintegrates with age. The children marry, and circumstances change. The circle of friends, which once seemed so wide, shrinks, and dissolves. And all too often there are few ways left to fill that very vital and human need, social intercourse.

Elderly people seldom mind their days, for they can be filled with dozens of chores. It's the empty, silent procession of evenings; the gaping, seemingly endless hours between sunset and bedtime, that are so hard to fill alone.

Realizing this situation, a little over six months ago the Y.W.C.A. Women's Club, headed by their president, Mrs. Raymond Craft, organized what is now known as the Golden Age Club. Here men and women, aged from 60 to 100, gather the second and fourth Friday of each month. Their programs vary from an evening of games, to movies and guest speakers. But it's not the program that's so important. What is important is that there is an organization which gives the community's elderly citizens the opportunity to meet each other, make new friends, and achieve new interests.

Only Opportunity

"You know," one white-haired woman who had only lived a short time in the city remarked," this is wonderful for me, because before I came to the Golden Age Club I had no opportunity to meet people."

Other members tell similar stories. One 88-year-old member, who first appeared at the club before Christmas, admitted it was the first time she had left her home in three years. Others happily explained that they have met contemporaries through the club with whom they can play cards, visit, or see a movie. Four of the members have even formed their own card club.

All Types Attend

Nearly every type of aged person in the community has found his or her way to the "Y" on nights when the Golden Age Club meets.

"They're a surprisingly democratic group," Mrs. Craft remarks. "And it's equally surprising how well they all mix."

The members are unusually faithful when it comes to attending meetings. On the Friday before Christmas, a night notorious for its excesses of sleet, ice, and snow, nearly 25 of the group's 40 members managed to reach the "Y". It was the sort of night when men and women many years younger were only too glad to stay at home.

On Their Own

Not too many months ago Golden Age members looked to the Women's Club for their programs, refreshments, and transportation. But the situation is changing rapidly to an attitude of self responsibility. Today, homemakers of other years stir up their own cakes. (home baked cakes are a universal favorite, when it comes to refreshments) and takes pride in their hostess roles.

"By next year," Mrs. Craft explains, "the Golden Age Club ought to be pretty well on its own." You know, she adds, "you have no idea how much satisfaction this venture gives me. I've always liked elderly people, and I've wanted to work out some sort of a plan for them for almost five years. It's just too bad more communities don't start similar projects."

A Ribbon for the Oldest

Government Can't Forget God, Says Knights' Speaker

Speaking at the annual communion breakfast of Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, Sunday, Stephen J. Cushing of Brooklyn, past state deputy of the order, said, "civilization without religion or morals degenerates rapidly into a civilization of the survival of the fittest, a civilization in which illegitimate desire knows no restraint, passion no curbs and selfishness no limits."

"If the godlessness and irreligion of the people continue to grow, we're finished. America is doomed. You can't take God out of government and godliness from our national life and expect our greatness to continue," he told the 300 knights assembled in their council hall at Broadway and Andrew street.

Previous to the breakafst, the men received their annual Communion in St. Peter's Church at the 8 a. m. Mass offered by Rev. Henry E. Herdegen, chaplain of Kingston Council.

Grand Knight James Geary welcomed the knights at the breakfast, and Frank A. Reis, district deputy, discussed the progress of the fraternity which now numbers more than 800,000 members. Dr. John A. Cooke, toastmaster, introduced the speakers.

The speech of Past State Deputy Cushing follows:

"We are gathered in the year of the Lord 1951, a year designated by our church as a Holy Year. With civilization at the crossroads it is our earnest hope that the prayers of the faithful throughout Christendom will bring to the world the peace and happiness which inept and vacillating statesmanship has failed to produce.

"The year 1951 ushered in a general discussion concerning the first half of the 20th century, as well as countless prophecies for the future. Now, as we look back, memory paints a vivid picture.

"Many of our contemporaries proclaim the preeminence of this era over all the past, because it has given us unparelleled progress in the fields of art, science and letters, and because it has contributed to human comfort and welfare through inventions and discoveries and by opening up vast avenues of knowledge and endeavor.

"We have automobile, airplane, telegraph, telephone, television, radio, sulfa drugs, pencillin, just to mention a few.

Education Outlaws God

"However, this first half century lacks much that makes for true greatness. Spiritual illiteracy is probably the most appalling form of human ignorance, yet we find a concerted effort to outlaw God in our educational system. This first half century has already given us two world wars, with a third in the offing, the worst depression in history, the atom bomb, the hydrogen bomb, the emergence of the socialist or welfare state, the scourge of communism, and a distorted moral sense which counsels birth prevention, condones Euthanasia, and has made a national sport of 'coveting thy neighbor's wife,' to say nothing of the queer little men and sundry spies who found haven on government payrolls. Possibly the time has come to look at the picture which memory furnishes, and once again put first things first.

'I would guess that there are some of you who well remember the pleasant, even if somewhat rugged days at the turn of the century, and if you were not around then, you have probably obtained first hand information from the old timer who is always ready to extol the good old days with a rare eloquence.

Days of Love and Faith

"Those were the days of the gas-lit, coal stove homes. The stoves didn't give too much heat and the gas never gave too much light, but in those homes there was always warmth and light, because there was love and faith and sympathetic understanding. It would appear that the young men and women who in those days accepted the sacred vocation of parenthood had a keener appreciation of the privilege which was theirs in cooperating with God in His plan of creation, and because of their fidelity and devotion, they were better able to command and receive the love, the respect and the obedience of thir children.

"In those days, the marriage vow usually meant exactly what it said, 'until death do us part.' Juvenile delinquency was not a national problem then because there was no confusing multiplicity of parents arising from marriages which terminated not at death, but in the divorce court at the first convenient opportunity. Children in those days could look to their real parents for good example and to sincere school teachers who were faithful to their trusts.

"Boys and girls in those days did not have the sickening influence of high salaried, multi-married, marijuana smoking celebrities of the entertainment world.

"Governments too, reflecting the sentiments of the people adhered to a morale code which provided a system of ethics for international relations, unlike the present time, when American idealism and forthrightness, must combat the ideological clap-trap of Godless nations whose ethics would disgrace a band of hotten-tots.

Unprecedented Changes

"The American who regrets the passing of the old days, and the student of history whose work is the study of times and events and the movements of people, stands aghast at the unprecedented changes which have taken place in just one generation. Europe, the ancient citadel of Christendom and the cradle of western civilization, has been turned into an inferno of chaos and hatred. Social disintegration threatens a return to barbarism, while an inhuman organization known as totalitarianism hovers like a savage vulture over the depressed and distraught nations of the old world, and stares menacingly across the Atlantic with covetous eyes on the greatest republic in all the tide of history, our own United States.

"The transition from those old days to the present did not occur overnight, nor in a generation. Regardless of how prosperous an era may appear to be, a civilization whose spiritual life is dying or extinct, already carries within it, the seed of its own corruption. Proverbially, the apple ruddiest to the eye is the one that bears the deadly canker at its core.

"Hence, the false philosophies which were born of the reformation, gathered momentum during the French revolution, and then smashed their way to the front after World War 1 while the western world busied itself keeping God and justice out of the peace and the statesmen of the victorious allies divided the spoils of World War 1, and sowed the seeds of the second world conflict.

"It was in this setting that smugly complacent man, in his rebellious attemp to elevate the creature to the dignity of the Creator, allowed his material and scientific achievements to go to his head, and in the process discovered that his godless science had catalogued him in the category of the ape, after having enjoyed many centuries of closeness to the angels.

Depends on Individuals

"Cardinal Newman once said that the layman was the measure of the church. A citizen then is the measure of his country and the testimony of thousands of years of history bears evidence of the fact that a nation will never be any more religious or moral than are its individual citizens. Western civilization, which was once entirely Christian, was the greatest civilization in the history of the world—until it separated itself from Christ. When it lost Christ, it lost its superiority, for a civilization without religion or morals degenerates rapidly into a civilization of the survival of the fittest, a civilization in which illegitimate desire knows no restraint, passion no curbs and selfishness no limits.

"Why then, in the year of the Lord 1951, de wo find civilization at the crossroads with our fate hanging in the balance?

"One thing we know. If the godlessness and irreligion of the people continue to grow, we're finished. America is doomed. You just can't take God out of government and godliness from our national life and expect our greatness to continue. And, mind you, when we speak in this vein we are not advocating the union of church and state; we are just not going to allow the divorce of God from our American way of life.

"Christian tradition tells us that the guilt of humanity at any one segment of the circle is to some extent the guilt of the circle itself, and with that in mind, we will have only ourselves to blame if we allow the disintegration of society to continue to the detriment of our American way of life.

Must Have Moral Code

"I sound the solemn warning that western civilization will not survive the onrush of totalitarianism unless we revitalize that civilization with true Christian meaning, with religion and with a moral code.

"To many, this task may seem hopeless if not impossible. But Christianity has met the challenge before. The church knows the meaning of crisis and sacrifice and martyrdom. She labored zealously for centuries to establish a way of life bedrocked upon the dignity of man as a person, with God-given inalienable rights which can neither be circumscribed nor abrogated by any power on earth, rights which are affirmed by our Declaration of Independence, and guaranteed to Americans by our Constitution and Bill of Rights.

"The infant church, with its limited numbers, met a greater challenge in the earliest days of Christianity. There is no problem confronting us today that the early church did not confront in worse form and conquer.

"In these days, cruel dictatorship, vice and lust seemed to be conditioning the world for another purge like the fire that descended upon the cities of the plain. But the light which appeared was Christ, and the fire, the Holy Ghost, and Rome, the worse persecutor of Christianity until modern Russia, became the center of Christianity, and history can repeat itself.

Communism Big Challenge

"Today, communism, with its hoard of coarse, crude Asiatics presents a menacing challenge to God, church and country. The trouble is that we will neither understand nor defeat communism if we regard it merely as an economic theory. It is a philosophy of life and only a stronger philosophy of life can meet it and defeat it.

"That stronger philosophy of life is Christianity. But we are not going to achieve our ends by talking Christianity. We must live Christianity. We must be Christ-like every minute of the day and every day of our lives.

"We must set the example of personal rectitude and moral integrity, remembering that it is always better to light just one small candle than to curse the darkness. We must re-establish a sense of right in those who have apparently lost their sense of wrong. We must develop and propagate the high moral virtues that constitute the natural dignity of man. We must stand firmly for the defense of human rights.

"We must defend the marriage bond. We must defend the home. We must restore the Christian family to its rightful place in the life of man. We must defend the right of the unborn child to life. We must defend the right of that child to a religious education, an education which will enable him to know to love and to serve God. We must defend the parents to give their children that religious education. We must defend the right of the worker to a living wage and the rights of the employer to just treatment on the part of labor leadership. We must defend the rights of minorities, racial groups and small nations.

"In conclusion, as we face the second half century, let us pray for the grace and strength to face the challenge which lies ahead, because it may be reserved for one of you to spend yourself, body and soul, in humble imitation of that apotheosis of charity which found its consummation on the dread hill of Calvary.

"Guard and kindle that spark of faith wherever you find it, so that it may always burns as a flaming torch to guard and guide the lives of those you love.

Calls for Catholic Action

"As Knights of Columbus, I ask you to rededicate yourself to the pledges which you took as members of the order; that you let charity be the virtue that will distinguish you as you go through life, loving Christ above all things, and loving your neighbor, your brother, for Christ's sake; that you band yourself together as a united group, in the spirit of true fraternity and dedicate yourself to a course of Catholic action to restore all things in Christ, and lastly, that you return to the simple patriotism of your forefathers, for that alone will furnish the answer to the chaos and anarchy which threatens us.

"May it please God to give us the health and the strength to do these things, to the end that our beloved America, erected upon the discovery of our noble patron Christopher Columbus, and preserved by the labor, energy and sacrifice of our forefathers, shall not perish from the earth."

A period of prayer was observed for Knights who died during the past year: Stepheh M. Connelly, Joseph M. Eigo, Francis W. Heimerle, Cornelius G. Enright, William B. Fleming, Daniel J. Killfoyle, and Frank K. Mooney.

Mothers See Film Stressing the Home

Members of the Mothers' Club of School No. 5 saw the movie "Families First" during their March 8 meeting with Mrs. Addison Scholes presiding.

At the business session preceeding the movie Mrs. Walter Fallon was appointed chairman of the nominating committee, and it was announced that mothers may visit their children's teachers afternoons from 3:30 to 3:45.

Basic emphasis of the film was the importance of home life in bringing up children. Two different homes were portrayed in illustration. The children of one family grew to be sound, mature citizens, while a child in the second family ended in prison. The film underlined the importance of security, affection, recognition, and new experiences in raising a family. Security, it pointed out, means more than merely providing necessary physical needs. It means sharing work and play, and providing entertainment for the family as a whole.

Affection, the film continued, means both love, and understanding, while recognition may be interpreted as praising their accomplishments. Meanwhile, without supervision, new experiences, may be entirely the wrong sort. Parents should be sure to set the proper example for their children.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Raymond W. Gilkey led a discussion period.

Shower Is Held For Miss Richter

Modena, March 12—A bridal shower was given for Miss Helen Richter, bride-elect of Richard Randles of Poughkeepsie, Friday night at the home of Mrs. Walter West, Ardonia. Decorations were made from pink and white paper, with pink satin bows, and the gifts were placed under a shower umbrella. Centerpiece for the table was a large shower cake, trimmed with pink icing. Mrs. Walter West acted as hostess.

The following guests attended: Mrs. Otto Richter, Miss Evelyn Richter, Mrs. Oscar West, Mrs. Karl Holmberg, and Mrs. Frank Saberese of Ardonia; Mrs. Kenneth Stabler, Miss Pat Burns, and Miss Phyllis Carle of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Max Meyer, Mrs. Harold West and Mrs. Harry Imfield of Modena.

Miss Richter will be married Saturday, March 24, in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Poughkeepsie.

Housewarming Held For Stoutenburgs

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Stoutenburg of 47 St. James street were honored recently at a housewarming given by a group of their friends and relatives.

Those attending included Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wilber, Mrs. Helen Dohnken, Mr. and Mrs. George Dohnken, Mrs. Jacob Scharp, Mrs. Juanita Benicase, Mrs. Abigail Stoutenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hoetger, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Stoutenburg, Harold Dohnken, Gilbert Gray, Jr., Ronald Gray, Lawrence Casey, and the Misses Gilda and Marlene Gray, Sarah and Marlene Moore, Arlene Hung, Emily Holumzer, Mary McGrath, and Frances Pieczynski.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

DEMONSTRATIONS IN PUBLIC

Every now and then a letter asks: "Is it good taste for a couple to 'make love' in public, especially when in a group with others? The rest of us are continually embarrassed by the behavior of one couple. Will you express an opinion?"

Even though affection is expected between engaged people, "petting" in public is in very worst taste, and as you say, embarrassing to others.

Husband Is Absent!

Dear Mrs. Post: How should we address a wedding invitation to a friend whose husband was involved in a business scandal and is serving time in the penitentiary? This is to our daughter's wedding.

Answer: If there is any possibility of the wife's being led to believe that her husband's situation is unknown, then it would be kind to address the envelope to Mr. and Mrs. But if no one could be ignorant of the fact that he is serving sentence, it might be better to send it to Mrs. alone, because less embarrassing for her to answer.

Bridal Attendants

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother feels that all, or at least a majority, of the bridal attendants should be unmarried. As it happens I'm the last of my best friends to marry. How can I help it, or possibly leave them out? Mother gives the custom of throwing the bridal bouquet as proof of her point that these attendants should be unmarried.

Answer: I'm sorry to disagree with your mother, but in my opinion you should choose your best friends regardless of whether or not they are married. Having your best friends is of much greater importance than throwing your bouquet! For that matter, you perfectly well could collect a group of unmarried girls and throw your bouquet to them

Tipping Problem

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me how much we should tip the two waitresses who serve fifty guests. The price of meals are two-fifty apiece.

Answer: Since the work will be rather heavy, fifteen dollars divided between them would be about right.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, answers to such problems as clothes of the bridal party, including those of the flower girl and the men of the party, will be found in her leaflet, E-3. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Colonial Bazaar Is Set for Wednesday

Wiltwyck Chapter, D.A.R., will hold its seventh annual colonial bazaar Wednesday at the chapter house at the corner of Crown and Green streets.

Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm, general chairman, has announced that there will be two card parties held in conjunction with the bazaar. The first will begin at 1:30 p. m., and the second at 7:30 p. m. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Maynard Mizel, chairman, at 2666.

Meanwhile, many articles will be on sale at the various bazaar booths. Mrs. G. N. Wood will be in charge of the apron booth; Mrs. Arthur C. Quimby, the miscellaneous booth; Mrs. William Hookey, the food booth, and Mrs. R. Billings, C.A.R., the candy booths.

Those not wishing to play cards will be served a "Betsey Ross tea" with Mrs. Raymond R. Gross and Mrs. Clair Sheaffer as hostesses. Dessert for the card parties will be served by Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger and Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller.

Mrs. Adam H. Porter, regent, has announced that the bazaar is open to the public and its patronage solicited.

Seymour Newman To Wed Shortly

New York, March 10 (Special)—Miss Natalie Krolick of 62 Sheriff street, New York, and Seymour Newman, formerly of Kingston and now at 380 East 8th street, New York, were issued a marriage license today at the city clerk's office here.

The couple did not set the time or place for the ceremony.

Personal Notes

John Doyle of 58 Broadway celebrated his 84th birthday last week at his home. Mr. Doyle is one of the oldest fishermen to be found in the lower portion of the city.

John W. Skerritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Skerritt, Jr., of Hurley, has been named to the dean's list at Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam.

The first telephone call between New York and Boston was made Sept. 4, 1884.

Golden Age Club Provides Elderly With New Friends and Added Interests

It's sometimes very lonely to be old. A family disintegrates with age. The children marry, and circumstances change. The circle of friends, which once seemed so wide, shrinks, and dissolves. And all too often there are few ways left to fill that very vital and human need, social intercourse.

Elderly people seldom mind their days, for they can be filled with dozens of chores. It's the empty, silent procession of evenings; the gaping, seemingly endless hours between sunset and bedtime, that are so hard to fill alone.

Realizing this situation, a little over six months ago the Y.W.C.A. Women's Club, headed by their president, Mrs. Raymond Craft, organized what is now known as the Golden Age Club. Here men and women, aged from 60 to 100, gather the second and fourth Friday of each month. Their programs vary from an evening of games, to movies and guest speakers. But it's not the program that's so important. What is important is that there is an organization which gives the community's elderly citizens the opportunity to meet each other, make new friends, and achieve new interests.

Only Opportunity

"You know," one white-haired woman who had only lived a short time in the city remarked," this is wonderful for me, because before I came to the Golden Age Club I had no opportunity to meet people."

Other members tell similar stories. One 88-year-old member, who first appeared at the club before Christmas, admitted it was the first time she had left her home in three years. Others happily explained that they have met contemporaries through the club with whom they can play cards, visit, or see a movie. Four of the members have even formed their own card club.

All Types Attend

Nearly every type of aged person in the community has found his or her way to the "Y" on nights when the Golden Age Club meets.

"They're a surprisingly democratic group," Mrs. Craft remarks. "And it's equally surprising how well they all mix."

The members are unusually faithful when it comes to attending meetings. On the Friday before Christmas, a night notorious for its excesses of sleet, ice, and snow, nearly 25 of the group's 40 members managed to reach the "Y". It was the sort of night when men and women many years younger were only too glad to stay at home.

On Their Own

Not too many months ago Golden Age members looked to the Women's Club for their programs, refreshments, and transportation. But the situation is changing rapidly to an attitude of self responsibility. Today, homemakers of other years stir up their own cakes. (home baked cakes are a universal favorite, when it comes to refreshments) and takes pride in their hostess roles.

"By next year," Mrs. Craft explains, "the Golden Age Club ought to be pretty well on its own." You know, she adds, "you have no idea how much satisfaction this venture gives me. I've always liked elderly people, and I've wanted to work out some sort of a plan for them for almost five years. It's just too bad more communities don't start similar projects."

A Ribbon for the Oldest

Government Can't Forget God, Says Knights' Speaker

Speaking at the annual communion breakfast of Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, Sunday, Stephen J. Cushing of Brooklyn, past state deputy of the order, said, "civilization without religion or morals degenerates rapidly into a civilization of the survival of the fittest, a civilization in which illegitimate desire knows no restraint, passion no curbs and selfishness no limits."

"If the godlessness and irreligion of the people continue to grow, we're finished. America is doomed. You can't take God out of government and godliness from our national life and expect our greatness to continue," he told the 300 knights assembled in their council hall at Broadway and Andrew street.

Previous to the breakafst, the men received their annual Communion in St. Peter's Church at the 8 a. m. Mass offered by Rev. Henry E. Herdegen, chaplain of Kingston Council.

Grand Knight James Geary welcomed the knights at the breakfast, and Frank A. Reis, district deputy, discussed the progress of the fraternity which now numbers more than 800,000 members. Dr. John A. Cooke, toastmaster, introduced the speakers.

The speech of Past State Deputy Cushing follows:

"We are gathered in the year of the Lord 1951, a year designated by our church as a Holy Year. With civilization at the crossroads it is our earnest hope that the prayers of the faithful throughout Christendom will bring to the world the peace and happiness which inept and vacillating statesmanship has failed to produce.

"The year 1951 ushered in a general discussion concerning the first half of the 20th century, as well as countless prophecies for the future. Now, as we look back, memory paints a vivid picture.

"Many of our contemporaries proclaim the preeminence of this era over all the past, because it has given us unparelleled progress in the fields of art, science and letters, and because it has contributed to human comfort and welfare through inventions and discoveries and by opening up vast avenues of knowledge and endeavor.

"We have automobile, airplane, telegraph, telephone, television, radio, sulfa drugs, pencillin, just to mention a few.

Education Outlaws God

"However, this first half century lacks much that makes for true greatness. Spiritual illiteracy is probably the most appalling form of human ignorance, yet we find a concerted effort to outlaw God in our educational system. This first half century has already given us two world wars, with a third in the offing, the worst depression in history, the atom bomb, the hydrogen bomb, the emergence of the socialist or welfare state, the scourge of communism, and a distorted moral sense which counsels birth prevention, condones Euthanasia, and has made a national sport of 'coveting thy neighbor's wife,' to say nothing of the queer little men and sundry spies who found haven on government payrolls. Possibly the time has come to look at the picture which memory furnishes, and once again put first things first.

'I would guess that there are some of you who well remember the pleasant, even if somewhat rugged days at the turn of the century, and if you were not around then, you have probably obtained first hand information from the old timer who is always ready to extol the good old days with a rare eloquence.

Days of Love and Faith

"Those were the days of the gas-lit, coal stove homes. The stoves didn't give too much heat and the gas never gave too much light, but in those homes there was always warmth and light, because there was love and faith and sympathetic understanding. It would appear that the young men and women who in those days accepted the sacred vocation of parenthood had a keener appreciation of the privilege which was theirs in cooperating with God in His plan of creation, and because of their fidelity and devotion, they were better able to command and receive the love, the respect and the obedience of thir children.

"In those days, the marriage vow usually meant exactly what it said, 'until death do us part.' Juvenile delinquency was not a national problem then because there was no confusing multiplicity of parents arising from marriages which terminated not at death, but in the divorce court at the first convenient opportunity. Children in those days could look to their real parents for good example and to sincere school teachers who were faithful to their trusts.

"Boys and girls in those days did not have the sickening influence of high salaried, multi-married, marijuana smoking celebrities of the entertainment world.

"Governments too, reflecting the sentiments of the people adhered to a morale code which provided a system of ethics for international relations, unlike the present time, when American idealism and forthrightness, must combat the ideological clap-trap of Godless nations whose ethics would disgrace a band of hotten-tots.

Unprecedented Changes

"The American who regrets the passing of the old days, and the student of history whose work is the study of times and events and the movements of people, stands aghast at the unprecedented changes which have taken place in just one generation. Europe, the ancient citadel of Christendom and the cradle of western civilization, has been turned into an inferno of chaos and hatred. Social disintegration threatens a return to barbarism, while an inhuman organization known as totalitarianism hovers like a savage vulture over the depressed and distraught nations of the old world, and stares menacingly across the Atlantic with covetous eyes on the greatest republic in all the tide of history, our own United States.

"The transition from those old days to the present did not occur overnight, nor in a generation. Regardless of how prosperous an era may appear to be, a civilization whose spiritual life is dying or extinct, already carries within it, the seed of its own corruption. Proverbially, the apple ruddiest to the eye is the one that bears the deadly canker at its core.

"Hence, the false philosophies which were born of the reformation, gathered momentum during the French revolution, and then smashed their way to the front after World War 1 while the western world busied itself keeping God and justice out of the peace and the statesmen of the victorious allies divided the spoils of World War 1, and sowed the seeds of the second world conflict.

"It was in this setting that smugly complacent man, in his rebellious attemp to elevate the creature to the dignity of the Creator, allowed his material and scientific achievements to go to his head, and in the process discovered that his godless science had catalogued him in the category of the ape, after having enjoyed many centuries of closeness to the angels.

Depends on Individuals

"Cardinal Newman once said that the layman was the measure of the church. A citizen then is the measure of his country and the testimony of thousands of years of history bears evidence of the fact that a nation will never be any more religious or moral than are its individual citizens. Western civilization, which was once entirely Christian, was the greatest civilization in the history of the world—until it separated itself from Christ. When it lost Christ, it lost its superiority, for a civilization without religion or morals degenerates rapidly into a civilization of the survival of the fittest, a civilization in which illegitimate desire knows no restraint, passion no curbs and selfishness no limits.

"Why then, in the year of the Lord 1951, de wo find civilization at the crossroads with our fate hanging in the balance?

"One thing we know. If the godlessness and irreligion of the people continue to grow, we're finished. America is doomed. You just can't take God out of government and godliness from our national life and expect our greatness to continue. And, mind you, when we speak in this vein we are not advocating the union of church and state; we are just not going to allow the divorce of God from our American way of life.

"Christian tradition tells us that the guilt of humanity at any one segment of the circle is to some extent the guilt of the circle itself, and with that in mind, we will have only ourselves to blame if we allow the disintegration of society to continue to the detriment of our American way of life.

Must Have Moral Code

"I sound the solemn warning that western civilization will not survive the onrush of totalitarianism unless we revitalize that civilization with true Christian meaning, with religion and with a moral code.

"To many, this task may seem hopeless if not impossible. But Christianity has met the challenge before. The church knows the meaning of crisis and sacrifice and martyrdom. She labored zealously for centuries to establish a way of life bedrocked upon the dignity of man as a person, with God-given inalienable rights which can neither be circumscribed nor abrogated by any power on earth, rights which are affirmed by our Declaration of Independence, and guaranteed to Americans by our Constitution and Bill of Rights.

"The infant church, with its limited numbers, met a greater challenge in the earliest days of Christianity. There is no problem confronting us today that the early church did not confront in worse form and conquer.

"In these days, cruel dictatorship, vice and lust seemed to be conditioning the world for another purge like the fire that descended upon the cities of the plain. But the light which appeared was Christ, and the fire, the Holy Ghost, and Rome, the worse persecutor of Christianity until modern Russia, became the center of Christianity, and history can repeat itself.

Communism Big Challenge

"Today, communism, with its hoard of coarse, crude Asiatics presents a menacing challenge to God, church and country. The trouble is that we will neither understand nor defeat communism if we regard it merely as an economic theory. It is a philosophy of life and only a stronger philosophy of life can meet it and defeat it.

"That stronger philosophy of life is Christianity. But we are not going to achieve our ends by talking Christianity. We must live Christianity. We must be Christ-like every minute of the day and every day of our lives.

"We must set the example of personal rectitude and moral integrity, remembering that it is always better to light just one small candle than to curse the darkness. We must re-establish a sense of right in those who have apparently lost their sense of wrong. We must develop and propagate the high moral virtues that constitute the natural dignity of man. We must stand firmly for the defense of human rights.

"We must defend the marriage bond. We must defend the home. We must restore the Christian family to its rightful place in the life of man. We must defend the right of the unborn child to life. We must defend the right of that child to a religious education, an education which will enable him to know to love and to serve God. We must defend the parents to give their children that religious education. We must defend the right of the worker to a living wage and the rights of the employer to just treatment on the part of labor leadership. We must defend the rights of minorities, racial groups and small nations.

"In conclusion, as we face the second half century, let us pray for the grace and strength to face the challenge which lies ahead, because it may be reserved for one of you to spend yourself, body and soul, in humble imitation of that apotheosis of charity which found its consummation on the dread hill of Calvary.

"Guard and kindle that spark of faith wherever you find it, so that it may always burns as a flaming torch to guard and guide the lives of those you love.

Calls for Catholic Action

"As Knights of Columbus, I ask you to rededicate yourself to the pledges which you took as members of the order; that you let charity be the virtue that will distinguish you as you go through life, loving Christ above all things, and loving your neighbor, your brother, for Christ's sake; that you band yourself together as a united group, in the spirit of true fraternity and dedicate yourself to a course of Catholic action to restore all things in Christ, and lastly, that you return to the simple patriotism of your forefathers, for that alone will furnish the answer to the chaos and anarchy which threatens us.

"May it please God to give us the health and the strength to do these things, to the end that our beloved America, erected upon the discovery of our noble patron Christopher Columbus, and preserved by the labor, energy and sacrifice of our forefathers, shall not perish from the earth."

A period of prayer was observed for Knights who died during the past year: Stepheh M. Connelly, Joseph M. Eigo, Francis W. Helmerle, Cornelius G. Enright, William B. Fleming, Daniel J. Kilfoyle, and Frank K. Mooney.

Red Cross Lauded By U. S. Soldiers In Battle Sectors

"During a fund campaign workers are apt to think in terms of the number of dollars which the Red Cross requires for its humanitarian objectives and at the same time overlook many of the human interest items that indicate how well placed our trust in the organization is," Vincent Connelly, fund chairman, said today.

"One veteran of the Korean war writes," Connelly said, "that he had to chase a Red Cross field worker out of the front lines." The worker gave as his reason for being there that he didn't want a boy in the front lines to receive word over a field telephone that his mother had died, and that he wanted to take the boy back to get him on the first available plane for the states. That boy attended his mother's funeral four days later in California, the county chairman added.

"You can also imagine," continued Connelly, "how the boys who lost all their personal belongings when they were caught in the Red trap felt when, upon reaching a field hospital after being rescued, they were greeted by a Red Cross worker with soap, towels and toilet articles. One boy said, 'she helped us in a hundred ways, fixed our blankets and made us feel like people again.' Another serviceman says he could go on for pages and it wouldn't do those Red Cross workers justice."

"It is such testimony from the boys themselves," concluded Connelly, "that makes us happy to support the Red Cross."

THE WAY TO CALVARY

One of the memorable moments in the Upper Room, scene of the Last Supper, occurred when Jesus washed the feet of His apostles. They had been arguing over their own rank and importance—His gesture humbled them. When Peter balked at the rite, Jesus said, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me." Peter submitted: "Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and head."

In the Upper Room

At the Last Supper, Jesus told his apostles, "One of you will betray me." Each asked, "Is it I, Lord?" When Judas asked, the Master's reply was, "Thou hast said it." Judas departed. Then Jesus broke bread, passing it to His disciples with the words, "Take you and eat; this is my body." And he passed the cup of wine, saying, "Drink ye all of this. For this is my blood of the new testament which is shed for many for the remission of sins."

The executive committee announces that several business items of importance will be discussed, and that all members are urged to be in attendance.

Strike Is Voted

Boston, March 12 (AP)—CIO textile union chiefs today held a strike go-ahead from 20,000 cotton and rayon workers in four New England States who voted to quit their jobs at midnight Thursday if they don't get a 12 per cent pay raise and other benefits. Union locals, including the big 12,000-member unit in Fall River authorized the strike action yesterday and union leaders said that if the men walk out the move may spread to 200,000 CIO-TWUA employes in the nation. TWUA President Emil Rieve and his bargaining committee have been negotiating with officials of the manufacturers' groups in Fall River and New Bedford, traditionally the wage pattern makers for the industry.

Ellenville Man Named

Forrest H. Witmeyer, president of Excelsior Insurance Company of New York, Syracuse, N. Y., announces the appointment of agent Glyde S. Benson, The Benson Agency, Ellenville, as a member of its agents' advisory council during 1951. The Excelsior was the first company to have agency representation on its board of directors, dating back to 1925. It is also the first company to create an agents' advisory group—which is known as the agents' advisory council.

The Little Man's Bond

By FRANK TRIPP

Those E bonds that the government sold ten years ago at 75 cents on the dollar fall due this year, redeemable at the promised dollar. Got one? Better keep it, or you'll pay back a lot of the profit in taxes.

To induce you to keep yours the Treasury will promise to pay you 2½ per cent from now on. That's about as good as you can securely invest the proceeds otherwise and you'll also escape reporting $250 profit on a $1,000 bond. The income tax on that could range as high as $225, according to your surtax bracket.

Nobody expected, when they bought these bonds to finance World War 2, that before they fell due we'd be buying more to stave off World War 3. It wouldn't have mattered if we had; we'd have bought them anyway, and will again.

But we would like to see our dollars buy a dollar's worth. We'd feel encouraged if more of our money reached the purposes for which we sacrifice it; rather than wasted in extravagant administration, duplication of effort and political log rolling.

THE E BOND came on the market as the poor man's bond, something for the little fellow. At first no more than $5,000 worth could be bought in any one year. Later it was raised to $10,000.

It succeeded the D bond, better known as the Baby bond, which could be bought at the postoffice. Though it was touted as the poor man's bond, the inducement to buy it, which the Baby bond enjoyed, was immediately withdrawn; on March 1, 1941, nine months before Pearl Harbor.

Here's how thin the cheese was cut for the "little fellow"; a caper to which he is just awakening. If he bought a $1,000 D bond for $750 on or before Feb. 28, 1941, he can cash it now for $1,000 and his $250 profit is clear gain to him, nontaxable.

But if he bought a $1,000 bond one day later, on March 1, 1941, or anytime thereafter, when he cashes it he must add $250 to his income and pay tax on it. Before March 1941, D bond purchases were exempt from all taxes (up to $6,666 of maturity value).

This means that a holder of a $5,000 D bond now has $1,250 of profit tax free; while his neighbor who bought a similar E bond one day later must add that $1,250 to his 1951 income.

THE GOVERNMENT borrows money like it does so many things, contrary to established principles. In 1941 when it withdrew the tax free feature of the "poor man's" bond, the national debt was $49 billion (367 per capita). Today it is $257 billion $1,696 per capita).

When it didn't need money too badly it offered an inducement; when it did, it withdrew the inducement. A process that would flop in a private financial transaction succeeded through a hurrah of patriotism that nothing but a war could engender.

Now those bonds are falling due, and maybe you own one. Let's say it's a $5,000 bond and that you now pay an income tax on $4,000 net income. You'll have your choice of cashing the bond and paying 26 per cent tax on $1,250 profit, which would be $325; or you can keep the bond and get $125 a year interest.

Many of these bonds are owned by wealthy people who would have to pay back 70 to 90 per cent of their profit. Most persons of means bought their limit of E bonds. These will hold on and take the extended 2½ per cent interest.

Instead of paying back as high as $2,250 tax on a $10,000 bond, Mr. Gotrocks will keep his and receive $250 a year interest. And you're a sucker if you don't keep your smaller ones.

Binghamton Trial Starts

Binghamton, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—Trial of Police Chief Michael J. Hanifin and 17 other men charged with taking part in alleged police-protected gambling was scheduled to start today. Among the defendants are Raymond J. O'Keefe, former head of the vice squad, and two men who served with him, Laurence V. Wilcox, retired sergeant, and Patrolman Philip H. Vanderbeck. The 18 men were indicted by a county grand jury that began an investigation Dec. 5, 1949, after the sheriff's department raided four alleged horse-rooms without informing city police. The jury submitted its final report last June 16. It charged that gamblers had paid police a total of $8,850 in bribes in 1948 and 1949.

Dog Is Hero

Coventry, R. I., March 12 (AP)—Rags, a shaggy dog that doesn't hold grudges, was the hero of the John Auriemma family today. Rags barked loud enough to wake the Auriemmas yesterday and they escaped with their four children from their blazing Quonset hut home. Not so long ago, Auriemma said, he tried to give Rags away because the pup barked too much.

Binghamton Trial Starts

Binghamton, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—Trial of Police Chief Michael J. Hanifin and 17 other men charged with taking part in alleged police-protected gambling was scheduled to start today. Among the defendants are Raymond J. O'Keefe, former head of the vice squad, and two men who served with him, Laurence V. Wilcox, retired sergeant, and Patrolman Philip H. Vanderbeck. The 18 men were indicted by a county grand jury that began an investigation Dec. 5, 1949, after the sheriff's department raided four alleged horse-rooms without informing city police. The jury submitted its final report last June 16. It charged that gamblers had paid police a total of $8,850 in bribes in 1948 and 1949.

Dog Is Hero

Coventry, R. I., March 12 (AP)—Rags, a shaggy dog that doesn't hold grudges, was the hero of the John Auriemma family today. Rags barked loud enough to wake the Auriemmas yesterday and they escaped with their four children from their blazing Quonset hut home. Not so long ago, Auriemma said, he tried to give Rags away because the pup barked too much.

Red Cross Lauded By U. S. Soldiers In Battle Sectors

"During a fund campaign workers are apt to think in terms of the number of dollars which the Red Cross requires for its humanitarian objectives and at the same time overlook many of the human interest items that indicate how well placed our trust in the organization is," Vincent Connelly, fund chairman, said today.

"One veteran of the Korean war writes," Connelly said, "that he had to chase a Red Cross field worker out of the front lines." The worker gave as his reason for being there that he didn't want a boy in the front lines to receive word over a field telephone that his mother had died, and that he wanted to take the boy back to get him on the first available plane for the states. That boy attended his mother's funeral four days later in California, the county chairman added.

"You can also imagine," continued Connelly, "how the boys who lost all their personal belongings when they were caught in the Red trap felt when, upon reaching a field hospital after being rescued, they were greeted by a Red Cross worker with soap, towels and toilet articles. One boy said, 'she helped us in a hundred ways, fixed our blankets and made us feel like people again.' Another serviceman says he could go on for pages and it wouldn't do those Red Cross workers justice."

"It is such testimony from the boys themselves," concluded Connelly, "that makes us happy to support the Red Cross."

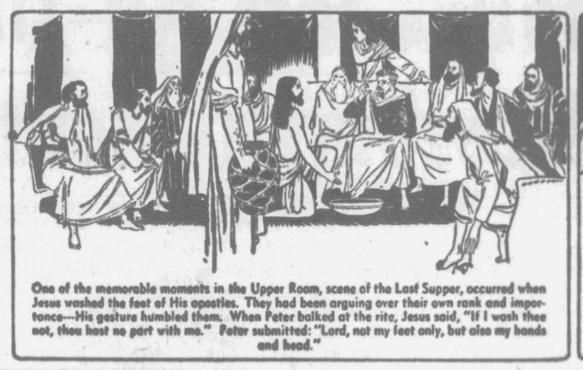
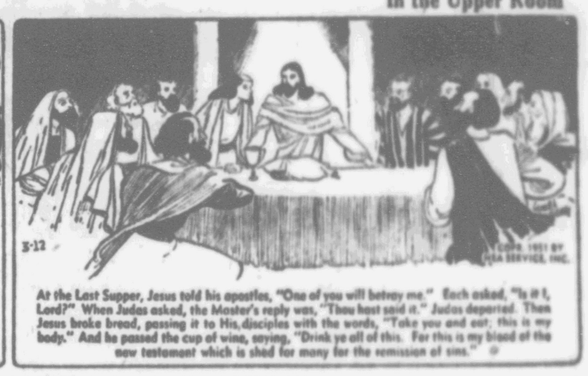
THE WAY TO CALVARY



One of the memorable moments in the Upper Room, scene of the Last Supper, occurred when Jesus washed the feet of His apostles. They had been arguing over their own rank and importance—His gesture humbled them. When Peter balked at the rite, Jesus said, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me." Peter submitted: "Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and head."

In the Upper Room



At the Last Supper, Jesus told his apostles, "One of you will betray me." Each asked, "Is it I, Lord?" When Judas asked, the Master's reply was, "Thou hast said it." Judas departed. Then Jesus broke bread, passing it to His disciples with the words, "Take you and eat; this is my body." And he passed the cup of wine, saying, "Drink ye all of this. For this is my blood of the new testament which is shed for many for the remission of sins."

Industrial Management Election Set March 15

Election of officers of the Industrial Management Club of Kingston will take place at the first annual meeting Thursday, March 15, at the Y.M.C.A. The dinner meeting is scheduled to start at 6:30 p. m.

The following candidates for office have been selected by the nominating committee: John H. Haulenbeek, president; Clair S. Sheaffer, first vice-president; Charles E. Raible, second vice-president; William A. Thiel, recording secretary; H. Irvin Etchells, treasurer; Burton S. Tandy, executive secretary; John Reid and Ervin C. Alward, directors.

In accordance with the club's constitution, any member may nominate additional candidates for office, giving at the time his assurance of their willingness to serve if elected.

Reservations must be made before Tuesday evening, March 13. Members are requested to inform the contact man in their plant of their intentions to attend, or to call Arthur Buddenhagen, (Kingston 1400 chairman of the house committee.

This is a important meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Tilson Volunteers To Nominate on 13th

Candidates for office for the coming year will be selected at the regular monthly meeting of the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company, Inc., Tuesday evening, March 13.

The nominating committee will announce its selection of candidates and any member in good standing has the privilege of nominating another member for any office, giving at the time his assurance of the nominee's willingness to serve if elected.

Election by ballot will take place in April.

The second reading of the proposed changes in the by-laws will be given. The third, and final reading will take place next month at which time the membership present shall vote upon its approval or rejection.

The executive committee announces that several business items of importance will be discussed, and that all members are urged to be in attendance.

Strike Is Voted

Boston, March 12 (AP)—CIO textile union chiefs today held a strike go-ahead from 20,000 cotton and rayon workers in four New England States who voted to quit their jobs at midnight Thursday if they don't get a 12 per cent pay raise and other benefits. Union locals, including the big 12,000-member unit in Fall River authorized the strike action yesterday and union leaders said that if the men walk out the move may spread to 200,000 CIO-TWUA employes in the nation. TWUA President Emil Rieve and his bargaining committee have been negotiating with officials of the manufacturers' groups in Fall River and New Bedford, traditionally the wage pattern makers for the industry.

Ellenville Man Named

Forrest H. Witmeyer, president of Excelsior Insurance Company of New York, Syracuse, N. Y., announces the appointment of agent Glyde S. Benson, The Benson Agency, Ellenville, as a member of its agents' advisory council during 1951. The Excelsior was the first company to have agency representation on its board of directors, dating back to 1925. It is also the first company to create an agents' advisory group—which is known as the agents' advisory council.

The Little Man's Bond

By FRANK TRIPP

Those E bonds that the government sold ten years ago at 75 cents on the dollar fall due this year, redeemable at the promised dollar. Got one? Better keep it, or you'll pay back a lot of the profit in taxes.

To induce you to keep yours the Treasury will promise to pay you 2½ per cent from now on. That's about as good as you can securely invest the proceeds otherwise and you'll also escape reporting $250 profit on a $1,000 bond. The income tax on that could range as high as $225, according to your surtax bracket.

Nobody expected, when they bought these bonds to finance World War 2, that before they fell due we'd be buying more to stave off World War 3. It wouldn't have mattered if we had; we'd have bought them anyway, and will again.

But we would like to see our dollars buy a dollar's worth. We'd feel encouraged if more of our money reached the purposes for which we sacrifice it; rather than wasted in extravagant administration, duplication of effort and political log rolling.

THE E BOND came on the market as the poor man's bond, something for the little fellow. At first no more than $5,000 worth could be bought in any one year. Later it was raised to $10,000.

It succeeded the D bond, better known as the Baby bond, which could be bought at the postoffice. Though it was touted as the poor man's bond, the inducement to buy it, which the Baby bond enjoyed, was immediately withdrawn; on March 1, 1941, nine months before Pearl Harbor.

Here's how thin the cheese was cut for the "little fellow"; a caper to which he is just awakening. If he bought a $1,000 D bond for $750 on or before Feb. 28, 1941, he can cash it now for $1,000 and his $250 profit is clear gain to him, nontaxable.

But if he bought a $1,000 bond one day later, on March 1, 1941, or anytime thereafter, when he cashes it he must add $250 to his income and pay tax on it. Before March 1941, D bond purchases were exempt from all taxes (up to $6,666 of maturity value).

This means that a holder of a $5,000 D bond now has $1,250 of profit tax free; while his neighbor who bought a similar E bond one day later must add that $1,250 to his 1951 income.

THE GOVERNMENT borrows money like it does so many things, contrary to established principles. In 1941 when it withdrew the tax free feature of the "poor man's" bond, the national debt was $49 billion (367 per capita). Today it is $257 billion $1,696 per capita).

When it didn't need money too badly it offered an inducement; when it did, it withdrew the inducement. A process that would flop in a private financial transaction succeeded through a hurrah of patriotism that nothing but a war could engender.

Now those bonds are falling due, and maybe you own one. Let's say it's a $5,000 bond and that you now pay an income tax on $4,000 net income. You'll have your choice of cashing the bond and paying 26 per cent tax on $1,250 profit, which would be $325; or you can keep the bond and get $125 a year interest.

Many of these bonds are owned by wealthy people who would have to pay back 70 to 90 per cent of their profit. Most persons of means bought their limit of E bonds. These will hold on and take the extended 2½ per cent interest.

Instead of paying back as high as $2,250 tax on a $10,000 bond, Mr. Gotrocks will keep his and receive $250 a year interest. And you're a sucker if you don't keep your smaller ones.

As Pegler Sees It

may yet destroy our nation or reduce our grand republic to a monstrous ruin. In view of the fact that Eisenhower did not oppose it, can trust his wisdom and character now?

Eisenhower, Mark Clark, George Marshall and others, with the exception of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, all seem to have been little corporals in their apple-polishing attitude toward Roosevelt. Their memoirs and other indications give me an impression that he dazzled them with stars for their helmets and kept them tongue-tied with the prospect of more and more glory, some of it, in the light of history, plainly counterfeit.

If Eisenhower did not have serious doubts of the consequences of that plan that he is back in Europe today, asking for another generation of young Americans to redeem the folly.

We have evidence that Roosevelt was a vain ass who actually believed he was a great soldier and admiral. Cordell Hull wrote that soon after Pearl Harbor Roosevelt seriously asked him to refer to him as commander-in-chief, not president, at a state dinner, because "he relished the title."

If Eisenhower wants to be president, let him stand inspection. One Willkie was enough.

Binghamton Trial Starts

Binghamton, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—Trial of Police Chief Michael J. Hanifin and 17 other men charged with taking part in alleged police-protected gambling was scheduled to start today. Among the defendants are Raymond J. O'Keefe, former head of the vice squad, and two men who served with him, Laurence V. Wilcox, retired sergeant, and Patrolman Philip H. Vanderbeck. The 18 men were indicted by a county grand jury that began an investigation Dec. 5, 1949, after the sheriff's department raided four alleged horse-rooms without informing city police. The jury submitted its final report last June 16. It charged that gamblers had paid police a total of $8,850 in bribes in 1948 and 1949.

Trailways' 3306 Series Sets All-Time City and Hudson Valley Record

chatzel's 727 Leads; Roll 1173, 1081, 1052

After flirting with a "3300" series several times in the past two seasons, the Adirondack Trailways walked the glory road Sunday afternoon with a sensational 3306 blast against the Ruzzo Bowlatorium on alleys 7 and 8 at the Ferraro Bowlodrome.

En route to the highest three game series ever rolled in the city, Hudson Valley League and the mid-Hudson area, the Trailways knocked off game totals of 1173, 1081 and 1052.

The 1173 eclipsed the seasonal high of 1165 held by Miron Lumber, while the 3306 shattered the former all-time Hudson Valley League record of 3254 held by the Middletown State Hospital.

Schatzel Cracks 727

Johnny Schatzel emerged as the happiest man of the day as his rousing 727 series (first 700 of his career) sparked the phenomenal accomplishment. He reeled off scores of 274, 209 and 244.

The three game sweep over Ruzzo's enabled the Trailways to tie Cy's Diner of Newburgh for the Hudson Valley League lead. The Diners were handed a shocking three-game loss in Ellenville by the Kerhonkson VFW. Frankie Greco led the home forces with 253-208-255—716.

Twice on the spot, Johnny Ferraro batted .500 and it was his three strikes in a row to wind up the match that sent the Trailways over the 3300 mark.

Earlier in the match, Ferraro came up in the tenth frame of the first game with a chance to vault the Trailways into a 1205 score. His first toss was "light" on alley 7 and left "doublewood." He picked off one pin for an error on the second ball but the 1173 was still enough for a new seasonal record.

Broskie Has 679

While Schatzel's 727 was the piece de resistance in this noble effort, three other Trailway keglers soared well over the "600" mark.

Harold Broskie racked up 679 with 223-262-194; Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer had 648 with 232-190-226 and Johnny Ferraro knocked off 214-239-204—657, although haunted by nearly a dozen "10-pin taps." Fred Rice was a healthy dog with 230—595.

For a while it seemed the Trailways would become the first team ever to have two "700" bowlers in the same series. At the end of two games, Harold Broskie had 485 and Schatzel boasted 483. Schatzel quickly took command with a triple to open the third game, but Broskie was stopped by "taps."

The 3306 gives the Trailways the added distinction of owning the two highest scores ever rolled in Kingston in both league and open play. They posted 3298 in an exhibition here last season.

Unbelievable as it may sound, the Ruzzo Bowlatorium keglers failed to produce a single "200" score or a "600" triple in competition against the Trailways. Their high man was Joe McGrane with 514. Their team aggregate was 2458.

The Ruzzo score:

Martin	156	158	155	469
McGrane	160	176	178	514
Bruno	178	170	157	505

Jones Dairy Sweeps Dutchess

Jones Dairy swept three games from Dutchess Rec with a 2800 series in a Mid-Hudson Classic match, Saturday on the Bowlatorium lanes.

High scorer for the Dairymen was "Hod" Spaulding with 204-200-183—587. Bob Hanley had 223—581. George Baird, high average leader of the league, knocked off 186-224-206—616.

Nifty Nick Leoce shattered the maples for 201-227-235—663 to lead the Newburgh Empires to a 2-1 victory over Adirondack Trailways.

Greek Palamidas assisted with 226-212—609. The Empires won their two sets with 1012 and 1008 and the Trailways, led by Hammerin Hank Kemmerer's 202-184-217—603 series won the third with 1012. Johnny Ferraro anchored with 204-206—601.

The DUSO League's pronouncement that its coaches have been instructed to refrain from participating in the selection of All-DUSO teams didn't cause a single eyebrow to be lifted among the DUSO's press box citizenry. Neither the writers nor the DUSO have ever suffered from unrequieted love for each other, so the prssbox denizens will proceed with the formality of selecting an all-DUSO basketball squad.

The kids like it, the student bodies at the various schools like it. Selection on any league or conference all-star roster carries a measure of prestige, particularly for young men who are trying to land athletic scholarships.

To the best of our knowledge, the balloting for DUSO all-star teams has always been conducted strictly above board, with a secret ballot. Ralph Frederick of the Port Jervis Gazette, a scrivener of considerable integrity, is the master of the ballot box, and from past experiences we know that Ralph isn't broadcasting the personal choices of writers or coaches.

The recent DUSO communique from DUSO League president, Leon J. Weiss, said there was considerable discussion at the recent DUSO council meeting on the advisability of having two sets of officials. Some concern was expressed by the lack of new blood in the coaches association. We are in complete agreement with the DUSO on that subject. The league needs younger blood. There are at present at least three arbiters in the circuit who find it extremely difficult to officiate jayvee and varsity contests at top efficiency. When legs get heavy and wind gets short, a person's reflexes are affected. It usually happens, even to basketball referees.

Voting for the Sportsmanship Trophy takes place this week in the DUSO League. According to the grapevine, the balloting will center around four of the conference's 10 teams. In other words, six members have long since disqualified themselves.

Kingston High, a former winner of this coveted award, will have to mend its fences before it can ever hope to again qualify for the trophy. The general trend of crowd and student behavior at K.H.S. games has deteriorated in the past couple of years.

The financial stability and efficacy of operation of the Canadian-American League is so overwhelming when compared to that the late, lamented Colonial League, as to prohibit comparison.

In the Can-Am, each club pays the league treasurer six cents for each adult admission for all championship and playoff games, except booster or community night games. These contests carry flat league fee of $50. One cent of each adult admission until a maximum of $250 has been paid for the season is deducted for the Players' Pool. The total contributions in the pool at the close of the championship season is paid to the championship club. And there you have a tremendous incentive to play winning ball.

Each club participating in the playoffs pays the league treasury 20 per cent of the gross gate for the first four of the semi-final and final decision games of the playoff.

At the conclusion of the semi-final playoff series, the total amount in the pool at that time is divided as follows:

1—Twenty-five (25) per cent to each of the two clubs eliminated in the semi-final series.

2—Fifty (50) per cent shall remain in the pool.

At the conclusion of the final playoff series, the total amount then remaining in the pool shall be divided as follows:

1—Sixty (60) per cent to the playoff winner.

2—Forty (40) per cent to the losers.

When you analyze the Can-Am financial arrangements, you can appreciate why it has been one of the nation's strongest minor league wheels for more than a decade. The member teams are offered strong inducements to play out the seasonal string to the hilt. The post-season financial arrangement is so lucrative and worthwhile that the Shaughnessy games are as bitterly contested as the regular pennant chase.

Joe Walcott, the William Jennings Bryan of the heavyweight racket, has gone "4 for 0" in shots at the crown, but it seems to be a pretty good way of making a living.

Sport Movie Feature At Gun Club Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Rainbow Inn, Albany avenue extension.

All members are urged to be present as several important matters are to be discussed and a movie, "Lake Trout Thrills" will be shown.

The project of clearing a creek front at the club grounds has been completed and several other improvements have been made at the clubhouse. As soon as weather permits many activities are planned.

It is estimated that there are more than 50,000 lumber mills now operating in the United States.

Can-Am Series Starts Tuesday

The first of a series of articles covering the history and growth of the Canadian-American Baseball League will be published in Tuesday's issue.

Newburgh Skaters Tri State Winners

Rye, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—Alex Gougen of Pittsfield, Mass., won the Senior Men's crown in the Tri State Speed Skating championships suponsored by the Middle Atlantic Skating Association last night.

Gougen, who owns the Eastern States crown, captured the one-miler, and then placed second in the 880-yard event and the two-mile feature. Gougen scored 70 points in the three events to 50 for Tom Stanton of Newburgh, N. Y.

Mary Lynch of Newburgh, N. Y., won the Senior Women's title defeating Pat Fitzpatrick of Pittsfield, Mass., and Gwendolyn DuBois of Newburgh.

Roofers Sweep Three From Elston Keglers

Bennett Roofers of Middletown swept three games from Elston Sport, as Ralph Clark crashed 696, with 203-217-276, in a Hudson Valley League match Sunday in Middletown.

The Bennets had a team aggregate of 3079 on game solos of 984, 1046 and 1049. Bert Zimmer hit for 224-602; Johnny Ellis 246-204-608 and Skip Congolosi 203-201-225-629. Joe Schrowang's 212-215-565 led the Elstons.

DUSO Chances Against Raiders Appear Good

Goldbacks Swamp Troy; Middies Press MPs

DUSO League hopes of ending Mont Pleasant's reign of terror in the post-season intersectional basketball tournament looked brighter today than at any time since Kingston High's memorable overtime victory three years ago at Saratoga Springs.

While Newburgh Academy was trampling Troy High, 63 to 38, before a large crowd Saturday night at the local municipal auditorium, a gallant Middletown High quintet was giving Coach Sig Makofski's Red Raiders the battle of their lives in Saratoga.

The Red Raiders won 41-32, but that's hardly the margin by which they expected to trounce a so-so DUSO League team.

Brown Stars

Mont Pleasant's 72-point scoring average took a terrific beating. Standout performer of the contest was Bob Brown, the classy Negro center, who scored 17 points.

Developments in Saratoga Saturday night point up prospects for a sensational showdown here tomorrow night. Coach Lank Masterson has the Gallopin' Goldbacks tuned to the fine edge of a concert violinist. And they still remember the humiliation Mont Pleasant heaped on them in last year's finals.

Troy High, a club that didn't figure to bother Newburgh, didn't even offer a mild threat here Saturday night.

Sparked by Big Ed Gabron and Tom Maher, Masterson's Marvels grabbed the lead in the first minute of play and were never headed.

Cakewalk for N.F.A.

N.F.A. led 15-5 at the quarter and 30-18 at halftime. After a comparatively tame third period, the Goldbacks turned on steam with a 21-10 margin.

The Trojans did show a standout center in Dave Morrison, who was the individual scoring leader with 20. He dunked 20 points on six fields and eight fouls.

Maher led the Goldbacks with 15 points and Gabron hit for 13, five from the charity stripe.

Tuesday night's Mont Pleasant-Newburgh clash will be preceded by a Class B preliminary.

In Class B competition Saturday, Fallsburg of the DUSO League routed Pine Bush of the Orange County League, 49 to 28. Bob Laskowitz paced the Comets with 17 points.

Ferrier's 273 Wins Miami Open Golf

Miami Beach, Fla., March 12 (AP) — Few golfers ever enjoyed playing a hole more than Jim Ferrier did the 18th at Normandy Isle yesterday as he won the $10,000 Miami Beach Open golf tournament.

As he passed the 17th, the big Californian learned he could win the $2,000 top money with a five, two over par, at the 18th. The news meant the end of four days of heavy pressure and Ferrier relaxed and began to have a good time.

He hit two shots cautiously down the middle of the fairway, chipped just as carelessly to the green, babied up on the cup with his first putt, then sank an easy one to put the big prize in the bag.

Ferrier's three-under-par 69 for the final round gave him a 72-hole total of 273 and a one-stroke victory over Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Chuck Klein of San Antonio, Tex. It was Jim's second straight tournament victory. He won the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open last week and now is near the top among winter golf circuit money winners.

Manhattan U. Basketball Coach Church League Banquet Speaker

Ken Norton Slated Here on March 28

Ken Norton, basketball coach at Manhattan University, where the most recent intercollegiate basketball scandal broke, will address the first annual dinner of the Church Basketball League on Wednesday, March 28, at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Arrangements for Norton's timely appearance in Kingston were completed by Andy Murphy, superintendent of recreation and a Manhattan alumnus.

The Recreation Department sponsors the Church Basketball League.

Norton, a topnotch basketball tactician through the years, vaulted into national prominence when two of his players— Hank Poppe and Jim Byrnes—were the first to be indicted by the New York D.A.'s office for accepting bribes to "fix" games.

Basketball fans will recall that it was Norton, along with Junius Kellogg, Manhattan's Negro center, who furnished the early impetus to District Attorney Frank Hogan's investigation. He made several appearances before the Basketball Writers luncheons in New York and his statements received national wire coverage.

Murphy described Norton as an able speaker. Anyone reading editions of Life or Time are familiar with Ken, since stories of his role in the "fix" situation have appeared in these publications.

Further details regarding the banquet will be announced in a few days by Murphy. Meanwhile, tickets can be secured at the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, or by calling 1682.

Trailways' 3306 Series Sets All-Time City and Hudson Valley Record

chatzel's 727 Leads; Roll 1173, 1081, 1052

After flirting with a "3300" series several times in the past two seasons, the Adirondack Trailways walked the glory road Sunday afternoon with a sensational 3306 blast against the Ruzzo Bowlatorium on alleys 7 and 8 at the Ferraro Bowlodrome.

En route to the highest three game series ever rolled in the city, Hudson Valley League and the mid-Hudson area, the Trailways knocked off game totals of 1173, 1081 and 1052.

The 1173 eclipsed the seasonal high of 1165 held by Miron Lumber, while the 3306 shattered the former all-time Hudson Valley League record of 3254 held by the Middletown State Hospital.

Schatzel Cracks 727

Johnny Schatzel emerged as the happiest man of the day as his rousing 727 series (first 700 of his career) sparked the phenomenal accomplishment. He reeled off scores of 274, 209 and 244.

The three game sweep over Ruzzo's enabled the Trailways to tie Cy's Diner of Newburgh for the Hudson Valley League lead. The Diners were handed a shocking three-game loss in Ellenville by the Kerhonkson VFW. Frankie Greco led the home forces with 253-208-255—716.

Twice on the spot, Johnny Ferraro batted .500 and it was his three strikes in a row to wind up the match that sent the Trailways over the 3300 mark.

Earlier in the match, Ferraro came up in the tenth frame of the first game with a chance to vault the Trailways into a 1205 score. His first toss was "light" on alley 7 and left "doublewood." He picked off one pin for an error on the second ball but the 1173 was still enough for a new seasonal record.

Broskie Has 679

While Schatzel's 727 was the piece de resistance in this noble effort, three other Trailway keglers soared well over the "600" mark.

Harold Broskie racked up 679 with 223-262-194; Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer had 648 with 232-190-226 and Johnny Ferraro knocked off 214-239-204—657, although haunted by nearly a dozen "10-pin taps." Fred Rice was a healthy dog with 230—595.

For a while it seemed the Trailways would become the first team ever to have two "700" bowlers in the same series. At the end of two games, Harold Broskie had 485 and Schatzel boasted 483. Schatzel quickly took command with a triple to open the third game, but Broskie was stopped by "taps."

The 3306 gives the Trailways the added distinction of owning the two highest scores ever rolled in Kingston in both league and open play. They posted 3298 in an exhibition here last season.

Unbelievable as it may sound, the Ruzzo Bowlatorium keglers failed to produce a single "200" score or a "600" triple in competition against the Trailways. Their high man was Joe McGrane with 514. Their team aggregate was 2458.

The Ruzzo score:

Martin	156	158	155	469
McGrane	160	176	178	514
Bruno	178	170	157	505
Altamore	168	181	116	465

Jones Dairy Sweeps Dutchess

Jones Dairy swept three games from Dutchess Rec with a 2800 series in a Mid-Hudson Classic match, Saturday on the Bowlatorium lanes.

High scorer for the Dairymen was "Hod" Spaulding with 204-200-183—587. Bob Hanley had 223—581. George Baird, high average leader of the league, knocked off 186-224-206—616.

Nifty Nick Leoce shattered the maples for 201-227-235—663 to lead the Newburgh Empires to a 2-1 victory over Adirondack Trailways.

Greek Palamidas assisted with 226-212—609. The Empires won their two sets with 1012 and 1008 and the Trailways, led by Hammerin Hank Kemmerer's 202-184-217—603 series won the third with 1012. Johnny Ferraro anchored with 204-206—601.

Need Foe For Ike

New York, March 12 (AP)—The International Boxing Club was looking for an opponent today for lightweight champion Ike Williams in the Madison Square Garden main event March 23, Fitzie Pruden of St. Catherine's, Ont., who was signed for the bout, asked to be let out of his contract because the date falls on Good Friday.

Manhattan U. Basketball Coach Church League Banquet Speaker

Ken Norton Slated Here on March 28

Ken Norton, basketball coach at Manhattan University, where the most recent intercollegiate basketball scandal broke, will address the first annual dinner of the Church Basketball League on Wednesday, March 28, at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Arrangements for Norton's timely appearance in Kingston were completed by Andy Murphy, superintendent of recreation and a Manhattan alumnus.

The Recreation Department sponsors the Church Basketball League.

Norton, a topnotch basketball tactician through the years, vaulted into national prominence when two of his players— Hank Poppe and Jim Byrnes—were the first to be indicted by the New York D.A.'s office for accepting bribes to "fix" games.

Basketball fans will recall that it was Norton, along with Junius Kellogg, Manhattan's Negro center, who furnished the early impetus to District Attorney Frank Hogan's investigation. He made several appearances before the Basketball Writers luncheons in New York and his statements received national wire coverage.

Murphy described Norton as an able speaker. Anyone reading editions of Life or Time are familiar with Ken, since stories of his role in the "fix" situation have appeared in these publications.

Further details regarding the banquet will be announced in a few days by Murphy. Meanwhile, tickets can be secured at the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, or by calling 1682.

DUSO Chances Against Raiders Appear Good

Goldbacks Swamp Troy; Middies Press MPs

DUSO League hopes of ending Mont Pleasant's reign of terror in the post-season intersectional basketball tournament looked brighter today than at any time since Kingston High's memorable overtime victory three years ago at Saratoga Springs.

While Newburgh Academy was trampling Troy High, 63 to 38, before a large crowd Saturday night at the local municipal auditorium, a gallant Middletown High quintet was giving Coach Sig Makofski's Red Raiders the battle of their lives in Saratoga.

The Red Raiders won 41-32, but that's hardly the margin by which they expected to trounce a so-so DUSO League team.

Brown Stars

Mont Pleasant's 72-point scoring average took a terrific beating. Standout performer of the contest was Bob Brown, the classy Negro center, who scored 17 points.

Developments in Saratoga Saturday night point up prospects for a sensational showdown here tomorrow night. Coach Lank Masterson has the Gallopin' Goldbacks tuned to the fine edge of a concert violinist. And they still remember the humiliation Mont Pleasant heaped on them in last year's finals.

Troy High, a club that didn't figure to bother Newburgh, didn't even offer a mild threat here Saturday night.

Sparked by Big Ed Gabron and Tom Maher, Masterson's Marvels grabbed the lead in the first minute of play and were never headed.

Cakewalk for N.F.A.

N.F.A. led 15-5 at the quarter and 30-18 at halftime. After a comparatively tame third period, the Goldbacks turned on steam with a 21-10 margin.

The Trojans did show a standout center in Dave Morrison, who was the individual scoring leader with 20. He dunked 20 points on six fields and eight fouls.

Maher led the Goldbacks with 15 points and Gabron hit for 13, five from the charity stripe.

Tuesday night's Mont Pleasant-Newburgh clash will be preceded by a Class B preliminary.

In Class B competition Saturday, Fallsburg of the DUSO League routed Pine Bush of the Orange County League, 49 to 28. Bob Laskowitz paced the Comets with 17 points.

Ferrier's 273 Wins Miami Open Golf

Miami Beach, Fla., March 12 (AP) — Few golfers ever enjoyed playing a hole more than Jim Ferrier did the 18th at Normandy Isle yesterday as he won the $10,000 Miami Beach Open golf tournament.

As he passed the 17th, the big Californian learned he could win the $2,000 top money with a five, two over par, at the 18th. The news meant the end of four days of heavy pressure and Ferrier relaxed and began to have a good time.

He hit two shots cautiously down the middle of the fairway, chipped just as carelessly to the green, babied up on the cup with his first putt, then sank an easy one to put the big prize in the bag.

Ferrier's three-under-par 69 for the final round gave him a 72-hole total of 273 and a one-stroke victory over Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Chuck Klein of San Antonio, Tex. It was Jim's second straight tournament victory. He won the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open last week and now is near the top among winter golf circuit money winners.

Trailways' 3306 Series Sets All-Time City and Hudson Valley Record

chatzel's 727 Leads; Roll 1173, 1081, 1052

After flirting with a "3300" series several times in the past two seasons, the Adirondack Trailways walked the glory road Sunday afternoon with a sensational 3306 blast against the Ruzzo Bowlatorium on alleys 7 and 8 at the Ferraro Bowlodrome.

En route to the highest three game series ever rolled in the city, Hudson Valley League and the mid-Hudson area, the Trailways knocked off game totals of 1173, 1081 and 1052.

The 1173 eclipsed the seasonal high of 1165 held by Miron Lumber, while the 3306 shattered the former all-time Hudson Valley League record of 3254 held by the Middletown State Hospital.

Schatzel Cracks 727

Johnny Schatzel emerged as the happiest man of the day as his rousing 727 series (first 700 of his career) sparked the phenomenal accomplishment. He reeled off scores of 274, 209 and 244.

The three game sweep over Ruzzo's enabled the Trailways to tie Cy's Diner of Newburgh for the Hudson Valley League lead. The Diners were handed a shocking three-game loss in Ellenville by the Kerhonkson VFW. Frankie Greco led the home forces with 253-208-255—716.

Twice on the spot, Johnny Ferraro batted .500 and it was his three strikes in a row to wind up the match that sent the Trailways over the 3300 mark.

Earlier in the match, Ferraro came up in the tenth frame of the first game with a chance to vault the Trailways into a 1205 score. His first toss was "light" on alley 7 and left "doublewood." He picked off one pin for an error on the second ball but the 1173 was still enough for a new seasonal record.

Broskie Has 679

While Schatzel's 727 was the piece de resistance in this noble effort, three other Trailway keglers soared well over the "600" mark.

Harold Broskie racked up 679 with 223-262-194; Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer had 648 with 232-190-226 and Johnny Ferraro knocked off 214-239-204—657, although haunted by nearly a dozen "10-pin taps." Fred Rice was a healthy dog with 230—595.

For a while it seemed the Trailways would become the first team ever to have two "700" bowlers in the same series. At the end of two games, Harold Broskie had 485 and Schatzel boasted 483. Schatzel quickly took command with a triple to open the third game, but Broskie was stopped by "taps."

The 3306 gives the Trailways the added distinction of owning the two highest scores ever rolled in Kingston in both league and open play. They posted 3298 in an exhibition here last season.

Unbelievable as it may sound, the Ruzzo Bowlatorium keglers failed to produce a single "200" score or a "600" triple in competition against the Trailways. Their high man was Joe McGrane with 514. Their team aggregate was 2458.

The Ruzzo score:

Jones Dairy Sweeps Dutchess

Jones Dairy swept three games from Dutchess Rec with a 2800 series in a Mid-Hudson Classic match, Saturday on the Bowlatorium lanes.

High scorer for the Dairymen was "Hod" Spaulding with 204-200-183—587. Bob Hanley had 223—581. George Baird, high average leader of the league, knocked off 186-224-206—616.

Nifty Nick Leoce shattered the maples for 201-227-235—663 to lead the Newburgh Empires to a 2-1 victory over Adirondack Trailways.

Greek Palamidas assisted with 226-212—609. The Empires won their two sets with 1012 and 1008 and the Trailways, led by Hammerin Hank Kemmerer's 202-184-217—603 series won the third with 1012. Johnny Ferraro anchored with 204-206—601.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The DUSO League's pronouncement that its coaches have been instructed to refrain from participating in the selection of All-DUSO teams didn't cause a single eyebrow to be lifted among the DUSO's press box citizenry. Neither the writers nor the DUSO have ever suffered from unrequieted love for each other, so the prssbox denizens will proceed with the formality of selecting an all-DUSO basketball squad.

The kids like it, the student bodies at the various schools like it. Selection on any league or conference all-star roster carries a measure of prestige, particularly for young men who are trying to land athletic scholarships.

To the best of our knowledge, the balloting for DUSO all-star teams has always been conducted strictly above board, with a secret ballot. Ralph Frederick of the Port Jervis Gazette, a scrivener of considerable integrity, is the master of the ballot box, and from past experiences we know that Ralph isn't broadcasting the personal choices of writers or coaches.

The recent DUSO communique from DUSO League president, Leon J. Weiss, said there was considerable discussion at the recent DUSO council meeting on the advisability of having two sets of officials. Some concern was expressed by the lack of new blood in the coaches association. We are in complete agreement with the DUSO on that subject. The league needs younger blood. There are at present at least three arbiters in the circuit who find it extremely difficult to officiate jayvee and varsity contests at top efficiency. When legs get heavy and wind gets short, a person's reflexes are affected. It usually happens, even to basketball referees.

Voting for the Sportsmanship Trophy takes place this week in the DUSO League. According to the grapevine, the balloting will center around four of the conference's 10 teams. In other words, six members have long since disqualified themselves.

Kingston High, a former winner of this coveted award, will have to mend its fences before it can ever hope to again qualify for the trophy. The general trend of crowd and student behavior at K.H.S. games has deteriorated in the past couple of years.

The financial stability and efficacy of operation of the Canadian-American League is so overwhelming when compared to that the late, lamented Colonial League, as to prohibit comparison.

In the Can-Am, each club pays the league treasurer six cents for each adult admission for all championship and playoff games, except booster or community night games. These contests carry flat league fee of $50. One cent of each adult admission until a maximum of $250 has been paid for the season is deducted for the Players' Pool. The total contributions in the pool at the close of the championship season is paid to the championship club. And there you have a tremendous incentive to play winning ball.

Each club participating in the playoffs pays the league treasury 20 per cent of the gross gate for the first four of the semi-final and final decision games of the playoff.

At the conclusion of the semi-final playoff series, the total amount in the pool at that time is divided as follows:

1—Twenty-five (25) per cent to each of the two clubs eliminated in the semi-final series.

2—Fifty (50) per cent shall remain in the pool.

At the conclusion of the final playoff series, the total amount then remaining in the pool shall be divided as follows:

1—Sixty (60) per cent to the playoff winner.

2—Forty (40) per cent to the losers.

When you analyze the Can-Am financial arrangements, you can appreciate why it has been one of the nation's strongest minor league wheels for more than a decade. The member teams are offered strong inducements to play out the seasonal string to the hilt. The post-season financial arrangement is so lucrative and worthwhile that the Shaughnessy games are as bitterly contested as the regular pennant chase.

Joe Walcott, the William Jennings Bryan of the heavyweight racket, has gone "4 for 0" in shots at the crown, but it seems to be a pretty good way of making a living.

Sport Movie Feature At Gun Club Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Rainbow Inn, Albany avenue extension.

All members are urged to be present as several important matters are to be discussed and a movie, "Lake Trout Thrills" will be shown.

The project of clearing a creek front at the club grounds has been completed and several other improvements have been made at the clubhouse. As soon as weather permits many activities are planned.

It is estimated that there are more than 50,000 lumber mills now operating in the United States.

Can-Am Series Starts Tuesday

The first of a series of articles covering the history and growth of the Canadian-American Baseball League will be published in Tuesday's issue.

Newburgh Skaters Tri State Winners

Rye, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—Alex Gougen of Pittsfield, Mass., won the Senior Men's crown in the Tri State Speed Skating championships suponsored by the Middle Atlantic Skating Association last night.

Gougen, who owns the Eastern States crown, captured the one-miler, and then placed second in the 880-yard event and the two-mile feature. Gougen scored 70 points in the three events to 50 for Tom Stanton of Newburgh, N. Y.

Mary Lynch of Newburgh, N. Y., won the Senior Women's title defeating Pat Fitzpatrick of Pittsfield, Mass., and Gwendolyn DuBois of Newburgh.

Other champions include Jay Hasbrouck of Newburgh, Junior Boys; Steven Reese of Brooklyn, Juvenile Boys; Arlene McCafferty of Pompton Lakes, N. Ken Norton Slated Here on March 28

Ken Norton, basketball coach at Manhattan University, where the most recent intercollegiate basketball scandal broke, will address the first annual dinner of the Church Basketball League on Wednesday, March 28, at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Arrangements for Norton's timely appearance in Kingston were completed by Andy Murphy, superintendent of recreation and a Manhattan alumnus.

The Recreation Department sponsors the Church Basketball League.

Norton, a topnotch basketball tactician through the years, vaulted into national prominence when two of his players— Hank Poppe and Jim Byrnes—were the first to be indicted by the New York D.A.'s office for accepting bribes to "fix" games.

Basketball fans will recall that it was Norton, along with Junius Kellogg, Manhattan's Negro center, who furnished the early impetus to District Attorney Frank Hogan's investigation. He made several appearances before the Basketball Writers luncheons in New York and his statements received national wire coverage.

Murphy described Norton as an able speaker. Anyone reading editions of Life or Time are familiar with Ken, since stories of his role in the "fix" situation have appeared in these publications.

Further details regarding the banquet will be announced in a few days by Murphy. Meanwhile, tickets can be secured at the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, or by calling 1682.

Bowling

The regular meeting of the Kingston Bowling Association will be held on Wednesday, March 14, at the Y.M.C.A. at 7:30 p. m. All members are urged to attend this important session.

The Pinboy League at the Bowlatorium accounted for a half dozen "400" triples Saturday, with John Peyer's 152-147-167-466 leading the group. George Haines hit for 460; Don Yonta 418; Ed Haines 417; W. Strampton 414 and R. Hahn. Other top scorers were M. Wildermoth 398 and and C. Bunce 389.

Harry Kaprelian's 567, with 190-184-193, led the Ruzzo Mixed keglers, with Eddie Esposito in the runnerup slot with 547. Chris Backman hit for 234-545; Vince Burns 237-534; Moe Lazarowitz 245 (high for the night) and 530; P. DeWitt 529; Jim Burns 209-511; Faye Horne 508; Bill Schabot 503; Bill Johnson 499; A. Roosa 489; Evelyn Gross 489; A. Wohlfert 488 and John Schatzel 486.

High scoring honors in the Y Mercantile American League went to Pat DeCicco with 210-168-184-562. Runnerup Tom Rowland shot 510; Len Ward 503; Budd Greenburg 502; Jack Raible 488; Jack Wolfersteig 474; Ed Auclair 473; Austin Hitchcock 476 Herb Williams 470.

The city's top bowling stars in their respective firmaments—Johnny Ferraro and Rose Schatzel—led the Ferraro Mixed League last night, with 597 and 571.

Ferraro knocked off 223-176-198, while Mrs. Schatzel accounted for 205-222-144. Harry Schussler clicked 226-570; "Boots" Leskie 528; Bill Stenson 524; Jack Healey 207-520; Jake Chichelsky 519; Fred Rice 201-516; Ed Schussler 211-510; Rudy Hohenberger, the boy wonder, 212-503; B. McLaughlin 494; Sue Heins 492, Fred Schussler 492.

Bowling surprises never cease at the Central Recreation alleys. Take the case of Vince La Rocca, a 147-average bowler.

Up to last night La Rocca had his troubles trying to find the "500" groove. Then came the deluge. First it was 226 and everybody expected Vince to lapse back to normalcy. But he didn't stop. Came a 236, then 213 and a rousing 675. How do you like that for a 147-average bowler!

Other high scorer were Don Peterson 203-580; Robert Lawrence 221-575; Ken Boughton 212-202-566; Ken Radel 565; Jim Daniels 542; Red Sangi 529; Frank Bruno 509; and Fred Buchanan 502. Distaff leaders were Eleanor Barkley 486; Sally O'Bryan 473; Lay Roosa 434; B. Ostrander 419 and V. Smith 404.

St. John's Redmen Could Qualify As NIT's First Three-Time Winner

By JOE FALLS

New York, March 12 (AP)—St. John's of Brooklyn, with a chance to make basketball history, tangles with St. Bonaventure tonight in the quarter final round of the National Invitation Tournament.

No team ever has won the Invitation title three times, but St. John's is seeded No. 1 and is favored over St. Bonaventure. The Brooklyn Redmen won the NIT in 1943 and 1944.

This game will be preceded by the match between third-seeded Brigham Young and St. Louis.

St. Louis is unseeded, but Ed Hickey's speedsters made an impressive showing in Saturday's opening round, whipping a good La Salle quintet, 73-61.

At least, Stan Watts, Brigham Young coach was impressed.

"I was amazed at their shooting in the first half and the ability to set up plays," he said today. "They break awfully fast, but our boys can run a little, too. We're up for this one."

Hickey hasn't seen Brigham Young this season, but, he, too, is confident.

Billikens Confident

"We like the Garden court," he said, "and are looking to set the pattern of play. I'm sure we can run with them and, if necessary, we'll slow 'em down."

Tomorrow night's quarter finals send second-seeded North Carolina State against Seton Hall and fourth-seeded Arizona against Dayton.

Seton Hall and Dayton moved up Saturday along with St. Bonaventure and St. Louis.

Seton Hall surprised Beloit, 71-57, with a bristling second-half attack. Dayton pusted Lawrence Tech, 77-71, and St. Bonaventure took a foul-filled, double-overtime thriller from Cincinnati, 70-67.

Coach Ed Milkovich of St. Bonaventure doesn't have any illusions about tonight's tilt with St. John's.

"Our boys are tired," he said, "and we're going against a good, consistent team that is well-coached. We'll play the usual Eastern style running game of give-and-go—if they'll let us. Our big problem, though, is how to stop Bob Zawoluk."

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Chisox Starters

Pasadena, Calif., March 12 (AP)—Hal Brown, Bob Mahoney and Floyd Penfold have been chosen to pitch for the White Sox in their engagement with the Pittsburgh Pirates tomorrow.

After downing the Cubs 8-6 Saturday, the White Sox absorbed a 5-4 licking by their cross-town rivals yesterday. The Cubs punched four runs in the fifth inning and the clincher in the seventh when Bob Borkowski singled Ransom Jackson home. Jackson led the Cubs' four-run uprising with a bases-loaded double.

Meyer Defrocked

San Bernardino, Calif., March 12 (AP)—General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates has another campaign underway—to get Manager Bill Meyer out of his baseball suit and do his managing in street clothes.

Meyer said he thought Rickey was kidding when he brought up the subject last November. Now he's convinced Rickey means business but he hasn't decided whether to put aside his uniform.

Meyer probably won't make his decision until the Pirates, winners of their first two exhibition games, open the regular season.

Not Too Old Yet

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Enos (Country) Slaughter, the aging St. Louis Cardinal warhorse, doesn't like the word old. And it didn't seem to fit him yesterday.

He took off with a bang in the Cards' encounter against the New York Giants, driving in two of St. Louis' three tallies and doubling his last time up. In the first inning he came up with a diving, rolling catch of Al Dark's sinking liner, robbing him of extra bases.

Despite Slaughter's work, the Giants won 4-3.

Yankee Power

Phoenix, Ariz., March 12 (AP)—The major leagues' top two home run hitters—Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize—are at it again.

The New York Yankees one-two punch pinch-hit in yesterday's 13-8 victory over Cleveland, and each smacked a home run. DiMaggio's was a solo blast, but Mize's came with two mates on. These two sluggers have hit more homers than any other active major leaguer—including Ralph Kiner and Ted Williams.

Dodger Casualties

Miami, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The training season is only two weeks old, officially, and the Brooklyn Dodgers' pitching staff has plenty of injuries.

Don Newcombe was hit in the knee with a line drive Saturday night, but X-rays were negative . . . Ralph Branca's right arm is tight . . . Bill McCann is suffering from an upset stomach . . . and Jack Banta's sore, sore arm still is ailing.

Westrum Downed

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The flu bug has bitten catcher West Westrum and coach Frank Shellenback of the New York Giants—again.

Both have recurrences of the fever that hit them in Sanford.

The New Yorkers play the Boston Red Sox today. Leo Durocher nominated Sheldon Jones, Jim Hearn and Rookie Charlie Bishop to work against the American Leaguers.

Crops marketed in 1950 by U. S. farmers brought cash receipts to the farmers of about 28 billion dollars.

Woodstock JVs Rout Rams, 62-52

Woodstock Jayvees scored an impressive victory Friday night, when they turned back the powerful Kingston Rams, 62-52, on the Woodstock court.

Trailing in the first period, the Jayvees took the lead early in the second quarter to move ahead 29-24 at half time and were never headed.

P. Van Wagenen, Woodstock's high scoring center, dominated the action with a 30-point barrage, tossing in 14 deuces and a pair of singletons. Kaplan's 14 markers led the Rams.

Penn Sophomore Tops Ivy Scorers

New York, March 12 (AP)—Ernie Beck apparently is headed for big things before he winds up his college career at Pennsylvania.

The big sophomore has just closed his first varsity season with the second highest individual point total in the history of the Ivy League.

Beck won the scoring championship with 244 points, bettered in Ivy history only by Tony Lavelli's 256 points for Yale two years ago. Besides he set a league record with 98 field goals and led in rebounds and shooting average.

The youngster tossed in 24 points Saturday night as Penn whipped Princeton, 74-63, to clinch third place in the final Ivy standings. Unbeaten Columbia is first with a 12-0 mark, followed by Cornell (10-2).

Penn finished with a 7-5 league record, beating out Princeton (5-7). Yale won fifth place by winning a last-minute victory over Harvard, 72-70.

Final Ivy League standings.

Newest new car of the year!

The more you see of the entire field, the more you'll be convinced: The NEWEST of all the new cars is the new 1951 PACKARD!

Packard sets the new trend—not only with its completely new, award-winning beauty—but with every other major feature on which cars are compared . . .

Efficient power? Packard gives you the peak performance of America's highest-compression eights—plus: streamlined, simplified design that "stays in tune."

Automatic drive? Packard—and only Packard—offers Ultramatic Drive . . . with a combination of smoothness and efficiency no other drive can match!

Restful riding comfort? Packard, for 1951, has even improved on its own famed "Limousine Ride," to give you a whole new concept of firm roadability and gentle, silent smoothness.

Precision-built quality? Here again, Packard stands above the field—with motordom's finest durability record to prove its right to that position. Fact: Of all the Packards built, in the last 52 years, over 50% are still in service!

All of which goes to show that the 1951 Packard is not only the newest of all the new cars—but that it's designed and built to stay that way for many a prideful year ahead!

Won't you stop in, please, and see for yourself how it feels to drive the newest new car in the world? There's no better time than right now!

America's top design-judging group—the Society of Motion Picture Art Directors—has selected the new 1951 Packard as "the car which embodies the most advanced concepts of automobile styling."

It's more than a car--it's a PACKARD

Bowling

The regular meeting of the Kingston Bowling Association will be held on Wednesday, March 14, at the Y.M.C.A. at 7:30 p. m. All members are urged to attend this important session.

The Pinboy League at the Bowlatorium accounted for a half dozen "400" triples Saturday, with John Peyer's 152-147-167-466 leading the group. George Haines hit for 460; Don Yonta 418; Ed Haines 417; W. Strampton 414 and R. Hahn. Other top scorers were M. Wildermoth 398 and and C. Bunce 389.

Harry Kaprelian's 567, with 190-184-193, led the Ruzzo Mixed keglers, with Eddie Esposito in the runnerup slot with 547. Chris Backman hit for 234-545; Vince Burns 237-534; Moe Lazarowitz 245 (high for the night) and 530; P. DeWitt 529; Jim Burns 209-511; Faye Horne 508; Bill Schabot 503; Bill Johnson 499; A. Roosa 489; Evelyn Gross 489; A. Wohlfert 488 and John Schatzel 486.

High scoring honors in the Y Mercantile American League went to Pat DeCicco with 210-168-184-562. Runnerup Tom Rowland shot 510; Len Ward 503; Budd Greenburg 502; Jack Raible 488; Jack Wolfersteig 474; Ed Auclair 473; Austin Hitchcock 476 Herb Williams 470.

The city's top bowling stars in their respective firmaments — Johnny Ferraro and Rose Schatzel — led the Ferraro Mixed League last night, with 597 and 571.

Ferraro knocked off 223-176-198, while Mrs. Schatzel accounted for 205-222-144. Harry Schussler clicked 226-570; "Boots" Leskie 528; Bill Stenson 524; Jack Healey 207-520; Jake Chichelsky 519; Fred Rice 201-516; Ed Schussler 211-510; Rudy Hohenberger, the boy wonder, 212-503; B. McLaughlin 494; Sue Heins 492, Fred Schussler 492.

Bowling surprises never cease at the Central Recreation alleys. Take the case of Vince La Rocca, a 147-average bowler.

Up to last night La Rocca had his troubles trying to find the "500" groove. Then came the deluge. First it was 226 and everybody expected Vince to lapse back to normalcy. But he didn't stop. Came a 236, then 213 and a rousing 675. How do you like that for a 147-average bowler!

Other high scorer were Don Peterson 203-580; Robert Lawrence 221-575; Ken Boughton 212-202-566; Ken Radel 565; Jim Daniels 542; Red Sangi 529; Frank Bruno 509; and Fred Buchanan 502. Distaff leaders were Eleanor Barkley 486; Sally O'Bryan 473; Lay Roosa 434; B. Ostrander 419 and V. Smith 404.

St. John's Redmen Could Qualify As NIT's First Three-Time Winner

By JOE FALLS

New York, March 12 (AP)—St. John's of Brooklyn, with a chance to make basketball history, tangles with St. Bonaventure tonight in the quarter final round of the National Invitation Tournament.

No team ever has won the Invitation title three times, but St. John's is seeded No. 1 and is favored over St. Bonaventure. The Brooklyn Redmen won the NIT in 1943 and 1944.

This game will be preceded by the match between third-seeded Brigham Young and St. Louis.

St. Louis is unseeded, but Ed Hickey's speedsters made an impressive showing in Saturday's opening round, whipping a good La Salle quintet, 73-61.

At least, Stan Watts, Brigham Young coach was impressed.

"I was amazed at their shooting in the first half and the ability to set up plays," he said today. "They break awfully fast, but our boys can run a little, too. We're up for this one."

Hickey hasn't seen Brigham Young this season, but, he, too, is confident.

Billikens Confident

"We like the Garden court," he said, "and are looking to set the pattern of play. I'm sure we can run with them and, if necessary, we'll slow 'em down."

Tomorrow night's quarter finals send second-seeded North Carolina State against Seton Hall and fourth-seeded Arizona against Dayton.

Seton Hall and Dayton moved up Saturday along with St. Bonaventure and St. Louis.

Seton Hall surprised Beloit, 71-57, with a bristling second-half attack. Dayton pusted Lawrence Tech, 77-71, and St. Bonaventure took a foul-filled, double-overtime thriller from Cincinnati, 70-67.

Coach Ed Milkovich of St. Bonaventure doesn't have any illusions about tonight's tilt with St. John's.

"Our boys are tired," he said, "and we're going against a good, consistent team that is well-coached. We'll play the usual Eastern style running game of give-and-go—if they'll let us. Our big problem, though, is how to stop Bob Zawoluk."

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Chisox Starters

Pasadena, Calif., March 12 (AP)—Hal Brown, Bob Mahoney and Floyd Penfold have been chosen to pitch for the White Sox in their engagement with the Pittsburgh Pirates tomorrow.

After downing the Cubs 8-6 Saturday, the White Sox absorbed a 5-4 licking by their cross-town rivals yesterday. The Cubs punched four runs in the fifth inning and the clincher in the seventh when Bob Borkowski singled Ransom Jackson home. Jackson led the Cubs' four-run uprising with a bases-loaded double.

Meyer Defrocked

San Bernardino, Calif., March 12 (AP)—General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates has another campaign underway—to get Manager Bill Meyer out of his baseball suit and do his managing in street clothes.

Meyer said he thought Rickey was kidding when he brought up the subject last November. Now he's convinced Rickey means business but he hasn't decided whether to put aside his uniform.

Meyer probably won't make his decision until the Pirates, winners of their first two exhibition games, open the regular season.

Not Too Old Yet

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Enos (Country) Slaughter, the aging St. Louis Cardinal warhorse, doesn't like the word old. And it didn't seem to fit him yesterday.

He took off with a bang in the Cards' encounter against the New York Giants, driving in two of St. Louis' three tallies and doubling his last time up. In the first inning he came up with a diving, rolling catch of Al Dark's sinking liner, robbing him of extra bases.

Despite Slaughter's work, the Giants won 4-3.

Yankee Power

Phoenix, Ariz., March 12 (AP)—The major leagues' top two home run hitters—Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize—are at it again.

The New York Yankees one-two punch pinch-hit in yesterday's 13-8 victory over Cleveland, and each smacked a home run. DiMaggio's was a solo blast, but Mize's came with two mates on. These two sluggers have hit more homers than any other active major leaguer—including Ralph Kiner and Ted Williams.

Dodger Casualties

Miami, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The training season is only two weeks old, officially, and the Brooklyn Dodgers' pitching staff has plenty of injuries.

Don Newcombe was hit in the knee with a line drive Saturday night, but X-rays were negative . . . Ralph Branca's right arm is tight . . . Bill McCann is suffering from an upset stomach . . . and Jack Banta's sore, sore arm still is ailing.

Westrum Downed

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The flu bug has bitten catcher West Westrum and coach Frank Shellenback of the New York Giants—again.

Both have recurrences of the fever that hit them in Sanford.

The New Yorkers play the Boston Red Sox today. Leo Durocher nominated Sheldon Jones, Jim Hearn and Rookie Charlie Bishop to work against the American Leaguers.

Crops marketed in 1950 by U. S. farmers brought cash receipts to the farmers of about 28 billion dollars.

Woodstock JVs Rout Rams, 62-52

Woodstock Jayvees scored an impressive victory Friday night, when they turned back the powerful Kingston Rams, 62-52, on the Woodstock court.

Trailing in the first period, the Jayvees took the lead early in the second quarter to move ahead 29-24 at half time and were never headed.

P. Van Wagenen, Woodstock's high scoring center, dominated the action with a 30-point barrage, tossing in 14 deuces and a pair of singletons. Kaplan's 14 markers led the Rams.

Penn Sophomore Tops Ivy Scorers

New York, March 12 (AP)—Ernie Beck apparently is headed for big things before he winds up his college career at Pennsylvania.

The big sophomore has just closed his first varsity season with the second highest individual point total in the history of the Ivy League.

Beck won the scoring championship with 244 points, bettered in Ivy history only by Tony Lavelli's 256 points for Yale two years ago. Besides he set a league record with 98 field goals and led in rebounds and shooting average.

The youngster tossed in 24 points Saturday night as Penn whipped Princeton, 74-63, to clinch third place in the final Ivy standings. Unbeaten Columbia is first with a 12-0 mark, followed by Cornell (10-2).

Penn finished with a 7-5 league record, beating out Princeton (5-7). Yale won fifth place by winning a last-minute victory over Harvard, 72-70.

Columbia (22-0) the only major undefeated team in the country, will play Illinois in the first round of the NCAA tournament here March 20.

Newest new car of the year!

The more you see of the entire field, the more you'll be convinced: The NEWEST of all the new cars is the new 1951 PACKARD!

Packard sets the new trend—not only with its completely new, award-winning beauty—but with every other major feature on which cars are compared . . .

Efficient power? Packard gives you the peak performance of America's highest-compression eights—plus: streamlined, simplified design that "stays in tune."

Automatic drive? Packard—and only Packard—offers Ultramatic Drive . . . with a combination of smoothness and efficiency no other drive can match!

Restful riding comfort? Packard, for 1951, has even improved on its own famed "Limousine Ride," to give you a whole new concept of firm roadability and gentle, silent smoothness.

Precision-built quality? Here again, Packard stands above the field—with motordom's finest durability record to prove its right to that position. Fact: Of all the Packards built, in the last 52 years, over 50% are still in service!

All of which goes to show that the 1951 Packard is not only the newest of all the new cars—but that it's designed and built to stay that way for many a prideful year ahead!

Won't you stop in, please, and see for yourself how it feels to drive the newest new car in the world? There's no better time than right now!

America's top design-judging group—the Society of Motion Picture Art Directors—has selected the new 1951 Packard as "the car which embodies the most advanced concepts of automobile styling."

It's more than a car--it's a

Bowling

The regular meeting of the Kingston Bowling Association will be held on Wednesday, March 14, at the Y.M.C.A. at 7:30 p. m. All members are urged to attend this important session.

The Pinboy League at the Bowlatorium accounted for a half dozen "400" triples Saturday, with John Peyer's 152-147-167-466 leading the group. George Haines hit for 460; Don Yonta 418; Ed Haines 417; W. Strampton 414 and R. Hahn. Other top scorers were M. Wildermoth 398 and and C. Bunce 389.

Harry Kaprelian's 567, with 190-184-193, led the Ruzzo Mixed keglers, with Eddie Esposito in the runnerup slot with 547. Chris Backman hit for 234-545; Vince Burns 237-534; Moe Lazarowitz 245 (high for the night) and 530; P. DeWitt 529; Jim Burns 209-511; Faye Horne 508; Bill Schabot 503; Bill Johnson 499; A. Roosa 489; Evelyn Gross 489; A. Wohlfert 488 and John Schatzel 486.

High scoring honors in the Y Mercantile American League went to Pat DeCicco with 210-168-184-562. Runnerup Tom Rowland shot 510; Len Ward 503; Budd Greenburg 502; Jack Raible 488; Jack Wolfersteig 474; Ed Auclair 473; Austin Hitchcock 476 Herb Williams 470.

The city's top bowling stars in their respective firmaments — Johnny Ferraro and Rose Schatzel — led the Ferraro Mixed League last night, with 597 and 571.

Ferraro knocked off 223-176-198, while Mrs. Schatzel accounted for 205-222-144. Harry Schussler clicked 226-570; "Boots" Leskie 528; Bill Stenson 524; Jack Healey 207-520; Jake Chichelsky 519; Fred Rice 201-516; Ed Schussler 211-510; Rudy Hohenberger, the boy wonder, 212-503; B. McLaughlin 494; Sue Heins 492, Fred Schussler 492.

Up to last night La Rocca had his troubles trying to find the "500" groove. Then came the deluge. First it was 226 and everybody expected Vince to lapse back to normalcy. But he didn't stop. Came a 236, then 213 and a rousing 675. How do you like that for a 147-average bowler!

Other high scorer were Don Peterson 203-580; Robert Lawrence 221-575; Ken Boughton 212-202-566; Ken Radel 565; Jim Daniels 542; Red Sangi 529; Frank Bruno 509; and Fred Buchanan 502. Distaff leaders were Eleanor Barkley 486; Sally O'Bryan 473; Lay Roosa 434; B. Ostrander 419 and V. Smith 404.

St. John's Redmen Could Qualify As NIT's First Three-Time Winner

By JOE FALLS

New York, March 12 (AP)—St. John's of Brooklyn, with a chance to make basketball history, tangles with St. Bonaventure tonight in the quarter final round of the National Invitation Tournament.

No team ever has won the Invitation title three times, but St. John's is seeded No. 1 and is favored over St. Bonaventure. The Brooklyn Redmen won the NIT in 1943 and 1944.

This game will be preceded by the match between third-seeded Brigham Young and St. Louis.

St. Louis is unseeded, but Ed Hickey's speedsters made an impressive showing in Saturday's opening round, whipping a good La Salle quintet, 73-61.

At least, Stan Watts, Brigham Young coach was impressed.

"I was amazed at their shooting in the first half and the ability to set up plays," he said today. "They break awfully fast, but our boys can run a little, too. We're up for this one."

Hickey hasn't seen Brigham Young this season, but, he, too, is confident.

Billikens Confident

"We like the Garden court," he said, "and are looking to set the pattern of play. I'm sure we can run with them and, if necessary, we'll slow 'em down."

Tomorrow night's quarter finals send second-seeded North Carolina State against Seton Hall and fourth-seeded Arizona against Dayton.

Seton Hall and Dayton moved up Saturday along with St. Bonaventure and St. Louis.

Seton Hall surprised Beloit, 71-57, with a bristling second-half attack. Dayton ousted Lawrence Tech, 77-71, and St. Bonaventure took a foul-filled, double-overtime thriller from Cincinnati, 70-67.

Coach Ed Milkovich of St. Bonaventure doesn't have any illusions about tonight's tilt with St. John's.

"Our boys are tired," he said, "and we're going against a good, consistent team that is well-coached. We'll play the usual Eastern style running game of give-and-go—if they'll let us. Our big problem, though, is how to stop Bob Zawoluk."

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Chisox Starters

Pasadena, Calif., March 12 (AP)—Hal Brown, Bob Mahoney and Floyd Penfold have been chosen to pitch for the White Sox in their engagement with the Pittsburgh Pirates tomorrow.

After downing the Cubs 8-6 Saturday, the White Sox absorbed a 5-4 licking by their cross-town rivals yesterday. The Cubs punched four runs in the fifth inning and the clincher in the seventh when Bob Borkowski singled Ransom Jackson home. Jackson led the Cubs' four-run uprising with a bases-loaded double.

Meyer Defrocked

San Bernardino, Calif., March 12 (AP)—General Manager Branch Rickey of the Pittsburgh Pirates has another campaign underway—to get Manager Bill Meyer out of his baseball suit and do his managing in street clothes.

Meyer said he thought Rickey was kidding when he brought up the subject last November. Now he's convinced Rickey means business but he hasn't decided whether to put aside his uniform.

Meyer probably won't make his decision until the Pirates, winners of their first two exhibition games, open the regular season.

Not Too Old Yet

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Enos (Country) Slaughter, the aging St. Louis Cardinal warhorse, doesn't like the word old. And it didn't seem to fit him yesterday.

He took off with a bang in the Cards' encounter against the New York Giants, driving in two of St. Louis' three tallies and doubling his last time up. In the first inning he came up with a diving, rolling catch of Al Dark's sinking liner, robbing him of extra bases.

Despite Slaughter's work, the Giants won 4-3.

Yankee Power

Phoenix, Ariz., March 12 (AP)—The major leagues' top two home run hitters—Joe DiMaggio and Johnny Mize—are at it again.

The New York Yankees one-two punch pinch-hit in yesterday's 13-8 victory over Cleveland, and each smacked a home run. DiMaggio's was a solo blast, but Mize's came with two mates on. These two sluggers have hit more homers than any other active major leaguer—including Ralph Kiner and Ted Williams.

Dodger Casualties

Miami, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The training season is only two weeks old, officially, and the Brooklyn Dodgers' pitching staff has plenty of injuries.

Don Newcombe was hit in the knee with a line drive Saturday night, but X-rays were negative . . . Ralph Branca's right arm is tight . . . Bill McCann is suffering from an upset stomach . . . and Jack Banta's sore, sore arm still is ailing.

Westrum Downed

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The flu bug has bitten catcher West Westrum and coach Frank Shellenback of the New York Giants—again.

Both have recurrences of the fever that hit them in Sanford.

The New Yorkers play the Boston Red Sox today. Leo Durocher nominated Sheldon Jones, Jim Hearn and Rookie Charlie Bishop to work against the American Leaguers.

Crops marketed in 1950 by U. S. farmers brought cash receipts to the farmers of about 28 billion dollars.

Woodstock JVs Rout Rams, 62-52

Woodstock Jayvees scored an impressive victory Friday night, when they turned back the powerful Kingston Rams, 62-52, on the Woodstock court.

Trailing in the first period, the Jayvees took the lead early in the second quarter to move ahead 29-24 at half time and were never headed.

P. Van Wagenen, Woodstock's high scoring center, dominated the action with a 30-point barrage, tossing in 14 deuces and a pair of singletons. Kaplan's 14 markers led the Rams.

Penn Sophomore Tops Ivy Scorers

New York, March 12 (AP)—Ernie Beck apparently is headed for big things before he winds up his college career at Pennsylvania.

The big sophomore has just closed his first varsity season with the second highest individual point total in the history of the Ivy League.

Beck won the scoring championship with 244 points, bettered in Ivy history only by Tony Lavelli's 256 points for Yale two years ago. Besides he set a league record with 98 field goals and led in rebounds and shooting average.

The youngster tossed in 24 points Saturday night as Penn whipped Princeton, 74-63, to clinch third place in the final Ivy standings. Unbeaten Columbia is first with a 12-0 mark, followed by Cornell (10-2).

Penn finished with a 7-5 league record, beating out Princeton (5-7). Yale won fifth place by winning a last-minute victory over Harvard, 72-70.

Columbia (22-0) the only major undefeated team in the country, will play Illinois in the first round of the NCAA tournament here March 20.

Newest new car of the year!

The more you see of the entire field, the more you'll be convinced: The NEWEST of all the new cars is the new 1951 PACKARD!

Packard sets the new trend—not only with its completely new, award-winning beauty—but with every other major feature on which cars are compared . . .

Efficient power? Packard gives you the peak performance of America's highest-compression eights—plus: streamlined, simplified design that "stays in tune."

Automatic drive? Packard—and only Packard—offers Ultramatic Drive . . . with a combination of smoothness and efficiency no other drive can match!

Restful riding comfort? Packard, for 1951, has even improved on its own famed "Limousine Ride," to give you a whole new concept of firm roadability and gentle, silent smoothness.

Precision-built quality? Here again, Packard stands above the field—with motordom's finest durability record to prove its right to that position. Fact: Of all the Packards built, in the last 52 years, over 50% are still in service!

All of which goes to show that the 1951 Packard is not only the newest of all the new cars—but that it's designed and built to stay that way for many a prideful year ahead!

Won't you stop in, please, and see for yourself how it feels to drive the newest new car in the world? There's no better time than right now!

America's top design-judging group—the Society of Motion Picture Art Directors — has selected the new 1951 Packard as "the car which embodies the most advanced concepts of automobile styling."

It's more than a car--it's a

Newburgh Housing Contract Signed

New York, March 12—State Housing Commissioner Herman T. Stichman has signed in behalf of the State of New York the loan and subsidy contract for a slum clearance and low-rent housing program in Newburgh, for which the state will lend $2,773,000 to the Newburgh Housing Authority, of which Harold N. Cohen is chairman. The state will also pay $97,055 annually in cash subsidies to help keep rents below $9 per room monthly.

The signing of the contract came only two weeks after the commissioner's approval of the application by the Newburgh Housing Authority for the project and barely a month after Governor Dewey signed the bill which authorized the establishment of the Authority in Newburgh.

The Newburgh housing project will provide homes for 200 low-income families and clear some of the most substandard areas in that city. It will be built in two sections in different parts of Newburgh. One section of 80 apartments will be located not far from the city's center on a 1¼-acre site, bounded by Barclay, South, Water and Smith streets. The second section of 120 apartments in a two-story garden-type development is to be built in the southwest section of Newburgh on a 6-acre site bounded by South William street, Dickson street, the State Armory grounds and Walsh's road. Additional slum clearance is to be a vital part of this program. Several other substandard areas in the center of the city have been tentatively selected for clearance. One of these, in a congested section of the business district, may be developed for urgently needed parking purposes.

The 80-apartment section, probably a six-story building, which will be built first, will require demolition of some 20 substandard structures now on the site. It is expected that an architect for this part of the project will be chosen within the next month and that four or five months will be needed for the preparation of final architectural plans and other necessary documents.

"If federal controls permit, it should be possible for construction work on the first section of Newburgh's housing project to get under way by the fall of this year," Commissioner Stichman said.

Commissioner Stichman highly commended the members of the local Authority, local officials, and other citizens for their excellent work which made possible the speedy development of Newburgh's community development, slum clearance and public housing program.

Esopus Post to Meet

The regular meeting of Town of Esopus Post, 1298, American Legion, will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the Post Home, Imogene street. Commander Clifford Davis, Jr., requests a large attendance as matters of vital importance will be voted upon.

It is sometimes a disadvantage to be known as a very sound bidder. When East bid six hearts in the hand shown today, it was obvious to everybody that the table that he must have exceedingly good reasons for doing so. Hence North went to six spades instead of doubling, even though he held the ace of trumps, a side ace, and two side kings.

West opened the king of hearts, and dummy won with the ace. South then considered the nature of East's hand. A jump to six hearts would have been sound only on a very freakish two-suiter in hearts and clubs. It was a cinch that East was void in spades and it was possible that he was also void in diamonds.

Armed with this information, South did not make the mistake of drawing trumps prematurely. At the second trick he led the king of diamonds from the dummy. West properly refused the first round of diamonds but won the diamond continuation with the jack. After some thought, West returned a heart, and South ruffed with the deuce of spades.

South continued ruffing out the ace of diamonds with dummy's seven of spades, and returned to his hand by ruffing a club with the three of spades. Now South was in a position to lead his established diamonds through West. Whenever West ruffed, dummy could over-ruff with the eight, cash the ace of spades, and allow South to draw the rest of the trumps with the king and queen. Thereupon South would be in position to run the rest of the diamonds.

It is interesting to note that South must deliberately bring both the dummy and his own hand down to only three trumps even though his eventual plan is to draw all four trumps held by West. It would be a mistake for South to reach his hand with a trump after ruffing out the ace of diamonds with dummy's eight of spades.

If South then led diamonds, West would discard his two clubs before ruffing a diamond. Dummy could over-ruff, but South would be unable to re-enter his hand without setting up a sure trump trick for West.

Red Cross Aided 32,000 in November

New York, March 12 (AP)—Thirty-two thousand persons were aided by the Red Cross when floods, gales or heavy snow swept 12 states last November.

In addition, 3,256 families were helped in repairing homes or business necessary to family income.

The disaster operation cost the Red Cross $455,000.

The figures were given last night in a Red Cross statement announcing that the special field headquarters established here for the storm emergency would close today.

States served by the Red Cross were New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Maine, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, West Virginia, Delaware and Kentucky.

Air Reservists Plan Meeting Tuesday Night

The 9267th Volunteer Air Reserve Squadron will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the American Legion Building, West O'Reilly street.

Major Theodore Lee, commanding officer will review the latest developments in air reserve affairs. A directive received last week from the First Air Force Headquarters indicated that men with one or more dependents may resign from the reserve. Further details on this matter will be issued during Tuesday's meeting.

The guest speaker will be Captain Harry T. Gumaer, principal of the M.J.M. School and a member of the Signal Corps Reserve. His topic will be "Yugoslavia, Satellite or Independent Nation."

All air force reservists are requested to attend the meeting.

Passengers Are Removed

Honolulu, March 12 (AP)—Thirty-eight passengers, including one baby, were taken off the stricken American freighter Andrea F. Luckenbach early today. The 8,000-ton ship ran aground three miles off the Hawaiian island of Kauai last night. It was reported in a sinking condition. Names of the passengers were not announced. Still aboard were 35 to 40 crew members.

Nurse Group Plans Benefit Card Party For Dental Funds

Woodstock, March 12—This is the time of the year which seems to be crowded with the various appeals for funds to support the worthy national agencies which are endeavoring to bear the burden of alleviating human suffering. Although only local in scope, but of equal importance to residents of this township, is the work done by the Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee in maintaining its children's dental clinic.

The committee is again asking for the assistance of the village in supporting the card party which will be held at the Town Hall Thursday, March 15, at 8 p. m.

Since the clinic first opened in March, 1948, literally hundreds of kindergarten, first and second grade school children have been examined and treated. By October, 1948, the clinic was described as one of "the most effective projects in the township."

Mrs. Elsie Wilson, dental hygienist, of the Ulster County Department of Health, was the first to bring to Woodstock the small portable dentist's chair and the youthful equipment which turned daily dental care into a game rather than a chore. As a result the children have trooped without fear to the clinics and have taken remarkable interest in learning about caring for their teeth.

Local People Help

In order to assist the committee in maintaining the program in the past few years, various prominent Woodstockers have contributed their time and talents to raise money for the project. On November 7, 1948, Inez Richards, Dr. Hans Cohn and Frank Mele presented a special concert at the Town Hall. The substantial sum of $350 was raised to aid the committee in sponsoring the corrective dental clinic which was then and still is carried on by Dr. Edward Gurland and Dr. Virginia Alekian. Last August, Mrs. Ruth Krug Weitzner gave a special piano concert at her home from which was derived $127 for the fund. Many of Woodstock's organizations have been more than generous in donating money to insure the continuation of the project.

From about 32 children examined in March, 1948, the number has swelled to 126, reported as examined in her yearly statement in February 1951, by Mrs. Mary Chatfield, the present dental hygienist of the Ulster County Health Association.

No step is taken in the development of the program, however, without the able guidance of Miss Anne Cassidy, public health nurse, who personally supervises the work and efforts of the committee members.

On Oct. 23, 1950, the next major stride in the operation of the clinic was taken when Mrs. Chatfield held examinations for preschool children over two years of age. The dental care, arranged by the Ulster County Department of Health, for the tots included not only cleaning and examination, but fluorine application, which scientific studies have shown, retards dental decay.

Mrs. Charles King, chairman of arrangements for Thursday's card party reports that plans for the event are progressing. Those making up tables have been requested to bring their own cards to the party.

The Woodstock public health nursing committee from the funds raised, will pay the cost of dental care for all of those children unable to go to a private dentist.

Village Notes

Woodstock, March 12 — Mr. and Mrs. James Rorty are in Woodstock visiting Mr. Rorty's sister, Mrs. Eva Beard. Mr. and Mrs. Rorty have returned from a trip to Honduras, Central America.

George M. Hard, chairman of the Red Cross drive in Woodstock, has reported that the first contribution to be received for the fund was from Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Paige of Bearsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bell are leaving for Jacksonville, Fla., for two weeks next Saturday.

Danny Perlman and his brother Preston, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Perlman, won first and second places in the boys class, for children 12 years of age and younger, ski contest Sunday at Bellayre. Danny was awarded a pair of skis. Ted and Lynn Wright and Peter Cohn, all of this village, were members of the ski party.

Mrs. Leo Herbert will attend the opening of "Green Pastures" the famous Marc Connelly play, Thursday on Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. William Goudeket spent the week-end at their new home on Plochman Lane.

Willis Wilbert and Emile Howland will open a new restaurant in what will be known as the Woodstock Stores Building owned by Fred Sterm, on the corner of Tinker street and Tannery Brook road. The restaurant will open in the near future.

Newburgh Housing Contract Signed

New York, March 12—State Housing Commissioner Herman T. Stichman has signed in behalf of the State of New York the loan and subsidy contract for a slum clearance and low-rent housing program in Newburgh, for which the state will lend $2,773,000 to the Newburgh Housing Authority, of which Harold N. Cohen is chairman. The state will also pay $97,055 annually in cash subsidies to help keep rents below $9 per room monthly.

The signing of the contract came only two weeks after the commissioner's approval of the application by the Newburgh Housing Authority for the project and barely a month after Governor Dewey signed the bill which authorized the establishment of the Authority in Newburgh.

The Newburgh housing project will provide homes for 200 low-income families and clear some of the most substandard areas in that city. It will be built in two sections in different parts of Newburgh. One section of 80 apartments will be located not far from the city's center on a 1¼-acre site, bounded by Barclay, South, Water and Smith streets. The second section of 120 apartments in a two-story garden-type development is to be built in the southwest section of Newburgh on a 6-acre site bounded by South William street, Dickson street, the State Armory grounds and Walsh's road. Additional slum clearance is to be a vital part of this program. Several other substandard areas in the center of the city have been tentatively selected for clearance. One of these, in a congested section of the business district, may be developed for urgently needed parking purposes.

The 80-apartment section, probably a six-story building, which will be built first, will require demolition of some 20 substandard structures now on the site. It is expected that an architect for this part of the project will be chosen within the next month and that four or five months will be needed for the preparation of final architectural plans and other necessary documents.

"If federal controls permit, it should be possible for construction work on the first section of Newburgh's housing project to get under way by the fall of this year," Commissioner Stichman said.

Commissioner Stichman highly commended the members of the local Authority, local officials, and other citizens for their excellent work which made possible the speedy development of Newburgh's community development, slum clearance and public housing program.

Esopus Post to Meet

The regular meeting of Town of Esopus Post, 1298, American Legion, will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m., at the Post Home, Imogene street. Commander Clifford Davis, Jr., requests a large attendance as matters of vital importance will be voted upon.

It is sometimes a disadvantage to be known as a very sound bidder. When East bid six hearts in the hand shown today, it was obvious to everybody that the table that he must have exceedingly good reasons for doing so. Hence North went to six spades instead of doubling, even though he held the ace of trumps, a side ace, and two side kings.

West opened the king of hearts, and dummy won with the ace. South then considered the nature of East's hand. A jump to six hearts would have been sound only on a very freakish two-suiter in hearts and clubs. It was a cinch that East was void in spades and it was possible that he was also void in diamonds.

Armed with this information, South did not make the mistake of drawing trumps prematurely. At the second trick he led the king of diamonds from the dummy. West properly refused the first round of diamonds but won the diamond continuation with the jack. After some thought, West returned a heart, and South ruffed with the deuce of spades.

South continued ruffing out the ace of diamonds with dummy's seven of spades, and returned to his hand by ruffing a club with the three of spades. Now South was in a position to lead his established diamonds through West. Whenever West ruffed, dummy could over-ruff with the eight, cash the ace of spades, and allow South to draw the rest of the trumps with the king and queen. Thereupon South would be in position to run the rest of the diamonds.

It is interesting to note that South must deliberately bring both the dummy and his own hand down to only three trumps even though his eventual plan is to draw all four trumps held by West. It would be a mistake for South to reach his hand with a trump after ruffing out the ace of diamonds with dummy's eight of spades.

If South then led diamonds, West would discard his two clubs before ruffing a diamond. Dummy could over-ruff, but South would be unable to re-enter his hand without setting up a sure trump trick for West.

Red Cross Aided 32,000 in November

New York, March 12 (AP)—Thirty-two thousand persons were aided by the Red Cross when floods, gales or heavy snow swept 12 states last November.

In addition, 3,256 families were helped in repairing homes or business necessary to family income.

The disaster operation cost the Red Cross $455,000.

The figures were given last night in a Red Cross statement announcing that the special field headquarters established here for the storm emergency would close today.

States served by the Red Cross were New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Maine, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, West Virginia, Delaware and Kentucky.

Air Reservists Plan Meeting Tuesday Night

The 9267th Volunteer Air Reserve Squadron will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the American Legion Building, West O'Reilly street.

Major Theodore Lee, commanding officer will review the latest developments in air reserve affairs. A directive received last week from the First Air Force Headquarters indicated that men with one or more dependents may resign from the reserve. Further details on this matter will be issued during Tuesday's meeting.

The guest speaker will be Captain Harry T. Gumaer, principal of the M.J.M. School and a member of the Signal Corps Reserve. His topic will be "Yugoslavia, Satellite or Independent Nation."

All air force reservists are requested to attend the meeting.

Passengers Are Removed

Honolulu, March 12 (AP)—Thirty-eight passengers, including one baby, were taken off the stricken American freighter Andrea F. Luckenbach early today. The 8,000-ton ship ran aground three miles off the Hawaiian island of Kauai last night. It was reported in a sinking condition. Names of the passengers were not announced. Still aboard were 35 to 40 crew members.

Nurse Group Plans Benefit Card Party For Dental Funds

Woodstock, March 12—This is the time of the year which seems to be crowded with the various appeals for funds to support the worthy national agencies which are endeavoring to bear the burden of alleviating human suffering. Although only local in scope, but of equal importance to residents of this township, is the work done by the Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee in maintaining its children's dental clinic.

The committee is again asking for the assistance of the village in supporting the card party which will be held at the Town Hall Thursday, March 15, at 8 p. m.

Since the clinic first opened in March, 1948, literally hundreds of kindergarten, first and second grade school children have been examined and treated. By October, 1948, the clinic was described as one of "the most effective projects in the township."

Mrs. Elsie Wilson, dental hygienist, of the Ulster County Department of Health, was the first to bring to Woodstock the small portable dentist's chair and the youthful equipment which turned daily dental care into a game rather than a chore. As a result the children have trooped without fear to the clinics and have taken remarkable interest in learning about caring for their teeth.

Local People Help

In order to assist the committee in maintaining the program in the past few years, various prominent Woodstockers have contributed their time and talents to raise money for the project. On November 7, 1948, Inez Richards, Dr. Hans Cohn and Frank Mele presented a special concert at the Town Hall. The substantial sum of $350 was raised to aid the committee in sponsoring the corrective dental clinic which was then and still is carried on by Dr. Edward Gurland and Dr. Virginia Alekian. Last August, Mrs. Ruth Krug Weitzner gave a special piano concert at her home from which was derived $127 for the fund. Many of Woodstock's organizations have been more than generous in donating money to insure the continuation of the project.

From about 32 children examined in March, 1948, the number has swelled to 126, reported as examined in her yearly statement in February 1951, by Mrs. Mary Chatfield, the present dental hygienist of the Ulster County Health Association.

No step is taken in the development of the program, however, without the able guidance of Miss Anne Cassidy, public health nurse, who personally supervises the work and efforts of the committee members.

On Oct. 23, 1950, the next major stride in the operation of the clinic was taken when Mrs. Chatfield held examinations for preschool children over two years of age. The dental care, arranged by the Ulster County Department of Health, for the tots included not only cleaning and examination, but fluorine application, which scientific studies have shown, retards dental decay.

Mrs. Charles King, chairman of arrangements for Thursday's card party reports that plans for the event are progressing. Those making up tables have been requested to bring their own cards to the party.

The Woodstock public health nursing committee from the funds raised, will pay the cost of dental care for all of those children unable to go to a private dentist.

Village Notes

Woodstock, March 12 — Mr. and Mrs. James Rorty are in Woodstock visiting Mr. Rorty's sister, Mrs. Eva Beard. Mr. and Mrs. Rorty have returned from a trip to Honduras, Central America.

George M. Hard, chairman of the Red Cross drive in Woodstock, has reported that the first contribution to be received for the fund was from Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Paige of Bearsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bell are leaving for Jacksonville, Fla., for two weeks next Saturday.

Danny Perlman and his brother Preston, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Perlman, won first and second places in the boys class, for children 12 years of age and younger, ski contest Sunday at Bellayre. Danny was awarded a pair of skis. Ted and Lynn Wright and Peter Cohn, all of this village, were members of the ski party.

Mrs. Leo Herbert will attend the opening of "Green Pastures" the famous Marc Connelly play, Thursday on Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. William Goudeket spent the week-end at their new home on Plochman Lane.

Willis Wilbert and Emile Howland will open a new restaurant in what will be known as the Woodstock Stores Building owned by Fred Sterm, on the corner of Tinker street and Tannery Brook road. The restaurant will open in the near future.

Newburgh Housing Contract Signed

New York, March 12—State Housing Commissioner Herman T. Stichman has signed in behalf of the State of New York the loan and subsidy contract for a slum clearance and low-rent housing program in Newburgh, for which the state will lend $2,773,000 to the Newburgh Housing Authority, of which Harold N. Cohen is chairman. The state will also pay $97,055 annually in cash subsidies to help keep rents below $9 per room monthly.

The signing of the contract came only two weeks after the commissioner's approval of the application by the Newburgh Housing Authority for the project and barely a month after Governor Dewey signed the bill which authorized the establishment of the Authority in Newburgh.

The Newburgh housing project will provide homes for 200 low-income families and clear some of the most substandard areas in that city. It will be built in two sections in different parts of Newburgh. One section of 80 apartments will be located not far from the city's center on a 1¼-acre site, bounded by Barclay, South, Water and Smith streets. The second section of 120 apartments in a two-story garden-type development is to be built in the southwest section of Newburgh on a 6-acre site bounded by South William street, Dickson street, the State Armory grounds and Walsh's road. Additional slum clearance is to be a vital part of this program. Several other substandard areas in the center of the city have been tentatively selected for clearance. One of these, in a congested section of the business district, may be developed for urgently needed parking purposes.

The 80-apartment section, probably a six-story building, which will be built first, will require demolition of some 20 substandard structures now on the site. It is expected that an architect for this part of the project will be chosen within the next month and that four or five months will be needed for the preparation of final architectural plans and other necessary documents.

"If federal controls permit, it should be possible for construction work on the first section of Newburgh's housing project to get under way by the fall of this year," Commissioner Stichman said.

Commissioner Stichman highly commended the members of the local Authority, local officials, and other citizens for their excellent work which made possible the speedy development of Newburgh's community development, slum clearance and public housing program.

It is sometimes a disadvantage to be known as a very sound bidder. When East bid six hearts in the hand shown today, it was obvious to everybody that the table that he must have exceedingly good reasons for doing so. Hence North went to six spades instead of doubling, even though he held the ace of trumps, a side ace, and two side kings.

West opened the king of hearts, and dummy won with the ace. South then considered the nature of East's hand. A jump to six hearts would have been sound only on a very freakish two-suiter in hearts and clubs. It was a cinch that East was void in spades and it was possible that he was also void in diamonds.

Armed with this information, South did not make the mistake of drawing trumps prematurely. At the second trick he led the king of diamonds from the dummy. West properly refused the first round of diamonds but won the diamond continuation with the jack. After some thought, West returned a heart, and South ruffed with the deuce of spades.

South continued ruffing out the ace of diamonds with dummy's seven of spades, and returned to his hand by ruffing a club with the three of spades. Now South was in a position to lead his established diamonds through West. Whenever West ruffed, dummy could over-ruff with the eight, cash the ace of spades, and allow South to draw the rest of the trumps with the king and queen. Thereupon South would be in position to run the rest of the diamonds.

It is interesting to note that South must deliberately bring both the dummy and his own hand down to only three trumps even though his eventual plan is to draw all four trumps held by West. It would be a mistake for South to reach his hand with a trump after ruffing out the ace of diamonds with dummy's eight of spades.

If South then led diamonds, West would discard his two clubs before ruffing a diamond. Dummy could over-ruff, but South would be unable to re-enter his hand without setting up a sure trump trick for West.

Air Reservists Plan Meeting Tuesday Night

The 9267th Volunteer Air Reserve Squadron will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the American Legion Building, West O'Reilly street.

Major Theodore Lee, commanding officer will review the latest developments in air reserve affairs. A directive received last week from the First Air Force Headquarters indicated that men with one or more dependents may resign from the reserve. Further details on this matter will be issued during Tuesday's meeting.

The guest speaker will be Captain Harry T. Gumaer, principal of the M.J.M. School and a member of the Signal Corps Reserve. His topic will be "Yugoslavia, Satellite or Independent Nation."

All air force reservists are requested to attend the meeting.

Passengers Are Removed

Honolulu, March 12 (AP)—Thirty-eight passengers, including one baby, were taken off the stricken American freighter Andrea F. Luckenbach early today. The 8,000-ton ship ran aground three miles off the Hawaiian island of Kauai last night. It was reported in a sinking condition. Names of the passengers were not announced. Still aboard were 35 to 40 crew members.

Red Cross Aided 32,000 in November

New York, March 12 (AP)—Thirty-two thousand persons were aided by the Red Cross when floods, gales or heavy snow swept 12 states last November.

In addition, 3,256 families were helped in repairing homes or business necessary to family income.

The disaster operation cost the Red Cross $455,000.

The figures were given last night in a Red Cross statement announcing that the special field headquarters established here for the storm emergency would close today.

States served by the Red Cross were New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Maine, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, West Virginia, Delaware and Kentucky.

Nurse Group Plans Benefit Card Party For Dental Funds

Woodstock, March 12—This is the time of the year which seems to be crowded with the various appeals for funds to support the worthy national agencies which are endeavoring to bear the burden of alleviating human suffering. Although only local in scope, but of equal importance to residents of this township, is the work done by the Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee in maintaining its children's dental clinic.

The committee is again asking for the assistance of the village in supporting the card party which will be held at the Town Hall Thursday, March 15, at 8 p. m.

Since the clinic first opened in March, 1948, literally hundreds of kindergarten, first and second grade school children have been examined and treated. By October, 1948, the clinic was described as one of "the most effective projects in the township."

Mrs. Elsie Wilson, dental hygienist, of the Ulster County Department of Health, was the first to bring to Woodstock the small portable dentist's chair and the youthful equipment which turned daily dental care into a game rather than a chore. As a result the children have trooped without fear to the clinics and have taken remarkable interest in learning about caring for their teeth.

Local People Help

In order to assist the committee in maintaining the program in the past few years, various prominent Woodstockers have contributed their time and talents to raise money for the project. On November 7, 1948, Inez Richards, Dr. Hans Cohn and Frank Mele presented a special concert at the Town Hall. The substantial sum of $350 was raised to aid the committee in sponsoring the corrective dental clinic which was then and still is carried on by Dr. Edward Gurland and Dr. Virginia Alekian. Last August, Mrs. Ruth Krug Weitzner gave a special piano concert at her home from which was derived $127 for the fund. Many of Woodstock's organizations have been more than generous in donating money to insure the continuation of the project.

From about 32 children examined in March, 1948, the number has swelled to 126, reported as examined in her yearly statement in February 1951, by Mrs. Mary Chatfield, the present dental hygienist of the Ulster County Health Association.

No step is taken in the development of the program, however, without the able guidance of Miss Anne Cassidy, public health nurse, who personally supervises the work and efforts of the committee members.

On Oct. 23, 1950, the next major stride in the operation of the clinic was taken when Mrs. Chatfield held examinations for preschool children over two years of age. The dental care, arranged by the Ulster County Department of Health, for the tots included not only cleaning and examination, but fluorine application, which scientific studies have shown, retards dental decay.

Mrs. Charles King, chairman of arrangements for Thursday's card party reports that plans for the event are progressing. Those making up tables have been requested to bring their own cards to the party.

The Woodstock public health nursing committee from the funds raised, will pay the cost of dental care for all of those children unable to go to a private dentist.

Village Notes

Woodstock, March 12 — Mr. and Mrs. James Rorty are in Woodstock visiting Mr. Rorty's sister, Mrs. Eva Beard. Mr. and Mrs. Rorty have returned from a trip to Honduras, Central America.

George M. Hard, chairman of the Red Cross drive in Woodstock, has reported that the first contribution to be received for the fund was from Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Paige of Bearsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bell are leaving for Jacksonville, Fla., for two weeks next Saturday.

Danny Perlman and his brother Preston, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Perlman, won first and second places in the boys class, for children 12 years of age and younger, ski contest Sunday at Bellayre. Danny was awarded a pair of skis. Ted and Lynn Wright and Peter Cohn, all of this village, were members of the ski party.

Mrs. Leo Herbert will attend the opening of "Green Pastures" the famous Marc Connelly play, Thursday on Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. William Goudeket spent the week-end at their new home on Plochman Lane.

Willis Wilbert and Emile Howland will open a new restaurant in what will be known as the Woodstock Stores Building owned by Fred Sterm, on the corner of Tinker street and Tannery Brook road. The restaurant will open in the near future.

Could Feed Population

New York, March 12 (AP)—New York city could continue feeding its almost 8,000,000 population for six weeks in the event of disaster, city Civil Defense Director Arthur W. Wallander says. "At any one time," he says, "there is enough food in New York to feed the city for six weeks, and we have made comprehensive plans for the emergency feeding of people in devastated areas without relying on army rations." Wallander said yesterday that an emergency plan had been formulated for feeding people in areas struck by a disaster. The food, he said, would be "drawn from retail and wholesale outlets, and the Welfare Department would utilize the full facilities of existing stores, restaurants, schools and churches."

Rug Prices to Increase

Washington, March 12 (AP)—A 15 per cent increase in the manufacturers' and wholesalers' price of wool carpets and rugs was approved by the government today. Retailers will be permitted to pass along to their customers the exact dollars and cents increases reflected in the cost to them of the carpets and rugs they offer for sale. The order by Price Director Michael V. DiSalle was issued because of increased costs of wool. The cost of the wool is about half the price of the manufacturers' finished produce, DiSalle's aides said.

Conditions Are Critical

New York, March 12 (AP)—A landscape gardener and his estranged wife were both in a critical condition today after a reconciliation attempt yesterday ended in a stabbing. Police said the husband, Charles Nemeth, 49, stabbed his wife several times with a 10-inch kitchen knife, then plunged from her father's third-floor Manhattan apartment after stabbing himself in the abdomen. Nemeth had been estranged from his wife, Claire, 36, since last Christmas. They have a home at (30 McKenna avenue) Baldwin, N. Y.

Bard Students Visit State Capitol

Dewey and Wicks Receive Students From Bard College

Nine foreign scholarship students of Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, were in Albany last week to watch the Legislature in action, meet with Governor Dewey and visit points of interest connected with the state government.

The students are participants in a program for foreign students sponsored in part by the U. S. State Department and administered by the Institute of International Education in New York. They were under the leadership of Prof. William Frauenfelder, faculty adviser to foreign students at Bard College.

Two of the students—Herbert Speckner, 19, and Gunther Remmling, 21—recently hitch-hiked 5,500 miles through more than a dozen states in an effort to gain a better understanding of the country. Another—Paul Kolda—managed to cross the border of Czechoslovakia last fall and is now residing with his father, who is a United Nations film production official in New York. The other students are from Holland, France, Israel, Norway, Switzerland, and Colombia, South America.

During their visit to Albany, the students first met with Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, a trustee of Bard college. After watching a Senate committee meeting and witnessing the Senate session, they were taken on a tour of inspection of the capitol and the Education Building and then were received by Governor Dewey.

Railroads Granted

tendency to discourage short-haul passenger traffic.

In a memorandum, Eddy said a decline in short-haul business inevitably leads to curtailment in service or abandonment of branch lines with detrimental results to the economy of communities affected.

The PSC said the New York Central Railroad would receive the greatest amount of additional revenue—about $2,200,000 a year.

Other Lines Affected

Other railroads affected and the estimated additional revenue for each:

Delaware and Hudson, $90,000; Erie, $33,000; Lackawanna, $25,000; Lehigh Valley, $14,000; Baltimore and Ohio, $6,000; Pennsylvania, $2,500; Boston and Maine, $2,000; Rutland, $500, and the Nickel Plate, less than $200.

In 1949, twelve railroads sought higher intrastate fares. However the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and the New York Ontario and Western withdrew during a rehearing of the petition last year.

Fares of the Long Island Rail Road were not involved. The commuter line is seeking a basic fare boost in another proceeding.

Midwest Weather Is Still Like Winter

(By The Associated Press)

The weather over most of the midwest today was more like the midwinter variety than the approach of spring.

As much as 22 inches of snow lay on the ground in northwestern Iowa with an average depth of from six to eight inches in the state. The snowfall was general and heavy in spots over all the northern midwest and was continuing early today in Minnesota, Iowa, western sections of South Dakota and Nebraska and northwestern Illinois.

In Missouri and southern Illinois, on the southern edge of the storm, sleet and freezing rain snapped power and communications lines.

Temperatures generally were below normal over all the nation except in California and along the eastern Gulf of Mexico. Williston, N. D., with 13 below zero, was the coldest spot reported.

Jersey Man Hurt As Trucks Collide

Two trailer trucks collided on Route 9W about 100 feet south of the Rondout Creek bridge at 3:30 a. m. today.

The operator of one of the vehicles, Bosilaw Zuskowski, 28, of Passaic, N. J., was treated at Kingston Hospital for head injuries following the accident, state police reported.

The truck Zuskowski was driving, owned by Liberty Fast Freight, Glenmont, was considerably damanged to its left front end and had to be towed from the scene.

The other vehicle, owned by Maislin Brothers of Greenwich street, New York, and operated by Edward Germain of Albany, received damage to the left rear of its trailer, troopers reported.

Zuskowski told troopers that he was driving north on Route 9W when his vehicle collided with the other, which Zuskowski alleged was traveling south and passing two other vehicles at the time, state police reported.

Is Sole Importer

Washington, March 10 (AP)—The government today made itself the sole importer and seller of tin to end what a Senate committee has called price "gouging" by foreign sellers. The National Production Authorities also ordered all American users of pig tin under allocation control as of May 1, but made a temporary increase in tin usage possible starting next month to provide for the packing of perishable crops.

Knowland Disputes Connally Statement

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) disputed today a contention by Senator Connally (D-Tex.) that congressional squabbling is postponing U. S. reinforcements for the western Europe defense army.

Connally told a week-end news conference that some lawmakers are trying to "hamstring and delay the sending of troops to Europe."

Knowland told a reporter, however, he is "unimpressed" by the argument that congressional action on the issue will hold up troop movements.

New York May Ask Tax on Pay Rolls

Albany, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—New York city may seek legislative approval to levy a one per cent, employer-paid pay roll tax, informed sources say.

They indicated last night that Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's administration might seek the pay roll tax instead of permission to raise the city's sales tax from two to three per cent.

A one per cent pay roll tax would produce about $95,000,000 a year for New York city, fiscal sources estimated. The sales tax increase would bring in about $65,000,000 a year.

The city board of estimate was reported ready to discuss the pay roll tax today.

Scheduled to Adjourn

The Republican-controlled legislature is scheduled to adjourn Friday. A Democratic bill to authorize the sales tax boost already has been approved by the Senate Finance Committee. G.O.P. chiefs have predicted it will get legislative approval.

Impellitteri was in Albany over the weekend for the legislative correspondents' annual dinner and show. He reportedly discussed the pay roll tax with the Democratic minority leaders, Senator Elmer F. Quinn and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut.

Democratic Leaders Agree

Steingut and Quinn sponsored the sales tax proposal, but it was reported last night that they agreed to press for the pay roll tax.

Some observers see the pay roll tax as a Democratic maneuver to counteract opposition to the proposed sales tax increase.

They also see it as a possible device to get permission for the increased sales tax without a time limit. There has been talk that G.O.P. legislators might amend the proposal to set a termination date for the three per cent taxing power—possibly two years hence. The Quinn-Steingut bill would make the power permanent.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Received another interesting letter from Mrs. Irene K. Blass, of P. O. Box 292, Kingston, N. Y. She writes in part: "My father, the late John W. Herdman, was conductor on the Catskill Mountain Division and spent some 52 years of railroading. He was retired from the New York Central Railroad about 1937. I can recall his tales of running up the Kaaterskill Branch when it was Narrow Gauge and also when the old horse cars were still running in Kingston. On looking through some of his papers I found he had copied item when Engine 999 broke the 80 m.p.h. speed record in 1893. I am enclosing copy of it, perhaps some old veteran railroaders may enjoy it."

"Old 999 did better than 100 miles an hour in 1893! On a bright spring afternoon in 1893, Charley Hogan, crack engineer of the New York Central Empire State Express, took off the bridle of Engine 999 to see what she could do, and 999 hung up a world speed record that lasted 41 years, until the advent of the streamline Diesel trains. After the Central's new pet had been babied through preliminary tests at 80 miles an hour, President Webb called in three veteran enginemen. He asked each one if he felt he could make a record-breaking run. Two hesitated. The third, Charley Hogan, an old timer who had bucked everything from snow to Indiana replied instantly, "I can do it." He was assigned the job. The test was to take place on the Division between Syracuse and Buffalo.

"The train carried four coaches with many celebrities on board, and three men with stop watches to check each other on time records. Hogan rolled along at a casual 80 miles an hour, slowing down for curves until he passed Rochester and reached Batavia. Here began 36 miles of straight-away track. A few miles ran slightly upgrade. Then there was a stretch of 14 miles on dead level. Charley opened the throttle a bit and 999 leaped ahead 90 miles an hour for one mile, another mile at 95, another at 97 and then 112½ miles an hour. Thus he broke the record of 80 miles an hour

"Charley Hogan and 999 was to go to the World's Fair that year at Chicago so all could see the famous locomotive and the more famous engineer who made the record-breaking run. The locomotive was there but without its famous engineer. You see, Charley Hogan had got the forward signal and gone into the clear, passing away just before his 90th birthday."

Received the "Kingston Daily Express" dated Wednesday, October 29th, 1911, which was published right on my own block, where Netburns have their plumbing supply company now. This 40-year-old paper was sent to me by the Warren Smiths, who are truly interested in local history, for just recently an offer was made to them to sell their old stone house, where their home and business is on the corner of John and Crown streets. It is called the old Jensen House. It seems, there was also such an offer made to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Belefas, who have another handsome old stone house on the other corner, but both families refused these offers. They do not wish these historical stone houses to be torn down for gas stations. Their refusal to sell was brought to the attention of Dr. Albert Corey, state historian, who calls such old stone houses, "historic documents." He says that they certainly should be preserved, and from time to time open to the public. He said the Smiths and Belefas families should be highly commended and that the entire community should be grateful to them.

"This year giant corporate interests are trying to extend this merit-rating formula even further so that they will bear virtually none of the cost of unemployment insurance.

"Big business is out to get for itself a $600,000,000 kick-back from the unemployment insurance fund—money that rightfully belongs to the working men and women of the state."

Asked why he had chosen Costello instead of big time gambler Frank Erickson to rout bookmakers from the track, Levy said:

"Erickson would have about as much influence as you."

Erickson, once head of a $12,500,000-a-year bookie empire, is now serving a two-year prison term for gambling.

Two days after Costello went to work for him, Levy said, complaints of bookmaking at the track ceased. Levy said he didn't know how Costello did the job.

Says Nation Is Ready

Belgrade, March 12 (AP)—Premier Marshal Tito told 1,000 war veterans yesterday this country is ready to again "saturate" its soil with blood to repel Russian-inspired aggression. "Every foot of our land is saturated with blood, but—if it is necessary—we will saturate it again with blood and it will remain ours," he told the veterans' rally.

White Nominated By Young G.O.P.

F. Clifton White, of Ithaca, incumbent president of the Association of New York Young Republican Clubs, has been nominated for another term.

The board of governors of the association, at its quarterly meeting here Saturday, also nominated:

Vice president, Wilma Sivertsen, Mannattan; chairman of the board of governors, William Rusher, Manhattan; secretary, Joseph Jaspan, Brooklyn; treasurer, William B. Groat, Jr., Queens; national representative, Carl Spad; and eastern states representative, Stephen Quade, Lake George.

Saratoga Springs was suggested as a site for the May convention, but no decision was made.

Beers Fined $25

Charles Beers, 39, of R.D. 1, Woodstock was fined $25 by Justice of the Peace George Braendly of Zena Saturday afternoon on a charge that he maintained unmarked traps. Beers was arrested by Henry Bernstein, district game protector. The Conservation Department's records show Beers since January 1 had been fined $27.50 by Justice Joseph Fitzsimmons on a charge of possessing 11 muskrat skins allegedly obtained during the closed season, and $12.50 by Justice Percy Bush on a charge that he failed to visit his traps within a 24-hour period.

Bard Students Visit State Capitol

Nine foreign scholarship students of Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, were in Albany last week to watch the Legislature in action, meet with Governor Dewey and visit points of interest connected with the state government.

The students are participants in a program for foreign students sponsored in part by the U. S. State Department and administered by the Institute of International Education in New York. They were under the leadership of Prof. William Frauenfelder, faculty adviser to foreign students at Bard College.

Two of the students—Herbert Speckner, 19, and Gunther Remmling, 21—recently hitch-hiked 5,500 miles through more than a dozen states in an effort to gain a better understanding of the country. Another—Paul Kolda—managed to cross the border of Czechoslovakia last fall and is now residing with his father, who is a United Nations film production official in New York. The other students are from Holland, France, Israel, Norway, Switzerland, and Colombia, South America.

During their visit to Albany, the students first met with Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, a trustee of Bard college. After watching a Senate committee meeting and witnessing the Senate session, they were taken on a tour of inspection of the capitol and the Education Building and then were received by Governor Dewey.

Railroads Granted

tendency to discourage short-haul passenger traffic.

In a memorandum, Eddy said a decline in short-haul business inevitably leads to curtailment in service or abandonment of branch lines with detrimental results to the economy of communities affected.

The PSC said the New York Central Railroad would receive the greatest amount of additional revenue—about $2,200,000 a year.

Other Lines Affected

Other railroads affected and the estimated additional revenue for each:

Delaware and Hudson, $90,000; Erie, $33,000; Lackawanna, $25,000; Lehigh Valley, $14,000; Baltimore and Ohio, $6,000; Pennsylvania, $2,500; Boston and Maine, $2,000; Rutland, $500, and the Nickel Plate, less than $200.

In 1949, twelve railroads sought higher intrastate fares. However the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and the New York Ontario and Western withdrew during a rehearing of the petition last year.

Fares of the Long Island Rail Road were not involved. The commuter line is seeking a basic fare boost in another proceeding.

Midwest Weather Is Still Like Winter

(By The Associated Press)

The weather over most of the midwest today was more like the midwinter variety than the approach of spring.

As much as 22 inches of snow lay on the ground in northwestern Iowa with an average depth of from six to eight inches in the state. The snowfall was general and heavy in spots over all the northern midwest and was continuing early today in Minnesota, Iowa, western sections of South Dakota and Nebraska and northwestern Illinois.

In Missouri and southern Illinois, on the southern edge of the storm, sleet and freezing rain snapped power and communications lines.

Temperatures generally were below normal over all the nation except in California and along the eastern Gulf of Mexico. Williston, N. D., with 13 below zero, was the coldest spot reported.

Jersey Man Hurt As Trucks Collide

Two trailer trucks collided on Route 9W about 100 feet south of the Rondout Creek bridge at 3:30 a. m. today.

The operator of one of the vehicles, Bosilaw Zuskowski, 28, of Passaic, N. J., was treated at Kingston Hospital for head injuries following the accident, state police reported.

The truck Zuskowski was driving, owned by Liberty Fast Freight, Glenmont, was considerably damanged to its left front end and had to be towed from the scene.

The other vehicle, owned by Maislin Brothers of Greenwich street, New York, and operated by Edward Germain of Albany, received damage to the left rear of its trailer, troopers reported.

Zuskowski told troopers that he was driving north on Route 9W when his vehicle collided with the other, which Zuskowski alleged was traveling south and passing two other vehicles at the time, state police reported.

Is Sole Importer

Washington, March 10 (AP)—The government today made itself the sole importer and seller of tin to end what a Senate committee has called price "gouging" by foreign sellers. The National Production Authorities also ordered all American users of pig tin under allocation control as of May 1, but made a temporary increase in tin usage possible starting next month to provide for the packing of perishable crops.

Knowland Disputes Connally Statement

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) disputed today a contention by Senator Connally (D-Tex.) that congressional squabbling is postponing U. S. reinforcements for the western Europe defense army.

Connally told a week-end news conference that some lawmakers are trying to "hamstring and delay the sending of troops to Europe."

Knowland told a reporter, however, he is "unimpressed" by the argument that congressional action on the issue will hold up troop movements.

New York May Ask Tax on Pay Rolls

Albany, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—New York city may seek legislative approval to levy a one per cent, employer-paid pay roll tax, informed sources say.

They indicated last night that Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's administration might seek the pay roll tax instead of permission to raise the city's sales tax from two to three per cent.

A one per cent pay roll tax would produce about $95,000,000 a year for New York city, fiscal sources estimated. The sales tax increase would bring in about $65,000,000 a year.

The city board of estimate was reported ready to discuss the pay roll tax today.

Scheduled to Adjourn

The Republican-controlled legislature is scheduled to adjourn Friday. A Democratic bill to authorize the sales tax boost already has been approved by the Senate Finance Committee. G.O.P. chiefs have predicted it will get legislative approval.

Impellitteri was in Albany over the weekend for the legislative correspondents' annual dinner and show. He reportedly discussed the pay roll tax with the Democratic minority leaders, Senator Elmer F. Quinn and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut.

Democratic Leaders Agree

Steingut and Quinn sponsored the sales tax proposal, but it was reported last night that they agreed to press for the pay roll tax.

Some observers see the pay roll tax as a Democratic maneuver to counteract opposition to the proposed sales tax increase.

They also see it as a possible device to get permission for the increased sales tax without a time limit. There has been talk that G.O.P. legislators might amend the proposal to set a termination date for the three per cent taxing power—possibly two years hence. The Quinn-Steingut bill would make the power permanent.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Received another interesting letter from Mrs. Irene K. Blass, of P. O. Box 292, Kingston, N. Y. She writes in part: "My father, the late John W. Herdman, was conductor on the Catskill Mountain Division and spent some 52 years of railroading. He was retired from the New York Central Railroad about 1937. I can recall his tales of running up the Kaaterskill Branch when it was Narrow Gauge and also when the old horse cars were still running in Kingston. On looking through some of his papers I found he had copied item when Engine 999 broke the 80 m.p.h. speed record in 1893. I am enclosing copy of it, perhaps some old veteran railroaders may enjoy it."

"Old 999 did better than 100 miles an hour in 1893! On a bright spring afternoon in 1893, Charley Hogan, crack engineer of the New York Central Empire State Express, took off the bridle of Engine 999 to see what she could do, and 999 hung up a world speed record that lasted 41 years, until the advent of the streamline Diesel trains. After the Central's new pet had been babied through preliminary tests at 80 miles an hour, President Webb called in three veteran enginemen. He asked each one if he felt he could make a record-breaking run. Two hesitated. The third, Charley Hogan, an old timer who had bucked everything from snow to Indiana replied instantly, "I can do it." He was assigned the job. The test was to take place on the Division between Syracuse and Buffalo.

"The train carried four coaches with many celebrities on board, and three men with stop watches to check each other on time records. Hogan rolled along at a casual 80 miles an hour, slowing down for curves until he passed Rochester and reached Batavia. Here began 36 miles of straightaway track. A few miles ran slightly upgrade. Then there was a stretch of 14 miles on dead level. Charley opened the throttle a bit and 999 leaped ahead 90 miles an hour for one mile, another mile at 95, another at 97 and then 112½ miles an hour. Thus he broke the record of 80 miles an hour

"Charley Hogan and 999 was to go to the World's Fair that year at Chicago so all could see the famous locomotive and the more famous engineer who made the record-breaking run. The locomotive was there but without its famous engineer. You see, Charley Hogan had got the forward signal and gone into the clear, passing away just before his 90th birthday."

Received the "Kingston Daily Express" dated Wednesday, October 29th, 1911, which was published right on my own block, where Netburns have their plumbing supply company now. This 40-year-old paper was sent to me by the Warren Smiths, who are truly interested in local history, for just recently an offer was made to them to sell their old stone house, where their home and business is on the corner of John and Crown streets. It is called the old Jensen House. It seems, there was also such an offer made to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Belefas, who have another handsome old stone house on the other corner, but both families refused these offers. They do not wish these historical stone houses to be torn down for gas stations. Their refusal to sell was brought to the attention of Dr. Albert Corey, state historian, who calls such old stone houses, "historic documents." He says that they certainly should be preserved, and from time to time open to the public. He said the Smiths and Belefas families should be highly commended and that the entire community should be grateful to them.

The CIO and AFL contend that big business would get most of the $600,000,000 the labor organizations say would be taken from the job-less insurance pool to set up the individual employer accounts.

Conditions Are Critical

New York, March 12 (AP)—A landscape gardener and his estranged wife were both in a critical condition today after a reconciliation attempt yesterday ended in a stabbing. Police said the husband, Charles Nemeth, 49, stabbed his wife several times with a 10-inch kitchen knife, then plunged from her father's third-floor Manhattan apartment after stabbing himself in the abdomen. Nemeth had been estranged from his wife, Claire, 36, since last Christmas. They have a home at (30 McKenna avenue) Baldwin, N. Y.

Bard Students Visit State Capitol

Nine foreign scholarship students of Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, were in Albany last week to watch the Legislature in action, meet with Governor Dewey and visit points of interest connected with the state government.

The students are participants in a program for foreign students sponsored in part by the U. S. State Department and administered by the Institute of International Education in New York. They were under the leadership of Prof. William Frauenfelder, faculty adviser to foreign students at Bard College.

Two of the students—Herbert Speckner, 19, and Gunther Remmling, 21—recently hitch-hiked 5,500 miles through more than a dozen states in an effort to gain a better understanding of the country. Another—Paul Kolda—managed to cross the border of Czechoslovakia last fall and is now residing with his father, who is a United Nations film production official in New York. The other students are from Holland, France, Israel, Norway, Switzerland, and Colombia, South America.

During their visit to Albany, the students first met with Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, a trustee of Bard college. After watching a Senate committee meeting and witnessing the Senate session, they were taken on a tour of inspection of the capitol and the Education Building and then were received by Governor Dewey.

Railroads Granted

tendency to discourage short-haul passenger traffic.

In a memorandum, Eddy said a decline in short-haul business inevitably leads to curtailment in service or abandonment of branch lines with detrimental results to the economy of communities affected.

The PSC said the New York Central Railroad would receive the greatest amount of additional revenue—about $2,200,000 a year.

Other Lines Affected

Other railroads affected and the estimated additional revenue for each:

Delaware and Hudson, $90,000; Erie, $33,000; Lackawanna, $25,000; Lehigh Valley, $14,000; Baltimore and Ohio, $6,000; Pennsylvania, $2,500; Boston and Maine, $2,000; Rutland, $500, and the Nickel Plate, less than $200.

In 1949, twelve railroads sought higher intrastate fares. However the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and the New York Ontario and Western withdrew during a rehearing of the petition last year.

Fares of the Long Island Rail Road were not involved. The commuter line is seeking a basic fare boost in another proceeding.

Midwest Weather Is Still Like Winter

(By The Associated Press)

The weather over most of the midwest today was more like the midwinter variety than the approach of spring.

As much as 22 inches of snow lay on the ground in northwestern Iowa with an average depth of from six to eight inches in the state. The snowfall was general and heavy in spots over all the northern midwest and was continuing early today in Minnesota, Iowa, western sections of South Dakota and Nebraska and northwestern Illinois.

In Missouri and southern Illinois, on the southern edge of the storm, sleet and freezing rain snapped power and communications lines.

Temperatures generally were below normal over all the nation except in California and along the eastern Gulf of Mexico. Williston, N. D., with 13 below zero, was the coldest spot reported.

Jersey Man Hurt As Trucks Collide

Two trailer trucks collided on Route 9W about 100 feet south of the Rondout Creek bridge at 3:30 a. m. today.

The operator of one of the vehicles, Bosilaw Zuskowski, 28, of Passaic, N. J., was treated at Kingston Hospital for head injuries following the accident, state police reported.

The truck Zuskowski was driving, owned by Liberty Fast Freight, Glenmont, was considerably damanged to its left front end and had to be towed from the scene.

The other vehicle, owned by Maislin Brothers of Greenwich street, New York, and operated by Edward Germain of Albany, received damage to the left rear of its trailer, troopers reported.

Zuskowski told troopers that he was driving north on Route 9W when his vehicle collided with the other, which Zuskowski alleged was traveling south and passing two other vehicles at the time, state police reported.

Is Sole Importer

Washington, March 10 (AP)—The government today made itself the sole importer and seller of tin to end what a Senate committee has called price "gouging" by foreign sellers. The National Production Authorities also ordered all American users of pig tin under allocation control as of May 1, but made a temporary increase in tin usage possible starting next month to provide for the packing of perishable crops.

Knowland Disputes Connally Statement

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) disputed today a contention by Senator Connally (D-Tex.) that congressional squabbling is postponing U. S. reinforcements for the western Europe defense army.

Connally told a week-end news conference that some lawmakers are trying to "hamstring and delay the sending of troops to Europe."

Knowland told a reporter, however, he is "unimpressed" by the argument that congressional action on the issue will hold up troop movements.

New York May Ask Tax on Pay Rolls

Albany, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—New York city may seek legislative approval to levy a one per cent, employer-paid pay roll tax, informed sources say.

They indicated last night that Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri's administration might seek the pay roll tax instead of permission to raise the city's sales tax from two to three per cent.

A one per cent pay roll tax would produce about $95,000,000 a year for New York city, fiscal sources estimated. The sales tax increase would bring in about $65,000,000 a year.

The city board of estimate was reported ready to discuss the pay roll tax today.

Scheduled to Adjourn

The Republican-controlled legislature is scheduled to adjourn Friday. A Democratic bill to authorize the sales tax boost already has been approved by the Senate Finance Committee. G.O.P. chiefs have predicted it will get legislative approval.

Impellitteri was in Albany over the weekend for the legislative correspondents' annual dinner and show. He reportedly discussed the pay roll tax with the Democratic minority leaders, Senator Elmer F. Quinn and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut.

Democratic Leaders Agree

Steingut and Quinn sponsored the sales tax proposal, but it was reported last night that they agreed to press for the pay roll tax.

Some observers see the pay roll tax as a Democratic maneuver to counteract opposition to the proposed sales tax increase.

They also see it as a possible device to get permission for the increased sales tax without a time limit. There has been talk that G.O.P. legislators might amend the proposal to set a termination date for the three per cent taxing power—possibly two years hence. The Quinn-Steingut bill would make the power permanent.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Received another interesting letter from Mrs. Irene K. Blass, of P. O. Box 292, Kingston, N. Y. She writes in part: "My father, the late John W. Herdman, was conductor on the Catskill Mountain Division and spent some 52 years of railroading. He was retired from the New York Central Railroad about 1937. I can recall his tales of running up the Kaaterskill Branch when it was Narrow Gauge and also when the old horse cars were still running in Kingston. On looking through some of his papers I found he had copied item when Engine 999 broke the 80 m.p.h. speed record in 1893. I am enclosing copy of it, perhaps some old veteran railroaders may enjoy it."

"Old 999 did better than 100 miles an hour in 1893! On a bright spring afternoon in 1893, Charley Hogan, crack engineer of the New York Central Empire State Express, took off the bridle of Engine 999 to see what she could do, and 999 hung up a world speed record that lasted 41 years, until the advent of the streamline Diesel trains. After the Central's new pet had been babied through preliminary tests at 80 miles an hour, President Webb called in three veteran enginemen. He asked each one if he felt he could make a record-breaking run. Two hesitated. The third, Charley Hogan, an old timer who had bucked everything from snow to Indiana replied instantly, "I can do it." He was assigned the job. The test was to take place on the Division between Syracuse and Buffalo.

"The train carried four coaches with many celebrities on board, and three men with stop watches to check each other on time records. Hogan rolled along at a casual 80 miles an hour, slowing down for curves until he passed Rochester and reached Batavia. Here began 36 miles of straight-away track. A few miles ran slightly upgrade. Then there was a stretch of 14 miles on dead level. Charley opened the throttle a bit and 999 leaped ahead 90 miles an hour for one mile, another mile at 95, another at 97 and then 112½ miles an hour. Thus he broke the record of 80 miles an hour

"Charley Hogan and 999 was to go to the World's Fair that year at Chicago so all could see the famous locomotive and the more famous engineer who made the record-breaking run. Two hesitated. The locomotive was there but without its famous engineer. You see, Charley Hogan had got the forward signal and gone into the clear, passing away just before his 90th birthday."

Received the "Kingston Daily Express" dated Wednesday, October 29th, 1911, which was published right on my own block, where Netburns have their plumbing supply company now. This 40-year-old paper was sent to me by the Warren Smiths, who are truly interested in local history, for just recently an offer was made to them to sell their old stone house, where their home and business is on the corner of John and Crown streets. It is called the old Jensen House. It seems, there was also such an offer made to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Belefas, who have another handsome old stone house on the other corner, but both families refused these offers. They do not wish these historical stone houses to be torn down for gas stations. Their refusal to sell was brought to the attention of Dr. Albert Corey, state historian, who calls such old stone houses, "historic documents." He says that they certainly should be preserved, and from time to time open to the public. He said the Smiths and Belefas families should be highly commended and that the entire community should be grateful to them.

Two Are Killed

Friday. When the well digger was not around Saturday, Kelley said he went to the third-floor room and found the door locked.

When Mrs. Bertha Mlodinoff, of the Bronx, made her weekly visit to the resort Sunday and heard that Babcock hadn't been seen, she called police. Kelley and State Trooper Patrick Shea broke into Babcock's room and found the bodies.

Big Battle

bear a disproportionately heavy share of the burden.

"This year giant corporate interests are trying to extend this merit-rating formula even further so that they will bear virtually none of the cost of unemployment insurance.

"Big business is out to get for itself a $600,000,000 kick-back from the unemployment insurance fund—money that rightfully belongs to the working men and women of the state."

The CIO and AFL contend that big business would get most of the $600,000,000 the labor organizations say would be taken from the job-less insurance pool to set up the individual employer accounts.

Track Counsel

given him by the newspapers was the most unfair thing in the world."

"Did you always believe him?" the counsel asked.

"Many times I did, many times I did not," Levy said.

Asked why he had chosen Costello instead of big time gambler Frank Erickson to rout bookmakers from the track, Levy said:

"Erickson would have about as much influence as you."

Erickson, once head of a $12,500,000-a-year bookie empire, is now serving a two-year prison term for gambling.

Two days after Costello went to work for him, Levy said, complaints of bookmaking at the track ceased. Levy said he didn't know how Costello did the job.

Says Nation Is Ready

Belgrade, March 12 (AP)—Premier Marshal Tito told 1,000 war veterans yesterday this country is ready to again "saturate" its soil with blood to repel Russian-inspired aggression. "Every foot of our land is saturated with blood, but—if it is necessary—we will saturate it again with blood and it will remain ours," he told the veterans' rally.

White Nominated By Young G.O.P.

F. Clifton White, of Ithaca, incumbent president of the Association of New York Young Republican Clubs, has been nominated for another term.

The board of governors of the association, at its quarterly meeting here Saturday, also nominated:

Vice president, Wilma Sivertsen, Mannattan; chairman of the board of governors, William Rusher, Manhattan; secretary, Joseph Jaspan, Brooklyn; treasurer, William B. Groat, Jr., Queens; national representative, Carl Spad; and eastern states representative, Stephen Quade, Lake George.

Saratoga Springs was suggested as a site for the May convention, but no decision was made.

Beers Fined $25

Charles Beers, 39, of R.D. 1, Woodstock was fined $25 by Justice of the Peace George Braendly of Zena Saturday afternoon on a charge that he maintained unmarked traps. Beers was arrested by Henry Bernstein, district game protector. The Conservation Department's records show Beers since January 1 had been fined $27.50 by Justice Joseph Fitzsimmons on a charge of possessing 11 muskrat skins allegedly obtained during the closed season, and $12.50 by Justice Percy Bush on a charge that he failed to visit his traps within a 24-hour period.
